U. S. FEARS GREEK "EXPLOSION"

Invading Army Caught In Trap By Greek Force

Guerrilla Drive Reported Stopped

ATHENS, July 15 (AP) — Air-borne Greek Army reinforcements halted abruptly today a drive by 2,500 savagely fighting guerrilla troops 19 miles from their objective, the Epirian Capital of Ioannina in Northwestern Greece, and enveloped them in a trap from which they "cannot escape," a cabinet minister said tonight.

The guerrilla drive, which the Greek Government contended originated in Albania, was stopped short at the village of Negradhes, 19 miles north of Ioannina (Janina) during the first clash between government troops and the insurgent band.

Threat Dissipated

The Government Minister said it had not been determined on how large a scale the battle at Negradhes had been waged, but that the government was confident the threat to Ioannina and its population of 20,000 had been dissipated.

War Minister George Stratos said that two army brigades of 1,500 men each moving down on the guerrilla forces from the north and a third brigade moving against them from the opposite direction had halted the menace to Ioannina.

The guerrillas "cannot escape and they have to give battle," Stratos declared.

A source close to the Greek General Staff said a "showdown" battle between the Army and the guerrillas, who began a surprise offensive Sunday, moving against the village of Konitsa with military precision and full war equipment, probably would take place soon in the region of the village of Yeroplatanos, 25 miles north of Ioannina.

Guerrillas in the area of Yeroplatanos and nearby Vasilikon, a few miles to the north, now are surrounded, he said, while nine miles west of Yeroplatanos the insurgents who were repulsed at Konitsa now are trapped by two Greek brigades.

Stratos said his government had ascertained there were large concentrations of arms and military supplies at three points in Albania just over the Greek frontier and at three points in Yugoslavia.

20 Prisoners Captured

He added that 20 guerrilla prisoners admitted that the "invasion" force included contingents of an "international brigade."

The War Minister said that members of the United Nations Balkan Investigation Subcommission, currently probing Greek Border Incidents, returned to Salonika today after viewing certain battle grounds "convinced" the current attacks in Northwest Greece were launched in Albania.

The subcommission, he said, would return to Konitsa, which he described as now entirely "free," to question guerrilla prisoners.

Despite government victories at Konitsa and Negradhes, there was some speculation here those guerrilla attacks had been diversionary operations to screen even greater actions planned in the Florina and Kastoria regions, just south of the Yugoslav border.

Negro Wins Auto But Can't Have It

AHOSKIE, N. C., July 15 (AP)—A 22-year-old negro World War II veteran who said he held the lucky number in a drawing for a $3,200 Cadillac but who added he was denied the automobile because negroes were barred from the scene of the drawing accepted the outcome philosophically today.

The negro was Harvey Jones, a resident of this Northeastern North Carolina community, who said today:

"The sheriff told me I had the lucky number, but I couldn't win the car, because it wasn't for colored people."

Reuters Manager Dies

LONDON, July 15 (AP)—William Ledebur Murray, 70, former European General Manager of Reuters, died last night at his London home, it was announced today.

Murray joined Reuters in 1899, became secretary of the company in 1923 and served as European general manager from 1932 until his retirement in 1937.

OVERWHELMING VICTOR—Edward A. Garmatz, (above) who had the personal backing of Baltimore's Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro, yesterday defeated his two opponents by polling 12,179 votes in the Third Congressional District for the House of Representatives seat vacated by the Mayor last May.

Garmatz Elected To D'Alesandro's Seat In Congress

Democrat Scores Overwhelming Win

BALTIMORE, July 14—(AP)—Edward A. Garmatz, Baltimore Democrat, apparently was an overwhelming victor over two opponents in today's by-election to fill the House of Representatives seat vacated by Thomas D'Alesandro when he became Mayor of the city in May.

Complete unofficial returns from the Third Congressional District's 104 precincts gave Garmatz 12,179 votes, to 3,776 for Republican Edward Panetti and 7,070 for Democratic City Councilman Simon P. Jarosinski who ran as an independent.

Garmatz ran with the backing of D'Alesandro and the Democratic State Central Committee. The campaign was waged on local issues, although National attention was focused on it when Philip Murray, National President of the CIO, endorsed Garmatz in an action which may provide for a test of the Taft-Hartley Bill provision barring union-financed newspapers from participating in political campaigns.

Murray's endorsement was printed in the CIO News Monday in the form of an editorial.

Garmatz said, however, he had never discussed his politics or qualifications with Murray or any other CIO representative.

Simon P. Jarosinski, Democratic City councilman who ran as an Independent, and Edward S. Panetti, the Republican nominee, said the same thing.

Murray described Panetti as "notorious among working men and women of Baltimore for his anti-union views and activities." Panetti is counsel for one local labor union.

Prisoner Is Wounded In Attempted Break

JESSUPS, Md., July 15 (AP) — House of Correction guards opened fire today when three prisoners made a dash for freedom, wounding one and stopping the other two, Superintendent of Prisons Harold Donnell reported.

The escape attempt occurred during the afternoon recreation hour.

Donnell said the three prisoners—Carlo De Angelis, 22; Robert Thompson, 27, and Aldine Carroll, 27—suddenly made a dash for a low spot in the barbed wire fence enclosing the recreation area.

A guard called on them to halt and then fired his shotgun. Carroll fell, his lower back peppered with buckshot.

Thompson got halfway to the fence before Guard John C. Williams grabbed him by the heels and tossed him to the ground.

De Angelis managed to scale the 10-foot fence and dodged behind cars in a parking area outside as a guard fired at him with a rifle.

Other guards carrying shotguns rushed up, surrounded the area, and De Angelis was recaptured.

Carroll was treated in the prison infirmary and the other two placed in solitary confinement.

De Angelis was serving five years for attempted robbery; Thompson three years for larceny and Carroll 18 months for burglary.

"Stable Germany" Is Goal Of U. S. In Revised Policy

Makes Marshall Plan Available

BERLIN, July 15 (AP)—The United States Government, announcing a revised policy toward Germany, declared today "a stable and productive Germany," with a higher standard of living was essential to European recovery and lasting peace.

The new policy, first over-all American directive on Germany since the end of the war — apparently opens the way for German participation in the Marshall proposal for European reconstruction.

The new directive was sent to Gen. Lucius D. Clay, U. S. Military Governor, by U. S. State, War and Navy Departments. It represented an updating of American occupation policy, which officially had been based largely upon the old joint chiefs of staff directive to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and the Military Government dated April 16, 1945, three weeks before the end of the war.

Lays Down Objectives

The new 6,000 word directive laid down American objectives and basic policies to be pursued in the U. S. administration of still-partitioned Germany. It contained especially in its economic aspects, some policy revisions which were stated officially and publicly for the first time.

U. S. Military Government leaders here said they regarded the document as the most important American statement on Germany since the speech of former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes in Stuttgart last fall, when he advocated the return of self-government to the Germans as quickly as possible.

Gen. Clay said that he regarded the "most important" part of the directive "the fact that it recognizes the essential part which Germany has in the revival of the economy of Europe as a whole and provides for the participation of Germany in European revival."

Maj. Gen. William H. Draper, chief economic adviser to Clay, said the new economic policy was a public and official discarding of the Potsdam and war era proposals which envisioned a pastoral Germany and a stern peace.

The U. S. directive made it plain that America wants Germany demilitarized permanently. It said that "there should be no relaxation of effort to complete and effectively maintain the disarmament and demilitarization of Germany."

But it added that, within the limits of these "necessary restraints" Germany should be permitted to raise her standard of living by development of her resources and should be aided in achieving a self-sustaining economy.

Statements Interpreted

Statements on economy and reparations in the directive also were interpreted as putting into force an American policy expressed at the Moscow Foreign Ministers' meeting last March and April: that the United States would not agree to permit Russia to extract reparations goods out of Germany while the American taxpayer was obliged to pour in funds to keep Germany alive.

Keynote of the directive was contained in the section headed: "United States policy toward Germany," which read in part:

"The basic interest of the United States throughout the world is just and lasting peace. Such a peace can be achieved only if conditions of public order and prosperity are created in Europe as a whole. An orderly and prosperous Europe requires the economic contributions of a stable and productive Germany as well as the necessary restraints to insure that Germany is not allowed to revive its destructive militarism."

G. M. Will Halt Auto Production For Week's Time

Blames Action On Steel 'Condition'

DETROIT, July 15 (AP) — A decision to halt passenger car production for one week, with a layoff of 180,000 workers, was announced by General Motors tonight because of the steel industry's "disturbed conditions."

The big corporation, which makes about half of America's motorcars, said reduced steel inventories traceable to the "coal-mining situation" of early July were responsible.

May Not Be General

First indications were that the production halt would not be general in the automobile industry, however. Other major manufacturers available for comment indicated they had no similar, immediate plans.

General Motors will carry out its production halt on a staggered nation-wide basis.

First to be affected will be Michigan's Plants of GM. Assembly operations at these will cease for a week starting Monday and 115,000 men will be laid off, a corporation spokesman said.

On the first or second week to follow, plants outside Michigan will follow suit, laying off another 65,000 the spokesman said.

The steel shortage, GM said, makes it "impossible" to continue manufacturing operations "at this time on a full-time basis."

General Motors' announcement was made by President C. E. Wilson in a formal statement.

"Due to the disturbed conditions in the steel industry caused by the coal-mining situation during the first two weeks of July," Wilson said, "delivery of steel to General Motors has been reduced to such a low level that all passenger car production will have to be shut down for one week to allow us to accumulate sufficient working inventory."

Ford Plans No Action

The Ford Motor Company said through a spokesman that it was contemplating "no such action at the present time."

Officials of Chrysler Corporation, third of the auto industry's "big three," were not available for comment, but unofficial sources said there had been no reports to indicate a closing.

The GM closing will affect all its assembly lines in Michigan next week, including Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Buick and Cadillac, as well as GM's Fisher Body Plants.

Car and body assembly plants outside Michigan will be shut down "after materials on hand and en route are used up," Wilson said.

The bulk of GM's production is centered in Michigan.

Trucks will not be affected. Wilson pointed out that truck production recently was curtailed for model changes.

GOP Admits Tax Bill Dead Issue

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP) — Republican leaders, acknowledging that their latest $4,000,000,000 Income Tax Cut Bill is as good as dead, made ready today to throw the issue into the 1948 Presidential campaign.

The White House disclosed that the President's veto of the measure would be sent to Capitol Hill this week, probably Friday. Barring some unforeseen development, its backers lack enough Senate votes to pass it over the veto.

House Speaker Martin (R-Mass.) told reporters "it looks like we must have a Republican President before we can have tax reduction."

Chairman Knutson (R-Minn.) of the House Ways and Means Committee, author of the tax slashing bill, said that if the veto Mr. Truman has promised is upheld, "this probably will be the end of the prospect of tax relief" in 1948.

He declared:

"The tax issue will be carried into the 1948 campaign. If submitted to the voters—there are 49,500,000 taxpayers—it would be a very, very lively campaign issue.

"It looks as though any attempt to get individual income tax reduction will be futile as long as Truman is in the White House. It would be absolutely futile to go up against a third veto."

Moreover, Knutson said there probably will be no individual income tax reduction in the 1948 General Tax Revision Bill, except for application of the community property principle of tax computation to all states. This permits husbands and wives to divide their income for tax purposes and often makes the tax payments lower.

Nimitz In Hospital

WASHINGTON July 15 (AP) —The Navy said today that its 62-year-old chief of Naval Operations, Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, has entered Bethesda Naval Hospital for treatment of an inflammation of the right leg.

His condition is not serious, the Navy said, and he is expected to be out in about a week.

QUAKE-STRICKEN CITY—Widespread damage was caused Monday by a violent earthquake at Pasto, Colombia, but only seven of the city's 50,000 inhabitants were reported injured. No fatalities were recorded. There was speculation that the temblor that rocked the city might have been caused by eruption of Mt. Pasto Volcano, (above) at the foot of which the city is situated.

Aid Conference Completes Work Of Organizing

Is Last Plenary Session For Now

PARIS, July 15 (AP)—Swiftly and without division, the 16-nation European economic conference completed today its blueprint of an organization to draft and administer continental reconstruction outside the aloof Russian sphere, under the Marshall Plan of United States aid.

The conference's third plenary session, meeting for only 45 minutes, unanimously approved a rules committee recommendation to establish a general "committee of co-operation," or Steering Committee, a five-nation Executive Board and four Technical boards.

Will Survey Europe

The lesser committees will survey Europe's resources and dollar needs by September 1. Delegates perused with care Secretary of State Marshall's address in Salt Lake City last night indicating the program would not be submitted to Congress before January.

Paul-Henri Spaak, the Belgian Premier, summed up by paraphrasing an old French proverb: "Help yourself and Heaven will help you." Instead of Heaven, he substituted the United States.

Apparently referring to Russia and the eight eastern and southern European states in its sphere, Spaak said:

"We have often heard talk of the sovereignty of states. Experience shows that there is a tendency to invoke sovereignty as a cloak for aggressive nationalism or a selfish economic policy. We think that soviereignty should be used as something to promote a constructive spirit of co-operation. I think we can establish an organization for the common good without it being considered a menace or a disagreeable action."

Russia Out Of Conference

With Russia outside the conference were Albania, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Finland, Hungary, Poland, Romania and Yugoslavia. The countries represent about 280,000,000 people.

Nations inside the conference were Austria, Belgium, Denmark, France, Greece, Iceland, Eire, Italy, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, Norway, Portugal, Sweden, Switzerland, Turkey and the United Kingdom—with some 218,000,000 persons. Spain was not invited.

Atlantic, Gulf Coast Shipping Strike Likely

Union Says Pact Must Be Reached

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP) — Walter H. Oakes, CIO shipbuilding Union official, said today the "entire Atlantic and Gulf Coast Shipbuilding Industry will be shut down" unless the union reaches contract agreements by July 23.

Oakes, Washington representatives of the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers (CIO), told reporters that about 25,000 more shipyard workers will join approximately 67,000 now on strike unless agreements are made with the Todd Shipbuilding Corp.

Agreements Expires July 23

The agreements with Todd, he said, expire July 23, and the walkout would affect about 15,000 workers in the New York City area, about 5,000 in New Orleans and about 5,000 in San Pedro, Calif. He said 67,000 workers already are on strike at 19 shipyards on the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts.

Oakes made these statements as he and other union officials, including John Green, Union President, waited for more than two hours in a fruitless attempt to present to Congressmen the organization's progra mfor increasing the size of the nation's merchant fleet.

Union officials had set up a projector to be used in an illustrated lecture on the subject: "The nation that invented the steamship must now use it." All members of Congress had been invited to attend.

The union proposes that the U. S. Maritime Commission be granted funds immediately to subsidize construction of 59 new merchant vessels.

Meeting Postponed

Oakes said the meeting, scheduled for 4 p. m., had been aranged by Senator Brewster (R-Me) and Representatives Wolverton (R-NJ) and Weichel (R-Ohio). However, both the Senate and the House were still in session at 6 p. m. and the union officials decided to postpone their meeting until tomorrow in hopes that the Congressmen may be free to attend then.

Oakes said the shipyard workers are demanding an average pay increase of 13 cents an hour, pay for six holidays not worked, a 1.8 cents per hour per worker payment to an equity fund to adjust wages of lower paid employes, and improved vacation schedules.

Two Die As Plane Strikes Phone Pole

LURAY, Va., July 15 (AP)—Two men were burned to death today when a single engine C-64 plane crashed into a telephone pole about nine miles from Luray on Route 211.

From papers found in the plane, which state police said was carrying a cargo of chickens, the dead were identified as: Francis and Arthur H. Watrous, brothers, of Meriden, Connecticut.

State police were reported to have contacted the Fleet Wing Cargo Corp., of Wallingford, Conn., by telephone and to have been informed that the plane left there about noon today, and was bound for Clarksburg, W. Va.

School Probe Ordered

BALTIMORE, July 15 (AP) — Thomas B. Sprague, president of the Board of the Cheltenham School for Boys said today he had ordered a thorough investigation of reported beatings of inmates at the institution, a state training school for negro youths.

NPP Leaders Are Arrested In Romania

Reported Trying To Flee Country

BUCHAREST, Romania, July 15 (AP)—Several leading members of the principal government opposition, the National Peasant Party, were arrested Monday at Tamadau Airport just outside Bucharest while trying to flee to another country, it was announced tonight.

Among those arrested were Ion Mihalache, vice-president of the party; Nicholae Penescu, its secretary-general, and Dr. Constantin Gafnko, a prominent member.

Party President Held

Dr. Iuliu Maniu, president of the party, is being held incommunicado at a sanitarium in Bucharest which he entered six days ago for treatment.

The arrests were confirmed tonight by the Ministry of Internal Affairs, which issued a communique saying:

"Full of hate for the popular Democratic regime and wanting to overthrow the regime; being implicated in the criminal actions of elements hostile to the people and afraid of the responsibilities before justice and the people's anger at the illegalities they have committed, several leaders of the National Peasant Party, at the direct order of Iuliu Maniu, attempted on July 14 to escape to a foreign country.

"For that purpose they bribed several pilots of the Military Air Force.

"State security police on July 14 at seven o'clock arrested at Tamadau Airport x x x as they tried to escape by boarding a plane the following leaders of the National Peasant Party and their accomplices:

"Ion Mihalache, vice-president of the National Peasant Party.

"Nicholae Penescu, secretary-general of the party.

"Elena Penescu, wife of the secretary-general.

"Ilie Lazar, member of the Central Committee of the party.

"Nicholae Carandino, former editor of the party newspaper.

Actress Among Group

"Lily Carandino, his wife and well-known Romanian actress.

"Dr. Constantin Gafnko, prominent member of the party.

"George Popescu, engineer and party member."

The arrests apparently preceded a raid on party headquarters staged by police Monday night. Several party members found on the premises also were arrested.

The National Peasant Party opposes the policies of the six-party pro-government leftist bloc.

Governors Back Marshall's Plan

SALT LAKE CITY, July 15 (AP) — The nation's governors coupled tonight support of the Marshall plan with moves toward endorsement of the widespread military preparedness program.

The governors' conference resolutions committee is studying four national preparedness resolutions. One is likely to be submitted to the 43 governors in attendance for a vote tomorrow.

Secretary of State Marshall's plea here for support of his program to aid Europe drew a generally favorable program from the govenors.

Gov. Herbert B. Maw, Utah Democrat, said he will ask for the Resolutions Committee, of which he is a member, to draft and report out a resolution formally endorsing the secretary's program.

Meanwhile J. Strom Thurmond, South Carolina Democrat, told his colleagues at a luncheon that the United States must begin immediately on a widescale for any eventuality.

"One of our great allies in the recent war has embarked on what appears to be a policy of isolationism," he said. "One group of European nations is meeting in Paris in an effort to design plans for rehabilitation of war-devastated Europe. Another group, under the leadership of the Soviet union, has remained away from the Paris conference."

"This choosing up of sides in Europe x x x is following a policy that leads to war and not to peace," Thurmond declared.

He urged universal military training, merger of the armed services, legislation providing for total mobilization in case of war, uniform hemispheric defensive training and armament, and research "to stay ahead of the world."

Urges Action In UN To Halt Peace Threat

Special Meeting On Balkans Asked

LAKE SUCCESS, July 15—(AP)—The United States told the United Nations Security Council today that the situation in Greece "might burst into an explosion any day" and urged delegates to meet continuously to quell the threat to world peace.

"A situation is developing dangerously along the Greek-Albanian border which might burst into an explosion any day," Deputy Delegate Herschel V. Johnson said soberly. "The events of the past few days indicate that the situation has worsened.

Urges Commission Formation

"The United States urges the Security Council to proceed with all possible dispatch in setting up this (border watch) commission."

Johnson asked the council to hold two special meetings tomorrow and to vote "as soon as possible" on proposals to end the border disturbances.

The council voted down Johnson's appeal for two meetings tomorrow after Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko objected on the grounds that the U. N. schedule was filled and he could see no reason for the council "to blindly follow the Greeks in this noise."

Britain, Australia, Syria, Belgium and Brazil supported the United States on the ballot. The motion lost because seven votes were needed. No negative vote was taken. The other members are Colombia, Russia, Poland, China and France.

The council then decided to meet twice on Thursday and once on Friday. It adjourned at 6:44 p. m. (EDT).

Nesti Kerenxhi, Albanian representative, told the council that a so-called "international brigade" was merely a repetition of previous reports—"completely without foundation"—spread by Greek officials.

"The lies from Greek sources—intended for the outside world—cannot stand up for a single minute," he added.

Yugoslavia said the reports were without foundation and the situation was not as difficult as it had been pictured by some delegates.

Greek Ambassador Vassili Dendramis retorted quickly that "there have been real battles going along the Albanian border for two days." He backed Johnson's appeal for speed on a decision.

Hints At Compromise

In his plea for speed, Johnson gave the first indication that the United States might be ready to compromise on sections of its demands. He said he was willing to stress conciliation but noted that certain sections such as establishment of the commission were "fundamental."

Earlier, French Delegate Alexandre Parodi called attention to the "grave" reports from Greece and counseled delegates to "keep calm."

He urged delegates to await full confirmation of dispatches before forming conclusions and cautioned that the council must confine its actions to limits of the U. N. charter.

He agreed with the American demand for a semi-permanent Border Commission, but suggested it to be comprised of small neutral states rather than the 11 council members, which include the major powers. The French delegate also stressed that conciliation should be the watchword of the group which would operate with great "moral authority."

Dr. Alfonso Lopez, Colombia, also sought to inject a compromise on the American plan by asking for a seven-nation commission which would have headquarters outside the Balkans.

Lopez said Greece had "become a frontier between the east and the west in an idelogical war" and this was making the solution difficult.

Catonsville Girl Drowned, Dr. Says

BALTIMORE, July 15 (AP) — Dr. George Merrill, city medical examiner, today returned a verdict of "death by drowning" in the case of Anne Ryan, 14-year-old Catonsville girl missing since Saturday night.

Her body was found today in a Patapsco River millrace near Oella.

Merrill said there were bruises about the face, resulting from the battering of the millrace current, but no evidence of foul play.

Walter Donaldson, Author Of Many Hit Songs, Dies After Long Illness

SANTA MONICA, Calif., July 15 (AP)—Walter Donaldson, 53-year-old author of "Yes Sir, That's My Baby," and many other song hits, died at his home today after nearly a year's illness of a liver ailment.

His life had been despaired of last November, a few months after he was stricken seriously ill, but he rallied.

A native of Brooklyn, N. Y., he worked in Wall Street before he turned to Tin Pan Alley. His first song, written in 1915, was "We'll Have a Jubilee In My Old Kentucky Home."

His "Daughter of Rosie O'Grady" and "How You Gonna Keep 'Em Down On The Farm?" were hits of the First World War period, during which he spent 16 months entertaining recruits at Camp Upton, N. Y.

He met Irving Berlin while at Upton, and for a time they joined forces.

In 1920 he turned out "My Mammy," which Al Jolson made famous the next year in "Sinbad." He also wrote "My Little Bimbo," "Tired Of Me," "I Wonder Where My Baby Is Tonight," "That Certain Party" and, with the late Gus Kah, "My Buddy."

Fears Of New Inflationary Spree Discounted By 2 Business Leaders

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP) — Two business leaders today discounted fears of a new inflationary spree, and told Congress that Americans have reason to look to the future with confidence.

Here is what they testified before the joint Congressional Committee on the economic report:

1. George M. Humphrey, Pittsburgh, head of the world's largest commercial coal company, who helped negotiate the new contract with John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers:

"The new coal wage contract will do more to stabilize the economy and retard inflation than settlement of any controversy in the industry in several years." He said he thinks it will not affect wages in other industries.

2. Earl Bunting, president of the National Association of Manufacturers:

"Prices are high, as compared to pre-war, but the increase has been less than the rise of wages during the last four months the price level has definitely flattened out."

U. S. FEARS GREEK "EXPLOSION"

Guerrilla Drive Reported Stopped

ATHENS, July 15 (AP) — Air-borne Greek Army reinforcements halted abruptly today a drive by 2,500 savagely fighting guerrilla troops 19 miles from their objective, the Epirian Capital of Ioannina in Northwestern Greece, and enveloped them in a trap from which they "cannot escape," a cabinet minister said tonight.

The guerrilla drive, which the Greek Government contended originated in Albania, was stopped short at the village of Negradhes, 19 miles north of Ioannina (Janina) during the first clash between government troops and the insurgent band.

Threat Dissipated

The Government Minister said it had not been determined on how large a scale the battle at Negradhes had been waged, but that the government was confident the threat to Ioannina and its population of 30,000 had been dissipated.

War Minister George Stratos said that two army brigades of 1,500 men each moving down on the guerrilla forces from the north and a third brigade moving against them from the opposite direction had halted the menace to Ioannina.

The guerrillas "cannot escape and they have to give battle," Stratos declared.

A source close to the Greek General Staff said a "showdown" battle between the Army and the guerrillas, who began a surprise offensive Sunday, moving against the village of Konitsa with military precision and full war equipment, probably would take place soon in the region of the village of Yeroplatanos, 25 miles north of Ioannina.

Guerrillas in the area of Yeroplatanos and nearby Vasilikon, a few miles to the north, now are surrounded, he said, while nine miles west of Yeroplatanos the insurgents who were repulsed at Konitsa now are trapped by two Greek brigades.

Stratos said his government had ascertained there were large concentrations of arms and military supplies at three points in Albania just over the Greek frontier and at three points in Yugoslavia.

20 Prisoners Captured

He added that 20 guerrilla prisoners admitted that the "invasion" force included contingents of an "international brigade."

The War Minister said that members of the United Nations Balkan Investigation Subcommission, currently probing Greek Border Incidents, returned to Salonika today after viewing certain battle grounds "convinced" the current attacks in Northwest Greece were launched in Albania.

The subcommission, he said, would return to Konitsa, which he described as now entirely "free," to question guerrilla prisoners.

Despite government victories at Konitsa and Negradhes, there was some speculation here those guerrilla attacks had been diversionary operations to screen even greater actions planned in the Florina and Kastoria regions, just south of the Yugoslav border.

Negro Wins Auto But Can't Have It

AHOSKIE, N. C., July 15 (AP)—A 23-year-old negro World War II veteran who said he held the lucky number in a drawing for a $3,200 Cadillac but who added he was denied the automobile because negroes were barred from the scene of the drawing accepted the outcome philosophically today.

The negro was Harvey Jones, a resident of this Northeastern North Carolina community, who said today:

"The sheriff told me I had the lucky number, but I couldn't win the car, because it wasn't for colored people."

Reuters Manager Dies

LONDON, July 15 (AP)—William Ledebur Murray, 70, former European General Manager of Reuters, died last night at his London home, it was announced today.

Murray joined Reuters in 1899, became secretary of the company in 1923 and served as European general manager from 1932 until his retirement in 1937.

OVERWHELMING VICTOR—Edward A. Garmatz, (above) who had the personal backing of Baltimore's Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro, yesterday defeated his two opponents by polling 12,179 votes in the Third Congressional District for the House of Representatives seat vacated by the Mayor last May.

Garmatz Elected To D'Alesandro's Seat In Congress

Democrat Scores Overwhelming Win

BALTIMORE, July 14—(AP)—Edward A. Garmatz, Baltimore Democrat, apparently was an overwhelming victor over two opponents in today's by-election to fill the House of Representatives seat vacated by Thomas D'Alesandro when he became Mayor of the city in May.

Complete unofficial returns from the Third Congressional District's 104 precincts gave Garmatz 12,179 votes, to 3,776 for Republican Edward Panetti and 7,070 for Democratic City Councilman Simon P. Jarosinski who ran as an independent.

Garmatz ran with the backing of D'Alesandro and the Democratic State Central Committee. The campaign was waged on local issues, although National attention was focused on it when Philip Murray, National President of the CIO, endorsed Garmatz in an action which may provide for a test of the Taft-Hartley Bill provision barring union-financed newspapers from participating in political campaigns.

Murray's endorsement was printed in the CIO News Monday in the form of an editorial.

Garmatz said, however, he had never discussed his politics or qualifications with Murray or any other CIO representative.

Simon P. Jarosinski, Democratic City councilman who ran as an Independent, and Edward S. Panetti, the Republican nominee, said the same thing.

Murray described Panetti as "notorious among working men and women of Baltimore for his anti-union views and activities." Panetti is counsel for one local labor union.

Prisoner Is Wounded In Attempted Break

JESSUPS, Md., July 15 (AP) — House of Correction guards opened fire today when three prisoners made a dash for freedom, wounding one and stopping the other two, Superintendent of Prisons Harold Donnell reported.

The escape attempt occurred during the afternoon recreation hour.

Donnell said the three prisoners—Carlo De Angelis, 22; Robert Thompson, 27, and Aldine Carroll, 27—suddenly made a dash for a low spot in the barbed wire fence enclosing the recreation area.

A guard called on them to halt and then fired his shotgun. Carroll fell, his lower back peppered with buckshot.

Thompson got halfway to the fence before Guard John C. Williams grabbed him by the heels and tossed him to the ground.

De Angelis managed to scale the 10-foot fence and dodged behind cars in a parking area outside as a guard fired at him with a rifle.

Other guards carrying shotguns rushed up, surrounded the area, and De Angelis was recaptured.

Carroll was treated in the prison infirmary and the other two placed in solitary confinement.

De Angelis was serving five years for attempted robbery; Thompson three years for larceny and Carroll 18 months for burglary.

Walter Donaldson, Author Of Many Hit Songs, Dies After Long Illness

SANTA MONICA, Calif., July 15 (AP)—Walter Donaldson, 53-year-old author of "Yes Sir, That's My Baby," and many other song hits, died at his home today after nearly a year's illness of a liver ailment.

His life had been despaired of last November, a few months after he was stricken seriously ill, but he rallied.

A native of Brooklyn, N. Y., he worked in Wall Street before he turned to Tin Pan Alley. His first song, written in 1915, was "We'll Have a Jubilee In My Old Kentucky Home."

His "Daughter of Rosie O'Grady" and "How You Gonna Keep 'Em Down On The Farm?" were hits of the First World War period, during which he spent 16 months entertaining recruits at Camp Upton, N. Y.

He met Irving Berlin while at Upton, and for a time they joined forces.

In 1920 he turned out "My Mammy," which Al Jolson made famous the next year in "Sinbad." He also wrote "My Little Bimbo," "Tired Of Me," "I Wonder Where My Baby Is Tonight," "That Certain Party" and, with the late Gus Kah, "My Buddy."

"Stable Germany" Is Goal Of U. S. In Revised Policy

Makes Marshall Plan Available

BERLIN, July 15 (AP)—The United States Government, announcing a revised policy toward Germany, declared today "a stable and productive Germany," with a higher standard of living was essential to European recovery and lasting peace.

The new policy, first over-all American directive on Germany since the end of the war—apparently opens the way for German participation in the Marshall proposal for European reconstruction.

The new directive was sent to Gen. Lucius D. Clay, U. S. Military Governor, by U. S. State, War and Navy Departments. It represented an updating of American occupation policy, which officially had been based largely upon the old joint chiefs of staff directive to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and the Military Government dated April 16, 1945, three weeks before the end of the war.

Lays Down Objectives

The new 6,000 word directive laid down American objectives and basic policies to be pursued in the U. S. administration of still-partitioned Germany. It contained especially in its economic aspects, some policy revisions which were stated officially and publicly for the first time.

U. S. Military Government leaders here said they regarded the document as the most important American statement on Germany since the speech of former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes in Stuttgart last fall, when he advocated the return of self-government to the Germans as quickly as possible.

Gen. Clay said that he regarded the "most important" part of the directive "the fact that it recognizes the essential part which Germany has in the revival of the economy of Europe as a whole and provides for the participation of Germany in European revival."

Maj. Gen. William H. Draper, chief economic adviser to Clay, said the new economic policy was a public and official discarding of the Potsdam and war era proposals which envisioned a pastoral Germany and a stern peace.

The U. S. directive made it plain that America wants Germany demilitarized permanently. It said that "there should be no relaxation of effort to complete and effectively maintain the disarmament and demilitarization of Germany."

But it added that, within the limits of these "necessary restraints" Germany should be permitted to raise her standard of living by development of her resources and should be aided in achieving a self-sustaining economy.

Statements Interpreted

Statements on economy and reparations in the directive also were interpreted as putting into force an American policy expressed at the Moscow Foreign Ministers' meeting last March and April: that the United States would not agree to permit Russia to extract reparations goods out of Germany while the American taxpayer was obliged to pour in funds to keep Germany alive.

Keynote of the directive was contained in the section headed: "United States policy toward Germany," which read in part:

"The basic interest of the United States throughout the world is just and lasting peace. Such a peace can be achieved only if conditions of public order and prosperity are created in Europe as a whole. An orderly and prosperous Europe requires the economic contributions of a stable and productive Germany as well as the necessary restraints to insure that Germany is not allowed to revive its destructive militarism."

G. M. Will Halt Auto Production For Week's Time

Blames Action On Steel 'Condition'

DETROIT, July 15 (AP) — A decision to halt passenger car production for one week, with a layoff of 180,000 workers, was announced by General Motors tonight because of the steel industry's "disturbed conditions."

The big corporation, which makes about half of America's motorcars, said reduced steel inventories traceable to the "coal-mining situation" of early July were responsible.

May Not Be General

First indications were that the production halt would not be general in the automobile industry, however. Other major manufacturers available for comment indicated they had no similar, immediate plans.

General Motors will carry out its production halt on a staggered nation-wide basis.

First to be affected will be Michigan's Plants of GM. Assembly operations at these will cease for a week starting Monday and 115,000 men will be laid off, a corporation spokesman said.

On the first or second week to follow, plants outside Michigan will follow suit, laying off another 65,000 the spokesman said.

The steel shortage, GM said, makes it "impossible" to continue manufacturing operations "at this time on a full-time basis."

General Motors' announcement was made by President C. E. Wilson in a formal statement.

"Due to the disturbed conditions in the steel industry caused by the coal-mining situation during the first two weeks of July," Wilson said, "delivery of steel to General Motors has been reduced to such a low level that all passenger car production will have to be shut down for one week to allow us to accumulate sufficient working inventory."

Ford Plans No Action

The Ford Motor Company said through a spokesman that it was contemplating "no such action at the present time."

Officials of Chrysler Corporation, third of the auto industry's "big three," were not available for comment, but unofficial sources said there had been no reports to indicate a closing.

The GM closing will affect all its assembly lines in Michigan next week, including Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Buick and Cadillac, as well as GM's Fisher Body Plants.

Car and body assembly plants outside Michigan will be shut down "after materials on hand and en route are used up," Wilson said.

The bulk of GM's production is centered in Michigan.

GOP Admits Tax Bill Dead Issue

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP) — Republican leaders, acknowledging that their latest $4,000,000,000 Income Tax Cut Bill is as good as dead, made ready today to throw the issue into the 1948 Presidential campaign.

The White House disclosed that the President's veto of the measure would be sent to Capitol Hill this week, probably Friday. Barring some unforeseen development, its backers lack enough Senate votes to pass it over the veto.

House Speaker Martin (R-Mass.) told reporters "it looks like we must have a Republican President before we can have tax reduction."

Chairman Knutson (R-Minn.) of the House Ways and Means Committee, author of the tax slashing bill, said that if the veto Mr. Truman has promised is upheld, "this probably will be the end of the prospect of tax relief" in 1948.

He declared:

"The tax issue will be carried into the 1948 campaign. If submitted to the voters—there are 49,500,000 taxpayers—it would be a very, very lively campaign issue.

"It looks as though any attempt to get individual income tax reduction will be futile as long as Truman is in the White House. It would be absolutely futile to go up against a third veto."

Moreover, Knutson said there probably will be no individual income tax reduction in the 1948 General Tax Revision Bill, except for application of the community property principle of tax computation to all states. This permits husbands and wives to divide their income for tax purposes and often makes the tax payments lower.

Nimitz In Hospital

WASHINGTON July 15 (AP) —The Navy said today that its 62-year-old chief of Naval Operations, Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, has entered Bethesda Naval Hospital for treatment of an inflammation of the right leg.

His condition is not serious, the Navy said, and he is expected to be out in about a week.

QUAKE-STRICKEN CITY—Widespread damage was caused Monday by a violent earthquake at Pasto, Colombia, but only seven of the city's 50,000 inhabitants were reported injured. No fatalities were recorded. There was speculation that the temblor that rocked the city might have been caused by eruption of Mt. Pasto Volcano, (above) at the foot of which the city is situated.

Aid Conference Completes Work Of Organizing

Is Last Plenary Session For Now

PARIS, July 15 (AP)—Swiftly and without division, the 16-nation European economic conference completed today its blueprint of an organization to draft and administer continental reconstruction outside the aloof Russian sphere, under the Marshall Plan of United States aid.

The conference's third plenary session, meeting for only 45 minutes, unanimously approved a rules committee recommendation to establish a general "committee of co-operation," or Steering Committee, a five-nation Executive Board and four Technical boards.

Will Survey Europe

The lesser committees will survey Europe's resources and dollar needs by September 1. Delegates perused with care Secretary of State Marshall's address in Salt Lake City last night indicating the program would not be submitted to Congress before January.

Paul-Henri Spaak, the Belgian Premier, summed up by paraphrasing an old French proverb: "Help yourself and Heaven will help you." Instead of Heaven, he substituted the United States.

Apparently referring to Russia and the eight eastern and southern European states in its sphere, Spaak said:

"We have often heard talk of the sovereignty of states. Experience shows that there is a tendency to invoke sovereignty as a cloak for aggressive nationalism or a selfish economic policy. We think that sovereignty should be used as something to promote a constructive spirit of co-operation. I think we can establish an organization for the common good without it being considered a menace or a disagreeable action."

Russia Out Of Conference

With Russia outside the conference were Albania, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Finland, Hungary, Poland, Romania and Yugoslavia. The countries represent about 280,000,000 people.

Nations inside the conference were Austria, Belgium, Denmark, France, Greece, Iceland, Eire, Italy, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, Norway, Portugal, Sweden, Switzerland, Turkey and the United Kingdom—with some 218,000,000 persons. Spain was not invited.

Atlantic, Gulf Coast Shipping Strike Likely

Union Says Pact Must Be Reached

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP) — Walter H. Oakes, CIO shipbuilding Union official, said today the "entire Atlantic and Gulf Coast Shipbuilding Industry will be shut down" unless the union reaches contract agreements by July 23.

Oakes, Washington representatives of the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers (CIO), told reporters that about 25,000 more shipyard workers will join approximately 67,000 now on strike unless agreements are made with the Todd Shipbuilding Corp.

Agreements Expires July 23

The agreements with Todd, he said, expire July 23, and the walkout would affect about 15,000 workers in the New York City area, about 5,000 in New Orleans and about 5,000 in San Pedro, Calif. He said 67,000 workers already are on strike at 19 shipyards on the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts.

Oakes made these statements as he and other union officials, including John Green, Union President, waited for more than two hours in a fruitless attempt to present to Congressmen the organization's progra mfor increasing the size of the nation's merchant fleet.

Union officials had set up a projector to be used in an illustrated lecture on the subject: "The nation that invented the steamship must now use it." All members of Congress had been invited to attend.

The union proposes that the U. S. Maritime Commission be granted funds immediately to subsidize construction of 59 new merchant vessels.

Meeting Postponed

Oakes said the meeting, scheduled for 4 p. m., had been aranged by Senator Brewster (R-Me) and Representatives Wolverton (R-NJ) and Weichel (R-Ohio). However, both the Senate and the House were still in session at 6 p. m. and the union officials decided to postpone their meeting until tomorrow in hopes that the Congressmen may be free to attend then.

Oakes said the shipyard workers are demanding an average pay increase of 13 cents an hour, pay for six holidays not worked, a 1.8 cents per hour per worker payment to an equity fund to adjust wages of lower paid employes, and improved vacation schedules.

Two Die As Plane Strikes Phone Pole

LURAY, Va., July 15 (AP)—Two men were burned to death today when a single engine C-64 plane crashed into a telephone pole about nine miles from Luray on Route 211.

From papers found in the plane, which state police said was carrying a cargo of chickens, the dead were identified as: Francis and Arthur H. Watrous, brothers, of Meriden, Connecticut.

State police were reported to have contacted the Fleet Wing Cargo Corp., of Wallingford, Conn., by telephone and to have been informed that the plane left there about noon today, and was bound for Clarksburg, W. Va.

School Probe Ordered

Reported Trying To Flee Country

BUCHAREST, Romania, July 15 (AP)—Several leading members of the principal government opposition, the National Peasant Party, were arrested Monday at Tamadau Airport just outside Bucharest while trying to flee to another country, it was announced tonight.

Among those arrested were Ion Mihalache, vice-president of the party; Nicholae Penescu, its secretary-general, and Dr. Constantin Gafnko, a prominent member.

Party President Held

Dr. Iuliu Maniu, president of the party, is being held incommunicado at a sanitarium in Bucharest which he entered six days ago for treatment.

The arrests were confirmed tonight by the Ministry of Internal Affairs, which issued a communique saying:

"Full of hate for the popular Democratic regime and wanting to overthrow the regime; being implicated in the criminal actions of elements hostile to the people and afraid of the responsibilities before justice and the people's anger at the illegalities they have committed, several leaders of the National Peasant Party, at the direct order of Iuliu Maniu, attempted on July 14 to escape to a foreign country.

"For that purpose they bribed several pilots of the Military Air Force.

"State security police on July 14 at seven o'clock arrested at Tamadau Airport x x x as they tried to escape by boarding a plane the following leaders of the National Peasant Party and their accomplices:

"Ion Mihalache, vice-president of the National Peasant Party.

"Nicholae Penescu, secretary-general of the party.

"Elena Penescu, wife of the secretary-general.

"Ilie Lazar, member of the Central Committee of the party.

"Nicholae Carandino, former editor of the party newspaper.

Actress Among Group

"Lily Carandino, his wife and well-known Romanian actress.

"Dr. Constantin Gafnko, prominent member of the party.

"George Popescu, engineer and party member."

The arrests apparently preceded a raid on party headquarters staged by police Monday night. Several party members found on the premises also were arrested.

The National Peasant Party opposes the policies of the six-party pro-government leftist bloc.

Governors Back Marshall's Plan

SALT LAKE CITY, July 15 (AP) — The nation's governors coupled tonight support of the Marshall plan with moves toward endorsement of the widespread military preparedness program.

The governors' conference resolutions committee is studying four national preparedness resolutions. One is likely to be submitted to the 43 governors in attendance for a vote tomorrow.

Secretary of State Marshall's plea here for support of his program to aid Europe drew a generally favorable program from the govenors.

Gov. Herbert B. Maw, Utah Democrat, said he will ask for the Resolutions Committee, of which he is a member, to draft and report out a resolution formally endorsing the secretary's program.

Meanwhile J. Strom Thurmond, South Carolina Democrat, told his colleagues at a luncheon that the United States must begin immediately on a widescale for any eventuality.

"One of our great allies in the recent war has embarked on what appears to be a policy of isolationism," he said. "One group of European nations is meeting in Paris in an effort to design plans for rehabilitation of war-devastated Europe. Another group, under the leadership of the Soviet union, has remained away from the Paris conference."

"This choosing up of sides in Europe x x x is following a policy that leads to war and not to peace," Thurmond declared.

He urged universal military training, merger of the armed services, legislation providing for total mobilization in case of war, uniform hemispheric defensive training and armament, and research "to stay ahead of the world."

Urges Action In UN To Halt Peace Threat

Special Meeting On Balkans Asked

LAKE SUCCESS, July 15—(AP)—The United States told the United Nations Security Council today that the situation in Greece "might burst into an explosion any day" and urged delegates to meet continuously to quell the threat to world peace.

"A situation is developing dangerously along the Greek-Albanian border which might burst into an explosion any day," Deputy Delegate Herschel V. Johnson said soberly. "The events of the past few days indicate that the situation has worsened.

Urges Commission Formation

"The United States urges the Security Council to proceed with all possible dispatch in setting up this (border watch) commission."

Johnson asked the council to hold two special meetings tomorrow and to vote "as soon as possible" on proposals to end the border disturbances.

The council voted down Johnson's appeal for two meetings tomorrow after Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko objected on the grounds that the U. N. schedule was filled and he could see no reason for the council "to blindly follow the Greeks in this noise."

Britain, Australia, Syria, Belgium and Brazil supported the United States on the ballot. The motion lost because seven votes were needed. No negative vote was taken. The other members are Colombia, Russia, Poland, China and France.

The council then decided to meet twice on Thursday and once on Friday. It adjourned at 6:44 p. m. (EDT).

Nesti Kerenxhi, Albanian representative, told the council that a so-called "international brigade" was merely a repetition of previous reports—"completely without foundation"—spread by Greek officials.

"The lies from Greek sources—intended for the outside world—cannot stand up for a single minute," he added.

Yugoslavia said the reports were without foundation and the situation was not as difficult as it had been pictured by some delegates.

Greek Ambassador Vassili Dendramis retorted quickly that "there have been real battles going along the Albanian border for two days." He backed Johnson's appeal for speed on a decision.

Hints At Compromise

In his plea for speed, Johnson gave the first indication that the United States might be ready to compromise on sections of its demands. He said he was willing to stress conciliation but noted that certain sections such as establishment of the commission were "fundamental."

Earlier, French Delegate Alexandre Parodi called attention to the "grave" reports from Greece and counseled delegates to "keep calm."

He urged delegates to await full confirmation of dispatches before forming conclusions and cautioned that the council must confine its actions to limits of the U. N. charter.

He agreed with the American demand for a semi-permanent Border Commission, but suggested it to be comprised of small neutral states rather than the 11 council members, which include the major powers. The French delegate also stressed that conciliation should be the watchword of the group which would operate with great "moral authority."

Dr. Alfonso Lopez, Colombia, also sought to inject a compromise on the American plan by asking for a seven-nation commission which would have headquarters outside the Balkans.

Lopez said Greece had "become a frontier between the east and the west in an idelogical war" and this was making the solution difficult.

Catonsville Girl Drowned, Dr. Says

BALTIMORE, July 15 (AP) — Dr. George Merrill, city medical examiner, today returned a verdict of "death by drowning" in the case of Anne Ryan, 14-year-old Catonsville girl missing since Saturday night.

Her body was found today in a Patapsco River millrace near Oella.

Merrill said there were bruises about the face, resulting from the battering of the millrace current, but no evidence of foul play.

Fears Of New Inflationary Spree Discounted By 2 Business Leaders

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP) — Two business leaders today discounted fears of a new inflationary spree, and told Congress that Americans have reason to look to the future with confidence.

Here is what they testified before the joint Congressional Committee on the economic report:

1. George M. Humphrey, Pittsburgh, head of the world's largest commercial coal company, who helped negotiate the new contract with John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers:

"The new coal wage contract will do more to stabilize the economy and retard inflation than settlement of any controversy in the industry in several years." He said he thinks it will not affect wages in other industries.

2. Earl Bunting, president of the National Association of Manufacturers:

"Prices are high, as compared to pre-war, but the increase has been less than the rise of wages during the last four months the price level has definitely flattened out."

Executive Loyalty Bill Passes House

WASHINGTON, July 15. (AP)—Legislation setting up the machinery for loyalty checks on all federal workers and job applicants was passed today by the House and sent to the Senate.

The vote was 319 to 61.

The measure applies only to officers and employes of the Executive branch of the government, an amendment to include the Legislative and Judiciary branches having been defeated, 109 to 29. Temporary and part-time workers paid by the hour not affected.

Before passing the bill the House refused by a vote of 248 to 133 to make loyalty board finding subject to review by the District of Columbia Court of Appeals.

Its approval came after opponents assailed it as unfair and undemocratic and said it would result in a "government administered by robots."

But proponents defended it as necessary to prevent inroads by subversive groups into the federal service.

Chairman Rees (R-Kas) of the Civil Service Committee told the House approximately 42,000 employes and 20,000 job applicants will be checked by the FBI during the first year of the proposed new law.

Rees said the legislation seeks the same objectives outlined in President Truman's recent order creating an Employe Loyalty Commission to screen federal employes. However, he explained, it puts into actual law what the President proposed through executive order.

Executive Loyalty Bill Passes House

WASHINGTON, July 15. (AP)—Legislation setting up the machinery for loyalty checks on all federal workers and job applicants was passed today by the House and sent to the Senate.

The vote was 319 to 61.

The measure applies only to officers and employes of the Executive branch of the government, an amendment to include the Legislative and Judiciary branches having been defeated, 109 to 29. Temporary and part-time workers paid by the hour not affected.

Before passing the bill the House refused by a vote of 248 to 123 to make loyalty board finding subject to review by the District of Columbia Court of Appeals.

Its approval came after opponents assailed it as unfair and undemocratic and said it would result in a "government administered by robots."

But proponents defended it as necessary to prevent inroads by subversive groups into the federal service.

Chairman Rees (R-Kas) of the Civil Service Committee told the House approximately 42,000 employes and 20,000 job applicants will be checked by the FBI during the first year of the proposed new law.

Rees said the legislation seeks the same objectives outlined in President Truman's recent order creating an Employe Loyalty Commission to screen federal employes. However, he explained, it puts into actual law what the President proposed through executive order.

Full Impact Of Miners' Wage Contract Is Awaited

Since a soft coal strike at this time would have thrown the national economy completely out of gear we may give thanks that John L. Lewis and the operators have reached an agreement. But we will be guilty of a very special and dangerous act of self-delusion if we imagine that the immunity granted us is inexpensive. Nor should we be too quick to join Benjamin F. Fairless, president of the United States Steel Corporation, in his belief that there will be industrial peace in the bituminous industry "for a long time to come."

The full impact as to how expensive this settlement will be to industry and domestic users of coal has not yet been felt here because the operators have not arrived at a concrete schedule of prices based on the increased cost of production under the terms of the latest contract with the miners' union. But it is reasonably certain the price increases will range from 70 cents to a $1 a ton, exclusive of the 2 per cent Maryland sales tax.

So, the truth is that the new contract with its provision for a wage increase of unprecedented proportions will inevitably give the cost of living another upward kick. Every industrial plant in the country, every public utility, every railroad, and every producer of goods who uses coal will find his expenses so much higher that he can hardly avoid raising the price of what he has to sell. In a word, it is a tremendous victory which Mr. Lewis has won for the miners but it is a defeat for them and the American people in general.

On the other hand, the expectation that the mining of coal will now proceed without any interruption may prove illusory. To be sure, the miners will not strike—for a year at least—but there is a provision in the contract which permits them to take a vacation whenever it suits their whim or in order to remedy a real or fancied grievance. They are required to work, says the agreement, only when they are "willing and able" to do so. In view of John L. Lewis' history there is no certainty that advantage will not be taken of this escape clause. But in all fairness, it must be said for those engaged in mining coal in the immediate region that they have seldom taken advantage of such loopholes, but have remained at their posts when those in other coal fields have seen fit to drop pick and shovel, on occasions, for the most trivial of reasons. Miners in the George's Creek region, a section we are most familiar with, are, as a whole, a thrifty lot, and we feel certain they will take advantage of this clause in their contract only as a last resort in greatly aggravated instances.

To the question, "Is the automobile here to stay?" the average car owner whose vehicle now is nine years old answers with an emphatic "Yes!"

Service Men Only

The Navy is doing a good job for its veterans who lost arms or legs in service during the war. But that is only part of the story. It is also doing a good job for the government—which is to say the taxpayers—by equipping amputees to fill a useful place in civilian life.

Figures compiled at the Mare Island Navy Yard rehabilitation center show, for example, that 90 per cent of the men trained there to use artificial arms and legs are now employed. That means they have made a successful readjustment and have regained their self-respect. From the government's standpoint, it means that these men do not have to be permanently hospitalized—at a cost of between $70,000 and $100,000.

Even that is not all of it. By investing a few thousand dollars each in these men, nine out of ten are made capable of productive work. In the nature of things, most of them just about pull their weight in the boat. But some will do a good deal more than that.

It is good to read, too, that the Navy is producing better, lighter, more efficient artificial limbs by using aluminum and plastics in place of steel and wood—and turning them out at lower cost by mass production methods. Less tiring, better balanced, working and even looking like arms and legs of flesh and blood, they make the hard road back less difficult to traverse.

Unfortunately, the Navy can help service men only. Civilians must go elsewhere and there is no clinic in the country that duplicates the facilities at the Navy amputee centers. So most civilians lost heart. Society could well afford an investment in their futures, too.

Telephone communication has been established between the United States and China. A ring in the Treasury office would be Shanghai calling.

Closer To The People

Senate passage of the Wherry bill seems a highly satisfactory solution of the presidential succession problem. The bill provides that the Speaker of the House, then the presiding officer of the Senate, then the cabinet members in order of rank shall succeed to the Presidency when the office becomes vacant and there is no vice president.

If the office of President should become vacant before January 20, 1949, under existing legislation the Secretary of State would succeed to the Presidency. That is all wrong. President Truman believes, because the Secretary of State is appointed by the President and no President should have power to select his own successor.

The Speaker of the House, then, seems the fairest choice, because he, like the President and Vice President, is elected by the people. It is reasonable, too, that the Speaker have precedence over the President Pro Tem. of the Senate, for the Speaker has been elected to the House within two years, whereas the President Pro Tem. may have been elected to the Senate more than five years previously.

With House approval regarded as certain, Congress and the President seem to see eye to eye on this bill, which did not become a partisan issue. Their chief concern was to establish succession so that it best represented the people. The White House and Capitol Hill are teaming up here to do a good job.

Cost of houses, price of coal and freight rates will go up because of new union demands. In unions there is inflation.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

PUBLIC ENEMIES—INSECTS

INSECTS and man are in a constant state of warfare. Consequently it is good news whenever we hear of progress in combating these pests. During the past few years improved material, equipment, and technic have become available against such enemies. The ideal solution has not as yet been found and no memorial will be good enough nor statue large enough to express our appreciation to the individual who will perfect a substance to eradicate these joy killers from the earth.

Every one dislikes flies and mosquitoes. They are a great source of annoyance and, in addition, are a menace to health. Nothing is more disgusting than to see flies at the dinner table or have a mosquito humming overhead when trying to go to sleep.

The hairy body, sticky feet, and ugly proboscis enables the fly to carry germs from one article to another. They are not in the least choosey as to what they eat and will feed on anything from the daintiest foods to offal. It is in this way that they spread to man many gastrointestinal infections, including typhoid fever and the dysentaries.

There is some indirect evidence that polio is transmitted in this manner. The organisms have been isolated in their intestinal tracts but this is as far as the study has gone. As yet it has not been proved definitely that flies are the vectors. But even if disease were not a factor the invaders would still be resented for esthetic reasons and for lowering the standard of general sanitation.

The problem should be attacked from many angles. Screening is essential, but should the insects enter house, factory, dairy, or other place of business they can be killed with DDT. Furthermore, walls and furniture may be sprayed with the chemical to discourage their presence.

But it would be far better to rout their breeding places thru cleanup campaigns. Filth should not be allowed to accumulate. The house fly usually lays its eggs in horse manure or fermented vegetable or putrefying animal matter. This means that adequate facilities for garbage collection and disposal must be made. Dumps must be eliminated and the use of incinerators encouraged. If such measures cannot be taken the areas where this material is deposited should be protected by screens.

In one neighborhood where flies were particularly numerous the menace was controlled after it was discovered that the eggs were being laid between the bricks of the pavement in an alley back of a restaurant. Spraying with DDT proved helpful. Apparently, however, the product is not too effective in killing larvae and research is in progress to find a preparation capable of killing the eggs as well as the adult flies.

BEFORE OR AFTER

T. H. writes: Is it all right to eat grapefruit after drinking tea or coffee in the morning?

REPLY

It is done every day, but I would recommend more for breakfast. Few people realize the importance of this meal in improving the sense of well being during the morning.

CONCAVE AREAS

J. M. writes: Are two hollow cavities on each side of the breastbone a sign of tuberculosis?

REPLY

I do not quite understand from your question where these cavities are located. If you refer to the depressions in the chest above and below the collar bone, these are normal and are not related to disease of the lungs. They are more prominent in thin persons.

FAULTY DEVELOPMENT

W. J. Writes: What is the cause of a harelip?

REPLY

A development defect in which the two sides of the upper lip of the unborn child do not join normally.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

In a scientific test conducted on New Zealand dairy farms it was discovered that cows produced the most milk while listening to records of the Andrews Sisters.

Sinatra was second, classical music made them firget in their stalls, and Crosby curdled it by the bucket.

If one singer like Sinatra could do so well, it's understandable why the Andrews Sisters came out on top. The cows tried to triple their output.

Of course, the cows have their favorite tunes. Their theme song is "Squeeze Me But Don't Tease Me."

They never should've played that new novelty tune for them though. After hearing "Fizzie Fazzie Fizzle" the cows gave root beer.

To do a good milking job these days all you have to have is a clean glove and a phonograph needle.

The whole process is really very simple. They get milk according to what kind of records they play.

For the second rate variety of milk they play "The Bee" and for the best grade it's "Take the 'A' Train." Of course, they get homogenized by playing the "Jersey Bounce."

It isn't fool proof though. The farmer came out one morning and found himself knee deep in milk. The darn fool left his automatic changer on all night!

They say cows come home wagging their tails behind them but one didn't in New Zealand. This cow went out to find Phil Spitalny's orchestra.

It seems she's just crazy about Evelyn and her magic violin.

QUICK MR. UNDERTAKER! ANOTHER SHOT OF EMBALMING FLUID

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON.—Republican leaders hushed it up, but seldom has so much oratorical vitriol been poured forth in a session of the G. O. P. Policy Committee as was heaped on the head of fellow-Republican Sen. Bill Langer of North Dakota last week for snafuing the probe of the Kansas City vote scandal.

The two Republican senators from Missouri were especially vitriolic. Bricker of Ohio ranted and raved. But all they succeeded in doing was to make the tempestuous, cigar-chewing North Dakotan madder than usual.

Langer, one of the most independent voters in the Senate, never hesitates to thumb his nose at the Republican leaders who once tried to prevent him from taking his Senate seat. Once prosecuted by the Justice Department on a political charge when he was Governor of North Dakota, Langer contends that a lot of unfair politics can creep into a vote investigation. He even states in his self-penned biographical sketch that he is the "only person ever to be arrested in an English-speaking country for filing an affidavit of prejudice against a judge."

Langer now controls the deciding vote on the Senate Judiciary Committee, and G. O. P. Senators Donnell and Kem of Missouri demanded to know if he intended to support Democratic efforts to block the Kansas City probe.

If so, they threatened to discharge the Judiciary Committee and set up a special committee to conduct the investigation.

"Well, I'm damned if I'm going to change my position," shouted the North Dakotan angrily. "I don't care what you do.'

At this, Bricker jumped into the fray with a lecture on party "regularity."

"This is one of the best campaign issues we've got," he declared. "Kansas City is more important to us than flood control, soil conservation or almost anything before Congress. You should see the way papers in Ohio eat up the news about Kansas City."

The Democrats should be made to answer for the "crooked politicians' of the Pendergast machine, Bricker continued, adding that he would join the fight for a special committee if the Judiciary Committee failed to do the job.

Everybody at the secret caucus agreed with Bricker's political strategy—except Langer. The North Dakotan, who never hesitates to vote as he pleases, sat champing at his cigar with an expression on his face that plainly told his G. O. P. colleagues to go jump in the lake.

Michigander Vandenberg

Burly Sen. Arthur Vandenberg has been accused of neglecting his state of Michigan to devote full attention to the problems of the nation. But he won't let anyone belittle Michigan and get away with it—not as long as he is presiding over the Senate. When Republican William Langer of North Dakota referred to Pontiac, Mich., as "another little town" the other day, Vandenberg cut him short.

"A point of order," boomed Vandenberg. "What does the Senator mean by 'another little town'?'

Truman's Wisecracks

Harry Truman is getting to be almost as much of a wise-cracker as Franklin Roosevelt when it comes to receiving visitors at the White House. He let loose quite a line when Democratic leaders from six Southern states called on him recently.

White House attaches privately were expecting "rebel yells" from the southern politicoes as a result of the Labor and Tax-bill vetoes. However, Texas' expansive Myron G. Blalock broke the ice by plunking down a $50,000 check as the Texas contribution to the Democratic National Committee. After that, everything was plain sailing. Oklahoma's Gov. Bob Kerr followed with a donation of $26,000.

"That," commented Truman, "ought to keep the National Committee going for a few days now.'

The Southern leaders all urged the President to get on the back end of a campaign train and make a political swing through the South, speaking from the rear platform at every sizeable stop. Blalock was particularly eager to have the President come to Texas.

"You know, Myron," replied the President, "I was down in Mexico recently for the 100th anniversary of the Mexicxan war. When I got back to the states, Texas urged me to attend the 100th anniversary of their liberation from Mexico."

Earlier, Democratic Party Executive Director Gael Sullivan had remarked that Kentucky's National Committeeman, Under Secretary of Labor Keen Johnson, was "full of mellow wisdom."

"As long as that mellow wisdom is made from good Missouri corn," shot back the President, "that's all right.'

The President also said he hoped Johnson wasn't too full of it.

Best Truman gag of the conference came in reply to National Committeeman Henry Servier of Louisiana, who promised the President a big reception if he visited the South.

Louisiana Oratory

"That reminds me," Truman said, "of the time Senator Brussard took a Washington big-shot down to the Cajun country to make a speech. The Cajuns didn't understand English, so the Senator stationed a friend who understood both Cajun and English behind the speaker. The crowd had orders to applaud when the man behind the speaker held up one finger. If he held up two fingers, they were to applaud still louder. And if he held up both hands, they were to raise the roof with their applause.

"At the end of the speech, the big-shot from Washington turned to the Senator and said, 'My, Senator, this is the most responsive audience I have ever had. I would like to be invited back.'

"I hope," concluded Truman, "that isn't the kind of reception you're planning for me if I come to Louisiana!"

This prompted Louisiana State Chairman John Fred Odom to assure the President he would get a tumultuous welcome. Then, letting his voice ring out as if he were in a convention hall, Odom boomed:

"Mr. President, I feel like saying right now, 'Louisiana casts its 22 votes for Harry S. Truman.' We'll be shouting that next year."

After Servier assured Truman there are no Republicans in Louisiana, Texan Blalock proclaimed:

"Mr. President, the only people in Oklahoma are the guys who were chased out of Texas."

Even Oklahoma's Bob Kerr laughed.

Under The Dome

G. O. P. Congresswoman Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts, the veterans friend, has been trying to push legislation for higher "on-the-job" training allowancmes through the House Rules Committee. The other day Rules Committee Chairman Leo Allen of Illinois, who has not pushed her legislation, greeted Mrs. Rogers warmly. "I don't want affection from you, Leo," snapped the lady from Massachusetts. "I want rules."

Norway Born Knutson Regards Mother "Greatest American"

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

Congressman Harold Knutson, Chairman of the powerful House Ways and Means Committee, was born in Norway. As a child, he lived in a sod house on the Minnesota prairie and says it was snug and warm. He was fifteen years old "before he knew that God understood any language except Norwegian." So, he said his prayers in his native tongue. With such a background, some folks would probably have called him an "underprivileged child." But today he is key man on America's taxes, and one of the half dozen most important figures in Washington.

Knutson regards his mother as "the greatest American I ever knew." Time and again she gathered her brood of 11 children around her and told them to thank God to the last breath they would ever draw that He had given them the chance to grow up in a free land.

The sod house boy came to Congress 30 years ago and is the last of those who voted against World War I. This son of Norwegian seafarers believes in sweat, thrift and freedom. His predecessor, as Chairman of this great Committee, the Honorable Bob Doughton of North, Carolina, believes in them also. Both have voted twice to reduce the taxes, which President Truman insists you should pay.

Appearing before the House Ways and Means Committee the other day, the distinguished economist, Dr. Willford I. King, gave Mr. Truman's tax vote a stiff uppercût. He pointed out that "if the tax rate in the highest bracket was 99.9 percent and was reduced to 99 per cent, the 'take-home' pay of the taxpayer would be increased 900 percent." That's the Truman logic in reverse. In short, instead of $1 of "take-home" pay, a taxpayer would have $10 left out of $1,000 of income.

John L. Lewis, the "oil burner's number one salesman," has gotten most of his men a wage boost of around 40c an hour despite the "slave-labor" bills. This makes him, again, the leader of all labor leaders. He makes the 21c an hour leaders look naked.

As the automobile, steel, railroad, building, and other workers watch the cost of their coal go up another 75c a ton, they will demand more pay also. Lewis is an able man. He simply uses the monopoly power which the New Deal traded him for votes. It gave him the power to bargain with an entire industry and hold the nation in ransom. And how the labor union boys, who don't like him, but will now have to pay more for coal, fought every effort of Congress to outlaw the industry-wide bargaining which gives John his half-Nelson. John just leads them around-and-around.

It all goes back to the quaint notion that dollars are what count and not coal, spuds and hoe-cake. We wind up paying $4 for a dollar watch that loses time.

Here's an item from the Wall Street Journal worth a close squint. It shows that farm hands have gotten a bigger wage boost these past years than the organized city workers. Yet city workers pay dues to a union to get them a raise, and farm workers aren't unionized and pay nobody for their raises. Probably the unorganized house maids also have gotten as high a per cent in wage increases as the union workers. How do you explain that? Of course, it couldn't be the old law of supply and demand because the New Deal officially repealed that ten years ago. It puzzles me no end. Labor leaders, please explain how the farm hands did it.

This does not mean that labor unions do not perform some useful service for their men. But unless a union has a monopoly stranglehold on jobs, the facts indicate that something beside collective bargaining is responsible for wage increases.

Truman's Use Of Veto Has All But Wrecked The Marshall Plan

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, July 15.—President Truman has lost the bipartisan support he expected to have for the Marshall plan.

There is every indication that a majority in Congress, composed of both Republicans and Democrats, would not vote billions for Europe just because the administration asked for it. A repetition of the situation which prevailed when the request for Greek-Turkish aid of about $400,000,000 was made cannot be expected.

The truth is Mr. Truman has bungled badly his relations with Congress, and the facts about the situation have been slow to come to the surface. Few members of Congress like to say now what they would or would not vote for, but the Marshall plan has little chance of adoption at the present time.

This may be one reason why the White House announced there would be no special session in the Autumn. The President probably realizes that he could not make as good a case for aid to Europe this year as he might next year.

There may or may not be a relationship between Mr. Truman's veto policies and what has happened on Capitol Hill to his foreign policy. But there is a noticeable coolness toward further authorizations of money and a tendency to require that existing funds be made to carry further along, perhaps until well into next year before more funds are voted.

"Show Me" Attitude

The attitude of the majority in Congress seems to have developed into a "show me" position. The administration has not yet shown what the Marshall plan embraces. This is presumed to be because the Europeans themselves have not outlined what they can do on their own and what they really need.

In any event, any idea that Congress will vote vast sums for European aid is wholly mistaken. If the Europeans come up with a program that is convincing, members of both parties in Congress will find themselves compelled to help it along. But this will be because of the facts presented from Europe and not because of any confidence in the Truman administration's arguments.

Secretary of State Marshall stands high in the esteem of members of both parties. He nevertheless represents the Truman administration, which, in the opinion of many Senators and representatives, has been playing politics with the veto power and hence is likely to be treated on a political basis hereafter with respect to all requests for money.

What irks some of the leaders on Capitol Hill is the unwillingness of the Truman administration to help cut expenses. Never before has there been such stubborn defense of bureaucracy by any administration. The budget-cutting members of Congress have encountered resistance, and even lobbies by its own agencies have been tolerated by the administration in defiance of law.

The tragedy of all this is that in a political campaign next year, Mr. Truman will be in the position of having a $7,000,000,000 surplus which he will want to use in large part abroad while denying American taxpayers any relief. He will not have the votes to use it for Europe. Demands for tax reduction will be renewed.

Marshall Plan All But Wrecked

The President's veto on the tax bill and the failure of the administration Democrats to stand up for the prerogatives of Congress in the matter of fixing tax rates has all but wrecked the Marshall Plan already. Stupid politics is inexcusable at a time when the world is crying for economic sinews to end the chaos of reconstruction and to bring stability.

The Marshall plan is a noble concept and it has given hope to the world. But the Administration has played its cards badly, and it may be predicted that no action on it will come before the early part of 1948 and then only after a bill of particulars so comprehensive and persuasive has been presented as to command a majority in Congress and a return of bipartisan support.

The decision to refrain from calling a special session of Congress in the Autumn is a confession of temporary defeat for the Marshall Plan. It reflects the unwillingness of a majority to vote vast funds for Europe at this time. Europe will have to struggle along with plans of its own for several months and Congress will have another look at the situation early in 1948, with the prospect that very little will be voted. Certainly the so-called $25,000,000,000 program is out altogether and appropriations for Europe may not average more than $1,000,000,000 a year for the next three or four years. This is a huge sum and should be of great help to Europe, but the advance notices raised the hopes of Europeans to believe a much higher figure of spending was forthcoming. The President might have gotten an authorization through at this session to support the Marshall Plan if he had dealt differently with Congress.

THESE DAYS By George E. Sokolsky

The Difficulty at Paris

WHEN the British were negotiating their great loan, Bernard Baruch, who has always been their friend, went to that country to tell them that it was an unwise and unnecessary step. At that time, Churchill was still in command and in his presence, Baruch and John Maynard Keynes got into a row over the economics of the loan as well as over the general economics of Great Britain.

On that occasion, Baruch strongly advised the British that the loan of $3,750,000,000 would not help them; that they would serve themselves more advantageously if they increased their productivity by longer hours of work and greater expenditure of energy. This ran counter to Keynes's socialism and the general trend towards nationalization.

In due course, Churchill was eliminated, Keynes died, Britain went Socialist, flirted with anti-Americanism, got the loan, wasted most of it and is now in an extremely difficult position. Actually, as Herbert Morrison, Lord President of the Council, has at last publicly admitted, Britain needs another loan. He said: "We cannot go on indefinitely importing what we cannot pay for, and I must tell the House quite frankly that it may come to this this—and a tragically bad day it would be for us, for Europe and the world's hopes of prosperity."

Socialism cannot be made to work among a free people, which is England's difficulty. Socialism can be made to work in a police state much as Mussolini, Hitler and Stalin produced. A free people can refuse to work or can work only as much as they choose, or as much as they think worth while. The contradiction of a free political and social system and a socialistic economic system produced unsolvable confusions.

To this must be added the fact that Britain's prosperity is still based upon the prosperity and well-being of the continent of Europe. As long as German industry is moribund, the prosperity of Europe cannot be established. As long as Germany is in political and economic chaos, Britain does not have a chance of well-being. Germany is the economic heart of Europe and if the heart is sick, the rest of the body will not function well. This Herbert Hoover made clear in his reports on Europe.

Our government dare not face this problem openly and candidly for obvious domestic political reasons. The war with Germany is too recent. Too many Americans fear a reconstructed Germany. Too many assumed that such a Germany would only mean World War III, although in recent months many have come to recognize what has been true since 1920 that our eventual enemy must be Soviet Russia.

At any rate, the politicians are not willing in an election year to admit that the real purpose of all the maneuvering at Paris is the reconstruction of Europe with Germany at the center. That is what we are getting at.

Even in the State Department, there are those who still cling to the barbarous Morgenthau Plan and the monstrous directive JCS 1067, but generally, those who are handling the problem recognize that costly errors were made at Yalta and Potsdam that require rectification. Even they fear the big city vote, particularly in race-conscious New York, to speak the truth.

All this the Russians understand. They use every means to force this country into a position of frank support of a reconstructed Germany. They recognize Britain's embarrassment and dilemma and they are forcing the British into frankness. Then the Russians will tell the nations that suffered at the hands of the Nazis, that live within the shadow of Nazi brutality, that they have been abandoned by the United States and Great Britain who are rebuilding Germany to crush them again. In this role, Soviet Russia becomes the great liberator.

The American people are not accustomed to playing at this sort of game. They do not understand its crooked rules. They will fail at it. The only road to success is candor. Germany must be reconstructed economically if aid to Britain and Europe is not to be an everlasting drain upon us. It takes courage for a politician to tell the truth—but there have been courageous politicians.

Today's Talk

Renewals

No matter how we may feel about our increasing age, we should ever be conscious of the eternal principle of renewals that are ever about us. Nature replaces. Let the fire sweep a great acreage and the future years will find a newness of soil there, from which may spring a number of natural growths.

There was a bush in my yard that did not bloom satisfactorily—so I cut it down—but left a portion of the stump. Today that bush has sent re-enforcements and shot limbs nearly as high as the old ones—and these with many a flowered stem, rich in new beauty.

Even the tree stump in the forest does not long remain undecorated. Moss will form about it and gradually creep over it, until it is given a coat of green—the emerald of the forest. Each season has its celebrations. Each day its high spots and low spots. After the long spell of dryness and drought, the rains finally come to change all and to renew both the earth and man's faith in God. We sleep that we may be renewed for the morrow's toil and its problems.

We take our vacations, travel, and make fresh contacts with people, cities, and nations, that we may renew our spirit, stir our imagination, and be the greater convinced of the eternal principle. Life is a series of renewals, in which we may well play an important part, and inspire others to do the same.

In the mere reading of a book, that once gave pleasure, there is renewal, for our ideas and viewpoints keep forever changing, and every re-reading of a good book, is like being introduced to it anew. I have proved this to be a fact, time and again.

The human body goes through a daily renewal—in fact, it is said that it renews itself every seven years, though I have no authority to back such a statement. At any rate it does renew itself every day of our lives. We can actually make ourselves over—if we will but will to do so! It is about time that the world should renew its belief in God, and in things of the spirit, if it would "long survive."

Full Impact Of Miners' Wage Contract Is Awaited

Since a soft coal strike at this time would have thrown the national economy completely out of gear we may give thanks that John L. Lewis and the operators have reached an agreement. But we will be guilty of a very special and dangerous act of self-delusion if we imagine that the immunity granted us is inexpensive. Nor should we be too quick to join Benjamin F. Fairless, president of the United States Steel Corporation, in his belief that there will be industrial peace in the bituminous industry "for a long time to come."

The full impact as to how expensive this settlement will be to industry and domestic users of coal has not yet been felt here because the operators have not arrived at a concrete schedule of prices based on the increased cost of production under the terms of the latest contract with the miners' union. But it is reasonably certain the price increases will range from 70 cents to a $1 a ton, exclusive of the 2 per cent Maryland sales tax.

So, the truth is that the new contract with its provision for a wage increase of unprecedented proportions will inevitably give the cost of living another upward kick. Every industrial plant in the country, every public utility, every railroad, and every producer of goods who uses coal will find his expenses so much higher that he can hardly avoid raising the price of what he has to sell. In a word, it is a tremendous victory which Mr. Lewis has won for the miners but it is a defeat for them and the American people in general.

On the other hand, the expectation that the mining of coal will now proceed without any interruption may prove illusory. To be sure, the miners will not strike—for a year at least—but there is a provision in the contract which permits them to take a vacation whenever it suits their whim or in order to remedy a real or fancied grievance. They are required to work, says the agreement, only when they are "willing and able" to do so. In view of John L. Lewis' history there is no certainty that advantage will not be taken of this escape clause. But in all fairness, it must be said for those engaged in mining coal in the immediate region that they have seldom taken advantage of such loopholes, but have remained at their posts when those in other coal fields have seen fit to drop pick and shovel, on occasions, for the most trivial of reasons. Miners in the George's Creek region, a section we are most familiar with, are, as a whole, a thrifty lot, and we feel certain they will take advantage of this clause in their contract only as a last resort in greatly aggravated instances.

To the question, "Is the automobile here to stay?" the average car owner whose vehicle now is nine years old answers with an emphatic "Yes!"

Service Men Only

The Navy is doing a good job for its veterans who lost arms or legs in service during the war. But that is only part of the story. It is also doing a good job for the government—which is to say the taxpayers—by equipping amputees to fill a useful place in civilian life.

Figures compiled at the Mare Island Navy Yard rehabilitation center show, for example, that 90 per cent of the men trained there to use artificial arms and legs are now employed. That means they have made a successful readjustment and have regained their self-respect. From the government's standpoint, it means that these men do not have to be permanently hospitalized—at a cost of between $70,000 and $100,000.

Even that is not all of it. By investing a few thousand dollars each in these men, nine out of ten are made capable of productive work. In the nature of things, most of them just about pull their weight in the boat. But some will do a good deal more than that.

It is good to read, too, that the Navy is producing better, lighter, more efficient artificial limbs by using aluminum and plastics in place of steel and wood—and turning them out at lower cost by mass production methods. Less tiring, better balanced, working and even looking like arms and legs of flesh and blood, they make the hard road back less difficult to traverse.

Unfortunately, the Navy can help service men only. Civilians must go elsewhere and there is no clinic in the country that duplicates the facilities at the Navy amputee centers. So most civilians lost heart. Society could well afford an investment in their futures, too.

Telephone communication has been established between the United States and China. A ring in the Treasury office would be Shanghai calling.

Closer To The People

Senate passage of the Wherry bill seems a highly satisfactory solution of the presidential succession problem. The bill provides that the Speaker of the House, then the presiding officer of the Senate, then the cabinet members in order of rank shall succeed to the Presidency when the office becomes vacant and there is no vice president.

If the office of President should become vacant before January 20, 1949, under existing legislation the Secretary of State would succeed to the Presidency. That is all wrong. President Truman believes, because the Secretary of State is appointed by the President and no President should have power to select his own successor.

The Speaker of the House, then, seems the fairest choice, because he, like the President and Vice President, is elected by the people. It is reasonable, too, that the Speaker have precedence over the President Pro Tem. of the Senate, for the Speaker has been elected to the House within two years, whereas the President Pro Tem. may have been elected to the Senate more than five years previously.

With House approval regarded as certain, Congress and the President seem to see eye to eye on this bill, which did not become a partisan issue. Their chief concern was to establish succession so that it best represented the people. The White House and Capitol Hill are teaming up here to do a good job.

Cost of houses, price of coal and freight rates will go up because of new union demands. In unions there is inflation.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

PUBLIC ENEMIES—INSECTS

INSECTS and man are in a constant state of warfare. Consequently it is good news whenever we hear of progress in combating these pests. During the past few years improved material, equipment, and technic have become available against such enemies. The ideal solution has not as yet been found and no memorial will be good enough nor statue large enough to express our appreciation to the individual who will perfect a substance to eradicate these joy killers from the earth.

Every one dislikes flies and mosquitoes. They are a great source of annoyance and, in addition, are a menace to health. Nothing is more disgusting than to see flies at the dinner table or have a mosquito humming overhead when trying to go to sleep.

The hairy body, sticky feet, and ugly proboscis enables the fly to carry germs from one article to another. They are not in the least choosey as to what they eat and will feed on anything from the daintiest foods to offal. It is in this way that they spread to man many gastrointestinal infections, including typhoid fever and the dysentaries.

There is some indirect evidence that polio is transmitted in this manner. The organisms have been isolated in their intestinal tracts but this is as far as the study has gone. As yet it has not been proved definitely that flies are the vectors. But even if disease were not a factor the invaders would still be resented for esthetic reasons and for lowering the standard of general sanitation.

The problem should be attacked from many angles. Screening is essential, but should the insects enter house, factory, dairy, or other place of business they can be killed with DDT. Furthermore, walls and furniture may be sprayed with the chemical to discourage their presence.

But it would be far better to rout their breeding places thru cleanup campaigns. Filth should not be allowed to accumulate. The house fly usually lays its eggs in horse manure or fermented vegetable or putrefying animal matter. This means that adequate facilities for garbage collection and disposal must be made. Dumps must be eliminated and the use of incinerators encouraged. If such measures cannot be taken the areas where this material is deposited should be protected by screens.

In one neighborhood where flies were particularly numerous the menace was controlled after it was discovered that the eggs were being laid between the bricks of the pavement in an alley back of a restaurant. Spraying with DDT proved helpful. Apparently, however, the product is not too effective in killing larvae and research is in progress to find a preparation capable of killing the eggs as well as the adult flies.

BEFORE OR AFTER

T. H. writes: Is it all right to eat grapefruit after drinking tea or coffee in the morning?

REPLY

It is done every day, but I would recommend more for breakfast. Few people realize the importance of this meal in improving the sense of well being during the morning.

CONCAVE AREAS

J. M. writes: Are two hollow cavities on each side of the breastbone a sign of tuberculosis?

REPLY

I do not quite understand from your question where these cavities are located. If you refer to the depressions in the chest above and below the collar bone, these are normal and are not related to disease of the lungs. They are more prominent in thin persons.

FAULTY DEVELOPMENT

W. J. Writes: What is the cause of a harelip?

REPLY

A development defect in which the two sides of the upper lip of the unborn child do not join normally.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

In a scientific test conducted on New Zealand dairy farms it was discovered that cows produced the most milk while listening to records of the Andrews Sisters.

Sinatra was second, classical music made them firget in their stalls, and Crosby curdled it by the bucket.

If one singer like Sinatra could do so well, it's understandable why the Andrews Sisters came out on top. The cows tried to triple their output.

Of course, the cows have their favorite tunes. Their theme song is "Squeeze Me But Don't Tease Me."

They never should've played that new novelty tune for them though. After hearing "Fizzle Fazzle Pizzle" the cows gave root beer.

To do a good milking job these days all you have to have is a clean glove and a phonograph needle.

The whole process is really very simple. They get milk according to what kind of records they play.

For the second rate variety of milk they play "The Bee" and for the best grade it's "Take the 'A' Train." Of course, they get homogenized by playing the "Jersey Bounce."

It isn't fool proof though. The farmer came out one morning and found himself knee deep in milk. The darn fool left his automatic changer on all night!

They say cows come home wagging their tails behind them but one didn't in New Zealand. This cow went out to find Phil Spitalny's orchestra.

It seems she's just crazy about Evelyn and her magic violin.

QUICK MR. UNDERTAKER! ANOTHER SHOT OF EMBALMING FLUID

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Republican leaders hushed it up, but seldom has so much oratorical vitriol been poured forth in a session of the G. O. P. Policy Committee as was heaped on the head of fellow-Republican Sen. Bill Langer of North Dakota last week for snafuing the probe of the Kansas City vote scandal.

The two Republican senators from Missouri were especially vitriolic. Bricker of Ohio ranted and raved. But all they succeeded in doing was to make the tempestuous, cigar-chewing North Dakotan madder than usual.

Langer, one of the most independent voters in the Senate, never hesitates to thumb his nose at the Republican leaders who once tried to prevent him from taking his Senate seat. Once prosecuted by the Justice Department on a political charge when he was Governor of North Dakota, Langer contends that a lot of unfair politics can creep into a vote investigation. He even states in his self-penned biographical sketch that he is the "only person ever to be arrested in an English-speaking country for filing an affidavit of prejudice against a judge."

Langer now controls the deciding vote on the Senate Judiciary Committee, and G. O. P. Senators Donnell and Kem of Missouri demanded to know if he intended to support Democratic efforts to block the Kansas City probe.

If so, they threatened to discharge the Judiciary Committee and set up a special committee to conduct the investigation.

"Well, I'm damned if I'm going to change my position," shouted the North Dakotan angrily. "I don't care what you do."

At this, Bricker jumped into the fray with a lecture on party "regularity."

"This is one of the best campaign issues we've got," he declared. "Kansas City is more important to us than flood control, soil conservation or almost anything before Congress. You should see the way papers in Ohio eat up the news about Kansas City."

The Democrats should be made to answer for the "crooked politicians' of the Pendergast machine, Bricker continued, adding that he would join the fight for a special committee if the Judiciary Committee failed to do the job.

Everybody at the secret caucus agreed with Bricker's political strategy—except Langer. The North Dakotan, who never hesitates to vote as he pleases, sat champing at his cigar with an expression on his face that plainly told his G. O. P. colleagues to go jump in the lake.

Michigander Vandenberg

Burly Sen. Arthur Vandenberg has been accused of neglecting his state of Michigan to devote full attention to the problems of the nation. But he won't let anyone belittle Michigan and get away with it—not as long as he is presiding over the Senate. When Republican William Langer of North Dakota referred to Pontiac, Mich., as "another little town" the other day, Vandenberg cut him short.

"A point of order," boomed Vandenberg. "What does the Senator mean by 'another little town'?"

Truman's Wisecracks

Harry Truman is getting to be almost as much of a wise-cracker as Franklin Roosevelt when it comes to receiving visitors at the White House. He let loose quite a line when Democratic leaders from six Southern states called on him recently.

White House attaches privately were expecting "rebel yells" from the southern politicoes as a result of the Labor and Tax-bill vetoes. However, Texas' expansive Myron G Blalock broke the ice by plunking down a $50,000 check as the Texas contribution to the Democratic National Committee. After that, everything was plain sailing. Oklahoma's Gov. Bob Kerr followed with a donation of $26,000.

"That," commented Truman, "ought to keep the National Committee going for a few days now."

The Southern leaders all urged the President to get on the back end of a campaign train and make a political swing through the South, speaking from the rear platform at every sizeable stop. Blalock was particularly eager to have the President come to Texas.

"You know, Myron," replied the President, "I was down in Mexico recently for the 100th anniversary of the Mexican war. When I got back to the states, Texas urged me to attend the 100th anniversary of their liberation from Mexico."

Earlier, Democratic Party Executive Director Gael Sullivan had remarked that Kentucky's National Committeeman, Under Secretary of Labor Keen Johnson, was "full of mellow wisdom."

"As long as that mellow wisdom is made from good Missouri corn," shot back the President, "that's all right."

The President also said he hoped Johnson wasn't too full of it.

Best Truman gag of the conference came in reply to National Committeeman Henry Servier of Louisiana, who promised the President a big reception if he visited the South.

Louisiana Oratory

"That reminds me," Truman said, "of the time Senator Brussard took a Washington big-shot down to the Cajun country to make a speech. The Cajuns didn't understand English, so the Senator stationed a friend who understood both Cajun and English behind the speaker. The crowd had orders to applaud when the man behind the speaker held up one finger. If he held up two fingers, they were to applaud still louder. And if he held up both hands, they were to raise the roof with their applause.

"At the end of the speech, the big-shot from Washington turned to the Senator and said, 'My, Senator, this is the most responsive audience I have ever had. I would like to be invited back.'

"I hope," concluded Truman, "that isn't the kind of reception you're planning for me if I come to Louisiana!"

This prompted Louisiana State Chairman John Fred Odom to assure the President he would get a tumultuous welcome. Then, letting his voice ring out as if he were in a convention hall, Odom boomed:

"Mr. President, I feel like saying right now, 'Louisiana casts its 22 votes for Harry S. Truman.' We'll be shouting that next year."

After Servier assured Truman there are no Republicans in Louisiana, Texan Blalock proclaimed:

"Mr. President, the only people in Oklahoma are the guys who were chased out of Texas."

Even Oklahoma's Bob Kerr laughed.

Under The Dome

G. O. P. Congresswoman Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts, the veterans friend, has been trying to push legislation for higher "on-the-job" training allowances through the House Rules Committee. The other day Rules Committee Chairman Leo Allen of Illinois, who has not pushed her legislation, greeted Mrs. Rogers warmly, "I don't want affection from you, Leo," snapped the lady from Massachusetts. "I want rules."

Norway Born Knutson Regards Mother "Greatest American"

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

Congressman Harold Knutson, Chairman of the powerful House Ways and Means Committee, was born in Norway. As a child, he lived in a sod house on the Minnesota prairie and says it was snug and warm. He was fifteen years old "before he knew that God understood any language except Norwegian." So, he said his prayers in his native tongue. With such a background, some folks would probably have called him an "underprivileged child." But today he is key man on America's taxes, and one of the half dozen most important figures in Washington.

Knutson regards his mother as "the greatest American I ever knew." Time and again she gathered her brood of 11 children around her and told them to thank God to the last breath they would ever draw that He had given them the chance to grow up in a free land.

The sod house boy came to Congress 30 years ago and is the last of those who voted against World War I. This son of Norwegian seafarers believes in sweat, thrift and freedom. His predecessor, as Chairman of this great Committee, the Honorable Bob Doughton of North Carolina, believes in them also. Both have voted twice to reduce the taxes, which President Truman insists you should pay.

Appearing before the House Ways and Means Committee the other day, the distinguished economist, Dr. Willford I. King, gave Mr. Truman's tax vote a stiff uppercut. He pointed out that "if the tax rate in the highest bracket was 99.9 percent and was reduced to 99 per cent, the 'take-home' pay of the taxpayer would be increased 900 percent." That's the Truman logic in reverse. In short, instead of $1 of "take-home" pay, a taxpayer would have $10 left out of $1,000 of income.

John L. Lewis, the "oil burner's number one salesman," has gotten most of his men a wage boost of around 40c an hour despite the "slave-labor" bills. This makes him, again, the leader of all labor leaders. He makes the 21c an hour leaders look naked.

As the automobile, steel, railroad, building, and other workers watch the cost of their coal go up another 75c a ton, they will demand more pay also. Lewis is an able man. He simply uses the monopoly power which the New Deal traded him for votes. It gave him the power to bargain with an entire industry and hold the nation in ransom. And how the labor union boys, who don't like him, but will now have to pay more for coal, fought every effort of Congress to outlaw the industry-wide bargaining which gives John his half-Nelson. John just leads them around-and-around.

It all goes back to the quaint notion that dollars are what count and not coal, spuds and hoe-cake. We wind up paying $4 for a dollar watch that loses time.

Here's an item from the Wall Street Journal worth a close squint. It shows that farm hands have gotten a bigger wage boost these past years than the organized city workers. Yet city workers pay dues to a union to get them a raise, and farm workers aren't unionized and pay nobody for their raises. Probably the unorganized house maids also have gotten as high a per cent in wage increases as the union workers. How do you explain that? Of course, it couldn't be the old law of supply and demand because the New Deal officially repealed that ten years ago. It puzzles me no end. Labor leaders, please explain how the farm hands did it.

This does not mean that labor unions do not perform some useful service for their men. But unless a union has a monopoly stranglehold on jobs, the facts indicate that something besides collective bargaining is responsible for wage increases.

Truman's Use Of Veto Has All But Wrecked The Marshall Plan

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, July 15.—President Truman has lost the bipartisan support he expected to have for the Marshall plan.

There is every indication that a majority in Congress, composed of both Republicans and Democrats, would not vote billions for Europe just because the administration asked for it. A repetition of the situation which prevailed when the request for Greek-Turkish aid of about $400,000,000 was made cannot be expected.

The truth is Mr. Truman has bungled badly his relations with Congress, and the facts about the situation have been slow to come to the surface. Few members of Congress like to say now what they would or would not vote for, but the Marshall plan has little chance of adoption at the present time.

This may be one reason why the White House announced there would be no special session in the Autumn. The President probably realizes that he could not make as good a case for aid to Europe this year as he might next year.

There may or may not be a relationship between Mr. Truman's veto policies and what has happened on Capitol Hill to his foreign policy. But there is a noticeable coolness toward further authorizations of money and a tendency to require that existing funds be made to carry further along, perhaps until well into next year before more funds are voted.

"Show Me" Attitude

The attitude of the majority in Congress seems to have developed into a "show me" position. The administration has not yet shown what the Marshall plan embraces. This is presumed to be because the Europeans themselves have not outlined what they can do on their own and what they really need.

In any event, any idea that Congress will vote vast sums for European aid is wholly mistaken. If the Europeans come up with a program that is convincing, members of both parties in Congress will find themselves compelled to help it along. But this will be because of the facts presented from Europe and not because of any confidence in the Truman administration's arguments.

Secretary of State Marshall stands high in the esteem of members of both parties. He nevertheless represents the Truman administration, which, in the opinion of many Senators and representatives, has been playing politics with the veto power and hence is likely to be treated on a political basis hereafter with respect to all requests for money.

What irks some of the leaders on Capitol Hill is the unwillingness of the Truman administration to help cut expenses. Never before has there been such stubborn defense of bureaucracy by any administration. The budget-cutting members of Congress have encountered resistance, and even lobbies by its own agencies have been tolerated by the administration in defiance of law.

The tragedy of all this is that in a political campaign next year, Mr. Truman will be in the position of having a $7,000,000,000 surplus which he will want to use in large part abroad while denying American taxpayers any relief. He will not have the votes to use it for Europe. Demands for tax reduction will be renewed.

Marshall Plan All But Wrecked

The President's veto on the tax bill and the failure of the administration Democrats to stand up for the prerogatives of Congress in the matter of fixing tax rates has all but wrecked the Marshall Plan already. Stupid politics is inexcusable at a time when the world is crying for economic sinews to end the chaos of reconstruction and to bring stability.

The Marshall plan is a noble concept and it has given hope to the world. But the Administration has played its cards badly, and it may be predicted that no action on it will come before the early part of 1948 and then only after a bill of particulars so comprehensive and persuasive has been presented as to command a majority in Congress and a return of bipartisan support.

The decision to refrain from calling a special session of Congress in the Autumn is a confession of temporary defeat for the Marshall Plan. It reflects the unwillingness of a majority to vote vast funds for Europe at this time. Europe will have to struggle along with plans of its own for several months and Congress will have another look at the situation early in 1948, with the prospect that very little will be voted. Certainly the so-called $25,000,000,000 program is out altogether and appropriations for Europe may not average more than $1,000,000,000 a year for the next three or four years. This is a huge sum and should be of great help to Europe, but the advance notices raised the hopes of Europeans to believe a much higher figure of spending was forthcoming. The President might have gotten an authorization through at this session to support the Marshall Plan if he had dealt differently with Congress.

THESE DAYS

The Difficulty at Paris

WHEN the British were negotiating their great loan, Bernard Baruch, who has always been their friend, went to that country to tell them that it was an unwise and unnecessary step. At that time, Churchill was still in command and in his presence, Baruch and John Maynard Keynes got into a row over the economics of the loan as well as over the general economics of Great Britain.

On that occasion, Baruch strongly advised the British that the loan of $3,750,000,000 would not help them; that they would serve themselves more advantageously if they increased their productivity by longer hours of work and greater expenditure of energy. This ran counter to Keynes's socialism and the general trend towards nationalization.

In due course, Churchill was eliminated, Keynes died, Britain went Socialist, flirted with anti-Americanism, got the loan, wasted most of it and is now in an extremely difficult position. Actually, as Herbert Morrison, Lord President of the Council, has at last publicly admitted, Britain needs another loan. He said: "We cannot go on indefinitely importing what we cannot pay for, and I must tell the House quite frankly that it may come to this this—and a tragically bad day it would be for us, for Europe and the world's hopes of prosperity."

Socialism cannot be made to work among a free people, which is England's difficulty. Socialism can be made to work in a police state much as Mussolini, Hitler and Stalin produced. A free people can refuse to work or can work only as much as they choose, or as much as they think worth while. The contradiction of a free political and social system and a socialistic economic system produced unsolvable confusions.

To this must be added the fact that Britain's prosperity is still based upon the prosperity and well-being of the continent of Europe. As long as German industry is moribund, the prosperity of Europe cannot be established. As long as Germany is in political and economic chaos, Britain does not have a chance of well-being. Germany is the economic heart of Europe and if the heart is sick, the rest of the body will not function well. This Herbert Hoover made clear in his reports on Europe.

Our government dare not face this problem openly and candidly for obvious domestic political reasons. The war with Germany is too recent. Too many Americans fear a reconstructed Germany. Too many assumed that such a Germany would only mean World War III, although in recent months many have come to recognize what has been true since 1920 that our eventual enemy must be Soviet Russia.

At any rate, the politicians are not willing in an election year to admit that the real purpose of all the maneuvering at Paris is the reconstruction of Europe with Germany at the center. That is what we are getting at.

Even in the State Department, there are those who still cling to the barbarous Morgenthau Plan and the monstrous directive JCS 1067, but generally, those who are handling the problem recognize that costly errors were made at Yalta and Potsdam that require rectification. Even they fear the big city vote, particularly in race-conscious New York, to speak the truth.

All this the Russians understand. They use every means to force this country into a position of frank support of a reconstructed Germany. They recognize Britain's embarrassment and dilemma and they are forcing the British into frankness. Then the Russians will tell the nations that suffered at the hands of the Nazis, that live within the shadow of Nazi brutality, that they have been abandoned by the United States and Great Britain who are rebuilding Germany to crush them again. In this role, Soviet Russia becomes the great liberator.

The American people are not accustomed to playing at this sort of game. They do not understand its crooked rules. They will fail at it. The only road to success is candor. Germany must be reconstructed economically if aid to Britain and Europe is not to be an everlasting drain upon us. It takes courage for a politician to tell the truth—but there have been courageous politicians.

Today's Talk

Renewals

No matter how we may feel about our increasing age, we should ever be conscious of the eternal principle of renewals that are ever about us. Nature replaces. Let the fire sweep a great acreage and the future years will find a newness of soil there, from which may spring a number of natural growths.

There was a bush in my yard that did not bloom satisfactorily—so I cut it down—but left a portion of the stump. Today that bush has sent re-enforcements and shot limbs nearly as high as the old ones—and these with many a flowered stem, rich in new beauty.

Even the tree stump in the forest does not long remain undecorated. Moss will form about it and gradually creep over it, until it is given a coat of green—the emerald of the forest. Each season has its celebrations. Each day its high spots and low spots. After the long spell of dryness and drought, the rains finally come to change all and to renew both the earth and man's faith in God. We sleep that we may be renewed for the morrow's toil and its problems.

We take our vacations, travel, and make fresh contacts with people, cities, and nations, that we may renew our spirit, stir our imagination, and be the greater convinced of the eternal principle. Life is a series of renewals, in which we may well play an important part, and inspire others to do the same.

In the mere reading of a book, that once gave pleasure, there is renewal, for our ideas and viewpoints keep forever changing, and every re-reading of a good book, is like being introduced to it anew. I have proved this to be a fact, time and again.

The human body goes through a daily renewal—in fact, it is said that it renews itself every seven years, though I have no authority to back such a statement. At any rate it does renew itself every day of our lives. We can actually make ourselves over—if we will but will to do so! It is about time that the world should renew its belief in God, and in things of the spirit, if it would "long survive."

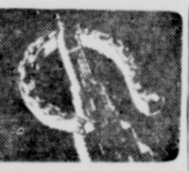
PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose



Wunsaponnatime there was a Conscientious Newspaperman. His name was Herman Treakle and he worked for a Medium-sized Gazette in a Medium-sized Town.

In his Yo-Yo Years, he read about George Washington and the Cherry Tree. It made a Profound Impression on him. In Grade School, when he drew Funny Pictures of the Teacher on the Blackboard, he Signed them. When taking his College Examinations, he Inadvertently Glimpsed another student's paper. He turned himself In. The college Authorities were So Surprised they made him Phi Beta Kappa.

Billy Rose

After college, Herman became a Journalist. His first job was Rushing the Growler for the Gang in the City Room. It is Reliably Reported he Never Took a Sip of the beer he was carrying except to Make Sure it was Cold Enough.

Herman read all the Big Syndicated Columnists—Westbrook Pegler, Walter Winchell, Drew Pearson, Et Al. What he read impressed him Quite as Much as a Certain Billy Rose was impressed by the Fables of George Ade.

One day, after Two Double Malteds, he got up Enough Courage to ask the Managing Editor to let him write a Gossip Column. The Editor needed Something for page 16, and agreed to give Herman the Big Chance.

This column was called "The Seeing Eye," and its Motto was "Treakle Tells the Truth." In its First Week, "The Seeing Eye" revealed that a Well-Known Republican Industrialist was Thattaway about a Well-Known Lady Labor Leader. The union lost Half its Membership, the Industrialist had his Salary Raised by the Board of Directors, and the column was an immediate Success.

Herman followed this Triumph of Journalism by printing that the Mayor's Brother-in-law owned a Cabin in the Mountains where Strange Things happened, and that the Baptist minister, as a boy, had been Handy with the Bones.

Before the column was Three Months old, the railroad had to put on Extra Trains to accommodate folks Leaving Town. Everybody referred to the author of "Seeing Eye" as "That Dog." Barked Herman, "Treakle Tells the Truth."

Then, As It Must To All Men, Love came to Herman Treakle. She was a Canary named Dotty Podalsky, Stage Name Daisy May. She earned her Cakes and Custard at a roadhouse called Moonglow Manor, where she warbled an Occasional Chorus with the band while the trumpet player was Resting His Lip.

Whenever Daisy looked at Herman through her Long Lashes (courtesy Max Factor's Make-up Kit), the columnist's Neatly Starched collar would Wilt. Even the fact that Daisy had a Husband Somewhere made no difference. This was L-O-V-E.

The Conscientious Newspaperman was faced with a Knotty Problem. His romance was News. To live up to his Inflexible Code, he had No Right to keep it Out of Print.

At first he Compromised with his Conscience by running a Blind Item:—"What columnist is Keeping Company with What Lush Thrush?"

When Daisy Registered a Beef, Herman Explained his Principles to her. "Can the philosophy, Buster," advised the Former Miss Podalsky. "My husband is a man of Many Muscles."

But Herman Brooded. He decided he wasn't Being Fair with his Public. The next day, "The Seeing Eye" carried the line, "H. T. of the Fourth Estate has the Dipsy-doodles over D.M., of the Bobo-unk Business. And, methinks, Versa Vice."

For several days, he Felt Better. Then he realized it was No Good. Nobody had even Guessed whom he meant. That night, when it was Almost Presstime, he knew he was at the End of his Rope. He Had to print it!

And print it he Did—at the Top of his column: "Herman Treakle, the writin' fella, is seeing a Lovely Lot of Daisy May, the singin' lady of Moonglow Manor."

At eleven next morning, a Man entered Herman's office. "I am Daisy May's husband," he said, Very Simply. Then he Shot Herman Dead, Dead, Dead.

The columnist Lay in State at McCarthy's Mortuary Parlors, Funerals for Every Pocketbook. Naturally, Nobody came to Pay his Respects; That is, Nobody but the Young Reporter who handled Minor Obituaries.

When the Cub returned to the office, the Managing Editor asked him how Herman Looked.

"He looked Surprised," said the Young Reporter, "and a little Unhappy."

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

Billy Rose

Wunsaponnatime there was a Conscientious Newspaperman. His name was Herman Treakle and he worked for a Medium-sized Gazette in a Medium-sized Town.

In his Yo-Yo Years, he read about George Washington and the Cherry Tree. It made a Profound Impression on him. In Grade School, when he drew Funny Pictures of the Teacher on the Blackboard, he Signed them. When taking his College Examinations, he Inadvertently Glimpsed another student's paper. He turned himself In. The college Authorities were So Surprised they made him Phi Beta Kappa.

After college, Herman became a Journalist. His first job was Rushing the Growler for the Gang in the City Room. It is Reliably Reported he Never Took a Sip of the beer he was carrying except to Make Sure it was Cold Enough.

Herman read all the Big Syndicated Columnists—Westbrook Pegler, Walter Winchell, Drew Pearson, Et Al. What he read impressed him Quite as Much as a Certain Billy Rose was impressed by the Fables of George Ade.

One day, after Two Double Malteds, he got up Enough Courage to ask the Managing Editor to let him write a Gossip Column. The Editor needed Something for page 16, and agreed to give Herman the Big Chance.

This column was called "The Seeing Eye," and its Motto was "Treakle Tells the Truth." In its First Week, "The Seeing Eye" revealed that a Well-Known Republican Industrialist was Thattaway about a Well-Known Lady Labor Leader. The union lost Half its Membership, the Industrialist had his Salary Raised by the Board of Directors, and the column was an immediate Success.

Herman followed this Triumph of Journalism by printing that the Mayor's Brother-in-law owned a Cabin in the Mountains where Strange Things happened, and that the Baptist minister, as a boy, had been Handy with the Bones.

Lions Hold Installation Of Officers For 1947-48

Retiring President Reviews Activities

New officers for the 1947-48 term were installed last night at the annual installation and dinner of the Cumberland Lions Club, held at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club with George W. Sellers, retiring president, presiding.

Alvie Renn, Frederick, newly elected district governor of District 22-W, which includes Lions Clubs from Montgomery to Garrett Counties, was the installing officer.

New officers are Chester Fisher, president; Albert E. Windish, first vice president; Gilbert A. Rehbeck, second vice president; Oscar Parrish, third vice president; Alvin E. Yaste, secretary-treasurer; William R. Carscaden, lion tamer, and Bert Grahame, tail twister.

Directors who will serve for two years are R. Lee Hunter and J. Goodloe Jackson. Those who will serve for one year are Frank A. Martin, Cyrus Bowers and Sellers.

Fisher's first official act as president was to present Sellers with a past president's pin, past president's certificate and a pin signifying perfect attendance for one year.

Prior to the installation ceremony, Sellers gave a report on the club's activities during his term in office. He said the organization paid all expenses to send three local teenage boys to the Maryland School for the Blind at Overlea, near Baltimore, for a year.

An innovation was the institution of key membership awards, with a special gold Lion key presented to every member bringing in two new members during the year. At present there are 19 key members, and a breakfast in their honor will be held in September.

Sellers also reported that the club was represented at 17 outside functions during the year. The annual report of the secretary-treasurer was given by Francis Sweene.

The retiring president presented past president's certificates to Lawrence Cessna, Edgar Candegrift, John K. Snyder and Joseph Trenton. Past secretary-treasurer's certificates were presented to Lynn Lashley, Rehbeck and Sweene. Lashley, Carscaden, Chester Coughenour and Glenn Davis received awards for securing new members.

Samuel Kaplon, Harry Poling, Rehbeck, Windish, Jackson and Yaste received pins signifying perfect attendance during the past year. Rev. Donald F. Brake, past district governor, will be presented with a five-year attendance pin when he returns from vacation.

Jimmy Andrews' orchestra furnished dinner music at the event, which was attended by 112 Lions and their guests. Parrish introduced the Smith triplets, who played four accordion selections.

Baptist Youths Will Hold Summer Camp

A one week camp of study courses and recreation will be held by the boys and girls of the Baptist churches in the area at Pleasant Valley, Garrett County during the last week in August.

The Baptist Summer Assembly, which is sponsored by the Women's Missionary Union of the Western District Association, will be in charge of Mrs. Bessie Grim, Frostburg. Rev. J. C. Ledbetter, pastor of the Second Baptist Church, Cumberland will be the advisor.

Lions Hold Installation Of Officers For 1947-48

Retiring President Reviews Activities

New officers for the 1947-48 term were installed last night at the annual installation and dinner of the Cumberland Lions Club, held at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club with George W. Sellers, retiring president, presiding.

Alvie Renn, Frederick, newly elected district governor of District 22-W, which includes Lions Clubs from Montgomery to Garrett Counties, was the installing officer.

New officers are Chester Fisher, president; Albert E. Windish, first vice president; Gilbert A. Rehbeck, second vice president; Oscar Parrish, third vice president; Alvin E. Yaste, secretary-treasurer; William R. Carscaden, lion tamer, and Bert Grahame, tail twister.

Directors who will serve for two years are R. Lee Hunter and J. Goodloe Jackson. Those who will serve for one year are Frank A. Martin, Cyrus Bowers and Sellers.

Fisher's first official act as president was to present Sellers with a past president's pin, past president's certificate and a pin signifying perfect attendance for one year.

Prior to the installation ceremony, Sellers gave a report on the club's activities during his term in office. He said the organization paid all expenses to send three local teenage boys to the Maryland School for the Blind at Overlea, near Baltimore, for a year.

An innovation was the institution of key membership awards, with a special gold Lion key presented to every member bringing in two new members during the year. At present there are 19 key members, and a breakfast in their honor will be held in September.

Sellers also reported that the club was represented at 17 outside functions during the year. The annual report of the secretary-treasurer was given by Francis Sweene.

The retiring president presented past president's certificates to Lawrence Cessna, Edgar Candegrift, John K. Snyder and Joseph Trenton. Past secretary-treasurer's certificates were presented to Lynn Lashley, Rehbeck and Sweene. Lashley, Carscaden, Chester Coughenour and Glenn Davis received awards for securing new members.

Samuel Kaplon, Harry Poling, Rehbeck, Windish, Jackson and Yaste received pins signifying perfect attendance during the past year. Rev. Donald F. Brake, past district governor, will be presented with a five-year attendance pin when he returns from vacation.

Jimmy Andrews' orchestra furnished dinner music at the event, which was attended by 112 Lions and their guests. Parrish introduced the Smith triplets, who played four accordion selections.

Court Action Filed Over Coal Tract

Chief Judge William A. Huster issued a show cause order yesterday in Circuit Court in the injunction suit brought by Jesse E. Trimble of Mt. Savage and Maud M. Ryan, of Lonaconing, against George Bishields, of Mt. Savage, over a coal mine tract involving 686 acres near Mt. Savage.

Bishields is given until August 14 to show cause why an injunction should not be placed against him to stop further mining of coal from the tract and for an accounting of monies paid to other heirs of the Trimble estate, other than the complainants.

The suit entered by Jesse E. Trimble and Maud M. Ryan charges that Bishields entered into an agreement with other heirs of the Trimble estate to extract coal and other minerals from the tract in which the complainants claim a one-seventh interest. The bill states that George Thomas Trimble died January 1, 1935, leaving one-seventh interest to his wife, Helen Trimble, during her lifetime and thence to Maud M. Ryan and Mabel G. Harding on equal shares.

The will of George T. Trimble also provided for a one-third interest in minerals sold from the tract to Jesse E. Trimble. Helen Trimble died June 1, 1938,, and on June 1, 1944, the pact between Bishields and other heirs of the Trimble estate was entered into, the bill charges. I. Duke Avnet is attorney for the plaintiffs.

Reighard Appointed To Staff Of Local Brewery

G. William Bibby, president and general manager of the Cumberland Brewing Company, announced yesterday that Walter C. Reighard, Jr., has been appointed a district representative for the firm.

Reighard has been with the company since 1933 as a route salesman. He will work in Cumberland and the nearby area. Bibby said the appointment was made in line with the company's policy to promote employes whenever possible. Mr. Reighard's father was with the Brewery for 36 years.

Reighard, who was married five months ago to the former Helen Howdyshell, resides at 742 Baker Street. He is a member of Cumberland Aerie No. 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles, and Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion.

Bibby also revealed that Orville L. Young, 313 Holland Street, has been made chief engineer.

Army Has Openings For Negro Soldiers

Seven hundred vacancies for negro troops for unassigned duty with the Army Ground and Air Forces must be filled in the near future, according to Capt. L. M. Bairstow, officer in charge of the local Army recruiting office. Entrance qualifications will be the same as for white troops.

Seven men signed up yesterday for Army service. They are:

Paul Curtis Shannon, 18, of 117 Coral Avenue, Keyser, W. Va., enlisted for two years unassigned.

George Ward, 31, 601 Dean Street, Confluence, Pa., enlisted for three years in the Medical Corps unassigned. He signed as a sergeant and has had four years, 11 months previous service.

Robert Lee Leatherman, 20, of 521 W. Piedmont Street, Keyser, enlisted for two years unassigned.

Troy Harding, 17, of Accident, enlisted for two years unassigned.

James Franklin Kisner, 31, of 28 Wilson Street, Oakland, enlisted in the Army Air Force for three years.

Harold Denzil Dewitt, 29, of Sang Run, enlisted in the Coast Artillery for three years.

Raymond Roy Kisner, Jr., 17, of Crellin, enlisted in the Army Air Forces for three years.

Court Action Filed Over Coal Tract

Chief Judge William A. Huster issued a show cause order yesterday in Circuit Court in the injunction suit brought by Jesse E. Trimble of Mt. Savage and Maud M. Ryan, of Lonaconing, against George Bishields, of Mt. Savage, over a coal mine tract involving 686 acres near Mt. Savage.

Bishields is given until August 14 to show cause why an injunction should not be placed against him to stop further mining of coal from the tract and for an accounting of monies paid to other heirs of the Trimble estate, other than the complainants.

The suit entered by Jesse E. Trimble and Maud M. Ryan charges that Bishields entered into an agreement with other heirs of the Trimble estate to extract coal and other minerals from the tract in which the complainants claim a one-seventh interest. The bill states that George Thomas Trimble died January 1, 1935, leaving one-seventh interest to his wife, Helen Trimble, during her lifetime and thence to Maud M. Ryan and Mabel G. Harding on equal shares.

The will of George T. Trimble also provided for a one-third interest in minerals sold from the tract to Jesse E. Trimble. Helen Trimble died June 1, 1938, and on June 1, 1944, the pact between Bishields and other heirs of the Trimble estate was entered into, the bill charges. I. Duke Avnet is attorney for the plaintiffs.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Can He Forget His Girl Once Had A Lover?

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Unfair though it certainly is, I don't think anyone will challenge the statement that it's harder for a man to forgive and forget a misstep in his wife's past than it is for her to do the same thing in regard to his.

There are many men who pride themselves on taking the "modern" view of things and expecting no more of past virtue from the girls they make their wives than they feel these girls should expect of them. But the number of men who actually live up to and act on that theory is by no means equal to the number who profess it. Any observer of human conduct will tell you that things just don't work out that way. There goes that double standard again, if you like, but whatever you call it, it's still a potent factor in determining the success or failure of many modern marriages.

It's already, for instance, beginning to worry the lad who wrote me as follows:

"I would like to know if you would think it wise for me to marry a girl who has had an affair with another fellow.

"I love her very much, and she loves me just as much, but it is always on my mind about her and this other fellow. Do you think it would be a sore spot in our future married life, or would you advise me to just overlook it, since it happened before she knew me, and she was very young at the time? She never told me about it until I told her I knew?"

Now, no matter how earnestly I advise this chap to "overlook" the fact that his girl had had a lover, it wouldn't stop him from thinking about "her and this other fellow" for more than half an hour. Instinctively, he doesn't like the idea at all. And I doubt very much if he's going to find he minds it any less as time goes on.

Whether or not he could have a happy married life with this girl depends entirely upon how mature a person he is. And I mean mature, not sophisticated, two words that moderns are very apt to confuse.

A man may be thoroughly sophisticated so far as his knowledge of worldly matters goes, but vastly immature when it comes to less tangible things. And it is his equipment in these less tangible things, not his stock of knowledge about worldly matters, that is put to the test when he faces the type of situation his young man is up against.

I may be utterly wrong, of course, but I'm afraid I have my doubts as to whether or not the writer of the quoted letter does indeed have the necessary intangible equipment to handle himself successfully in the situation. The very fact that he feels doubtful enough about it himself to ask for advice seems to point to a lack of confidence on his part as to his ability to do so. And if he is uncertain, if he feels there is a real chance that the thing will keep gnawing away at his subconscious, then I certainly think he had better face that fact squarely and realize that it would be folly for him to marry the girl. There is far too much dynamite in such a set of circumstances to make it wise to run any risks.

Gen. Eisenhower Will Visit W. Va. University

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., July 15—(AP)—General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower has accepted an invitation to address a special convocation at West Virginia University here September 23, President Irvin Stewart announced.

The University President said an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws would be conferred at that time on General Eisenhower, who recently announced he would become president of Columbia University when he is relieved of present duties as Army Chief of Staff.

Man was the one who formerly woried about his head-dress, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica. Men did not wear their hair short until the fifth century. Before that time men's hair hung in loose ringlets or was braided in two plaits wound around the head.

Rice Cost Brings Dutch Rubber Subsidy

BATAVIA—(AP)—The Netherlands Indies Rubber Fund has announced a subsidy of ten guilder cents (about 3.8 cents U. S.) per kilogram of dry rubber will be granted producers in view of the high cost of rice.

The subsidy is to be deducted from the export duty payable. It was decided not to directly reduce the export duty of 20 guilder cents per kilogram because of objections from some quarters.

Rice Cost Brings Dutch Rubber Subsidy

BATAVIA—(AP)—The Netherlands Indies Rubber Fund has announced a subsidy of ten guilder cents (about 3.8 cents U. S.) per kilogram of dry rubber will be granted producers in view of the high cost of rice.

The subsidy is to be deducted from the export duty payable. It was decided not to directly reduce the export duty of 20 guilder cents per kilogram because of objections from some quarters.

The Political Scoreboard:

Survey Shows Republicans Favor Dewey As Top Presidential Hope

Leaders' Standings Remain Constant

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., July 15—One year ahead of the nominating conventions, Republican voters expressing a choice of presidential candidate name Governor Thomas E. Dewey, Harold E. Stassen, Senator Robert A. Taft and Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg as their top favorites.

Virtually no change in the standings of these four has occurred since April.

Governor Dewey, who remained silent during the political crisis engendered by the Taft-Hartley bill, retains a comfortable lead in popularity at the moment. The governor is at present on a "non-political" tour which has taken him into the Southwest and Mountain States.

Candidate popularity is tested periodically by the Institute on the question:

"What man would you like to see elected President of the country in 1948?"

Republican voters naming a choice today divide as follows, as compared to a similar poll in April. Only one in five (23 per cent) expressed no choice.

	April	TODAY
Dewey	51%	50%
Stassen	15	15
Taft	7	9
Vandenberg	10	9
Warren	3	4
Eisenhower	4	4
Bricker	6	3
MacArthur	2	3
Saltonstall	1	*
Others	1	3

The fact that a man is popular one year before nominations does not in any sense mean that he will necessarily be picked by the convention delegates as the standard bearer.

In 1940, for example, right up to a few weeks before nomination time, Dewey was found leading by a substantial margin in the Institute's poll of Republican voters. He had been leading in popularity for more than a year.

But Wendell Wilkie, in a meteoric pre-convention popularity rise, finally overtook him as the leading choice of the rank and file and got the nomination.

On the other hand, in 1944 Dewey was the popular choice a year or more before the convention; he held his lead, and was nominated.

A man's popularity is subject to wide changes from year to year. In 1945, for instance, Governor Dewey was far ahead as the candidate choice of his fellow Republican voters. During 1946, however, he slumped sharply, while Mr. Stassen's popularity rose.

At one point, in May, 1946, the two were running neck and neck.

Then, after Governor Dewey's re-election as governor of New York by a smashing majority in November, 1946, he pulled out ahead of Stassen and has remained there ever since.

The sharp changes in the popularity of the two leaders may be seen in the following trend based on Institute polls among Republicans.

It suggests the possibility that once again between now and 1948 Mr. Stassen may gain sharply and Governor Dewey decline, as happened in 1946.

	May 1945	May 1946	Dec. 1946	To-day
Dewey	59%	35%	52%	50%
Stassen	15	34	17	15
Taft	2	3	2	9
Vandenberg	4	5	9	9
Bricker	8	10	8	3
Eisenhower	*	2	2	4
MacArthur	7	5	2	3
Warren	1	*	5	4
Saltonstall	1	1	1	*

THURSDAY GAMES

Outdoor Club at P. E. (Ft. Hill)
Texcel at K. of C. (East Side)
Moose at Jaycees (Rolling Mill)
Elks at Legion (Allegany)

Jim Browning's Knights of Columbus knocked off the B.P.O. Elks by the score of 7-5 in the "battle for second place," the American Legion retained its half-game lead by chalking up its ninth consecutive triumph over Texcel 4-3 but the big news of the day in the Rocking Chair Softball League yesterday was the Junior Association of Commerce's 7 to 0 triumph over Potomac Edison.

The Jaycees' victory was "big news" because Manager Dave Kauffman's aggregation broke a losing streak of 18 games to mark up its initial win of the campaign over P. E. behind the two-hit pitching of Brace Lee.

The Jaycees scored six runs in the 7th inning and their nine hits included home runs by Suter Kegg and Harry Kauffman.

Cavanaugh Poles Homer

"Bobby" Cavanaugh's three-run homer in the first frame started the Knights of Columbus on their way to victory over the Elks on the Rolling Mill diamond. After that blow the Knights were never headed. None of the Caseys got more than one hit but "Chick" Snider larruped a triple, "Lefty" Loibel and Hillary Green hit two-baggers and Norman Gerdeman drove in two runs with a single.

"Bud" Scaletta relieved Loibel in the fourth with one run over, the bases loaded—and none out. After the Elks chased over three more runs, Scaletta yielded only one hit and blanked the opposition the rest of the way.

"Bunny" Saum Wins Tenth

Fritz Palmer's high - stepping American Legion team registered another victory at the expense of the Texcel tossers at East Side.

Albert "Bunny" Saum made it ten wins against a single loss and marked up his ninth triumph in a row. Bill Spangler homered with one aboard in the fourth and also banged out a single. John Kelley of the Legion and Stewart of Texcel also got two hits each.

The Loyal Order of Moose pulled up a half game in the rear of the third place Elks by taking the measure of the Outdoor Club at Campobello, 3 to 2.

Frank Fogtman won his own game in the fourth inning when he singled home Manager Lon Jackson after the latter had walked and moved to second when Angellatta was safe on an error. Fogtman and Minnicks of the Moose and Day of the Outdoor Club each hit safely twice. Frank Williams of the winners smacked a three-bagger. Scores:

Pirates Wallop Ball, Grab Pair From Brooklyn

Bucs Gather 25 Hits And Win 12-4 And 9-3

BROOKLYN, July 15 (AP) — The cellar dwelling Pittsburgh Pirates came out of their lethargy with a vengeance today, hammering out 25 hits including eight for extra bases against seven Brooklyn pitchers to defeat the Dodgers in both ends of a double header 12-4 and 9-3.

The Pirates, who had dropped seven games to Brooklyn in nine previous starts, wasted little time in jumping on first game starter Harry Taylor. Aided by Wally Westlake's base clearing double, they scored four times in the first inning and were never headed.

The Bucs sewed up the first game in the seventh when Westlake hit a grand slam home run off Hugh Casey to give him seven runs batted in.

The Pirates continued their heavy hitting in the nightcap, bombarding starter Joe Hatten for nine hits and nine runs in less than four innings. A two-run homer by Jimmy Bloodworth and a pair of doubles by Hank Greenberg, who sat out the first game, highlighted the attack. Box:

KOSLO BLANKS CUBS

NEW YORK, July 15 (AP)—Lefty Dave Koslo shut out the Chicago Cubs with five hits tonight for his 10th victory of the season as the New York Giants won 4-0. Walker Cooper hit his 20th home run and Willard Marshall his 21st for the Giants.

Koslo, in winning his second shutout, fanned five Cubs whom he has now beaten four straight times. Doyle Lade, who pitched the first six innings, was tagged with his seventh defeat.

The Giants broke a scoreless deadlock in the fourth on a hit batsman, an infied out and the first of Lenny Merullo's two errors. Marshall's and Cooper's homers came in succession in the sixth. The other tally crossed the plate in the same inning when Catcher Bob Scheffing threw the ball into left field in an attempt to pick Sid Gordon off third. Score:

BLACKWELL WINS NO. 16

PHILADELPHIA, July 15 (AP) — Ewell Blackwell chalked up his 14th straight victory tonight as the Cincinnati Reds came from behind to defeat the Philadelphia Phillies 5 to 4 with Eddie Miller driving in the deciding run in the eighth inning before a crowd of 19,298.

Registering his 16th triumph of the season as against two setbacks, Blackwell yielded six of the Phils ten hits and all of their runs in the first three innings. Thereafter he was in trouble only in the eighth when sensational catches by Eddie Miller and Ray Lamanno helped him out of a hole.

The Phils got to the lanky Reds' hurler for two runs on three hits in the first inning and scored two more the same way in the third. But they could do nothing more as Blackwell ran his strikeouts string to nine. Score:

The Amvets took the series opener on May 3 by the score of 3-1, Danny Drew gaining a decision over Johnny Workman. On June 19 the locals made it two straight by winning to the tune of 9-1, Lefty Bill Dadd gaining the verdict over Buttermore.

Spencer Overton Annexes Maryland Open Tournament

Winner's Score 137; Boggs 8th With 143

CATONSVILLE, Md., July 15 (AP)—Spencer Overton, 49-year-old Catonsville amateur shot rounds of 72 and 65 over Rolling Road — his home course — today to win the Maryland Open golf championship, with a 36-hole total of 137.

Ralph Beach, professional at the Suburban Club, Baltimore, and Leo Walper, pro at Washington's Congressional Club, shared runner-up honors with totals of 139. Beach carded a 69 in the morning and followed up with a 70 in the afternoon round. Walper had a 71 and a 68.

One hundred and eleven golfers from throughout this area took part in the tourney over the par-70 layout.

Overton, 11 times Rolling Road Club champion, finished in the second foresome and his 137 was the mark to shoot at from then on in.

Bobby Brownell, Manor Club, Washington, seemed to have the best chance, after shoting a 67 in the morning, the medal for that round.

Brownell had defeated Overton 3 and 2 to win the Maryland amateur last month, but by the end of nine holes of the afternoon round, it was apparent he had little chance of beating him out this time. He carded a 37 and finished with a 36 to end up in fourth place with a 140.

Two veteran professionals, Carroll MacMaster of Woodholme, and Al Houghton of Prince Georges, a four-time winner of the open, were second in the morning with 68's, but both faltered in the afternoon, Houghton slipping to 73 and MacMaster to a 79.

Carroll Boggs, Cumberland Country Club professional, tied for eighth place with a score of 72-71—143.

Dispatches to the Globe and Traveler from Chicago said that Charlie Grimm of the Cubs is slated to be the next Cleveland manager.

Whether Boudreau would be named manager if he was obtained by the Red Sox is not known. Joe Cronin has indicated he is about ready to give up the managership and move into the front office.

ANOTHER TITLE CRACK FOR ROCKY

Louis Will Not Defend His Title Until 1948

May Engage In Pair Of Non-Title Bouts

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, July 15 (AP) — Joe Louis and his board of strategy surveyed the mediocre heavyweight stock pile today and announced that the champion would not defend his title in 1947.

Cancellation of a tentatively scheduled Sept. 19 Yankee Stadium bout for the Brown Bomber was a direct result of a three-way conference of Louis, his manager Marshall Miles of Buffalo and Sol Strauss, acting for the ailing Promoter Mike Jacobs.

Louis, however, will not be permitted to rust on the inactive list as two non-title 10-round scraps inside Madison Square Garden will keep him busy during the fall and winter.

The winner of the July 25 Ezzard Charles-Elmer (Violet) Ray bout is the likely opponent of Louis in a Nov. 14 match and Olle Tandberg, the Swedish heavyweight who upset Joe Baksi, may be the foe in mid-March of 1948.

Suppose Joe Is Stopped?

It is possible, under New York State Athletic Commission rules, for Louis to appear in 10 round scraps without risking his crown because all title fights in this state must be over the 15-round route. However, a moot question would be raised if somebody belted him on the whiskers and put him down for ten.

The champion summed up the current heavyweight picture, bluntly and accurately when he commented in Chicago after the Tandberg's victory over Baksi, "I don't see how the public would pay more than 15 cents to see a championship fight in which the contenders pop out of nowhere like Tandberg."

Baksi had been in line for the September shot although he played hard to get and refused an "opportunity" to meet Joe in June. The ex-beer hall bouncer from Kulpmont, Pa., was too busy touring Europe to meet Louis at that time. After he was decisioned by the unknown Swede, nobody cared.

Louis, who has eliminated one contender after another in his 10-year reign since he stopped Jimmy Braddock in 1937, has not been able to work up much excitement about the current crop of big boys. Neither has the public.

Charles, really a light heavyweight, was dumped on his silk panties by Hilton (Fitzie) Fitzpatrick in a Cincinnati bout last night, Ezzy got up and went on to win but did not show enough to give Louis any sleepless nights.

Chard Surprises Elmer

The Violent Ray ran into a tough customer in Howard Chard of Toronto and Scranton, Pa., before he finally won by a knockout in the seventh at Syracuse last night. Chard, a recent graduate from the preliminary ranks in upstate rings, extended Elmer more than might be expected for a main go Garden scrapper.

Labor Board Gives Pirates Clean Bill

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 15 (AP)—After a year of legal crossfire, the Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board today dismissed charges of unfair labor practices against owners of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

At the same time, however, the board rejected a management contention and ruled that Robert Murphy's American Baseball Guild was a bona fide labor organization and that the Pittsburgh Athletic Co., owner of the Pirates, was an employer within the meaning of the state labor relations law.

The joint action rang down the curtain—for the time being, at least—on attempts to unionize baseball players which less than a year ago nearly precipitated two separate strikes among the Buccos.

Jackie Paterson To Fight Marino

Flyweight Title Go In Scotland Tonight

GLASGOW, July 15 (AP)—Hawaiian Dado Marino, who dazzled the Scots with his Aloha wardrobe when he arrived, will take off his gaudy shirt tomorrow night and attempt to startle Jackie Paterson out of his world flyweight title with his dukes.

Their 15-round championship scrap in Hampden Park football stadium started out to attract a Scottish record gate of about 5,000 but two postponements—from June 14 and July 9—have left the fans skeptical, their money in hand.

If Paterson makes the weight—112 pounds—in the weigh-in tomorrow afternoon, spectators may decide that Jackie is serious and deluge the tills.

For Paterson, 27-year-old Scot who once sold newspapers in America where he lived as a kid, is the big question mark. The two delays were caused by his breaking out with boils. With those cleared up, he still had the little man's headache—getting down to 112 pounds.

Between defenses of his world flyweight crown — the last was against Joe Curran in July 1946—Paterson fights in the bantamweight bracket, in which he holds two British titles.

Orval Overall, Former Chicago Pitcher, Dies

FRESNO, Calif., July 15 (AP)—Orval Overall, 66, one of the great major league pitchers for the Chicago Cubs from 1906 to 1910 under the managership of Frank Chance, died last night after being stricken with a heart attack.

Overall's masterful pitching arm went bad after the 1910 series and his baseball days ended following a comeback attempt in 1913.

At the time of his death he was vice president and manager of the Fresno branch of the Security First National Bank of Los Angeles.

Ringside Seats Bring $30 For Chicago Title Battle

CHAMP, CHALLENGER MAKE PREDICTIONS

CHICAGO, July 15 (AP) — Here are the pre-battle statements for tomorrow's middleweight championship bout:

CHAMPION TONY ZALE: The way I feel, I'll whip Graziano within six rounds. I'm stronger than in our last fight, when I knocked him out in six. Remember, I was fighting after only two months recuperation from pneumonia that time, and I fought the last four rounds with a broken right hand.

CHALLENGER ROCKY GRAZIANO: Tony is crazy. I'll knock him out in any round he falls. And it won't last more than one or two. It can't go more than a few rounds — and I'll be the champ when it's over.

Fight Is Expected To End In Knockout

By SID FEDER

CHICAGO, July 15 (AP) — The fight fan's dream fight—the second go-round of the middleweight championship brawling between Tony Zale and Rocky Graziano — comes off in Chicago Stadium tomorrow night, and it is practically a sure-pop cinch that the birdies will sing for one of them along the way.

This only has to be a weak carbon copy of the explosion they set off in Yankee Stadium last September to be twice as hot as the weather around here, which is going to be very warm, indeed, in the stadium around 10 p. m. (Central Daylight Time) tomorrow. It's an indoor arena without cooling system, to begin with, and there'll be a near-sell-out of some 20,000 sardined customers, and a ring lit up by heat-throwing special photo floodlights to aid the photographers.

First Bout Ended In 6th

The last time, Champion Tony came back from the verge of dreamland—he was so far gone, in fact, that ringsiders were betting 2 to 1 he couldn't even answer the bell for the sixth— to cave the roof in on Rocky in that same sixth round and save his title in as game a job as any ear-scrambler has turned in for quite a spell.

It was a pier-six punch-party all the way between the Indiana steel millhand, who specializes in thumping body punches not a bit conducive to aiding the appetite, and the rock-a-bye belter from New York's lower East Side streets, who wears an ether can for a right hand. And both of them are figuring on making tomorrow's row-de-dow a rubber stamp job—only more so.

260 Writers Cover Bout

The result is, the Bash Boulevardiers are gathering from near and far for this one—from Washington and New York and California and New Orleans and various stops along Jacobs Beach and Cauliflower Alley—to give it all the earmarks of a heavyweight title super-colossal. Some 260 sports writers are here to cover it. And the customers already have contributed enough cash—at $30 per ringside pew—to assure a new all-time high gate for an indoor fight.

This old mark is the $201,485 that Jack Delaney and Jim Maloney lured into Madison Square Garden just 20 years ago. There already is more than $400,000 in the till for tomorrow's taffy pull, with a $425,000 house expected. This, with the $30,000 broadcast money may make it the fanciest jackpot for two little men—smaller than lightheavies—in history. That high was the $452,648 gold ruch to see Benny Leonard and Lew Tendler in Yankee Stadium back in '23.

Both Predict Knockouts

No one will be more surprised than Thumping Tony and Rock-A-Bye Rocky themselves if tomorrow's get-together goes the full 15-round derby route. Not a single sparring drill during their training grinds was for more than six rounds. Tony, ordinarily as quiet as a Swiss watch, steps right up in meeting to remark he'll repeat in about the same distance as last time—six rounds. Rocky insists this qualifies Tony for a reerved seat in a padded cell and that he'll put the lights out for the champ in a round, maybe two.

As a result, the bookmakers make it only even money on a knockout either way. They've had Tony the favorite to win at 5 to 7, but predict it will be just about "evens" when the shooting starts.

This corner an original Zale vote a year ago, once more goes for Tony in his sixth title defense, this time in about six rounds again, in spite of the fact that Rocky has youth (he's 25 to Tony's 33) and has that right hand equalizer.

Zale appears in better condition, probably from the fact that he's had six fights since their last roundup, while Graziano has had only two, for a total of just six rounds.

THURSDAY GAMES

Outdoor Club at P. E. (Ft. Hill)
Texcel at K. of C. (East Side)
Moose at Jaycees (Rolling Mill)
Elks at Legion (Allegany)

Jim Browning's Knights of Columbus knocked off the B.P.O. Elks by the score of 7-5 in the "battle for second place," the American Legion retained its half-game lead by chalking up its ninth consecutive triumph over Texcel 4-3 but the big news of the day in the Rocking Chair Softball League yesterday was the Junior Association of Commerce's 7 to 0 triumph over Potomac Edison.

The Jaycees' victory was "big news" because Manager Dave Kauffman's aggregation broke a losing streak of 18 games to mark up its initial win of the campaign over P. E. behind the two-hit pitching of Brace Lee.

The Jaycees scored six runs in the 7th inning and their nine hits included home runs by Suter Kegg and Harry Kauffman.

Cavanaugh Poles Homer

"Bobby" Cavanaugh's three-run homer in the first frame started the Knights of Columbus on their way to victory over the Elks on the Rolling Mill diamond. After that blow the Knights were never headed. None of the Caseys got more than one hit but "Chick" Snider garruped a triple, "Lefty" Loibel and Hillary Green hit two-baggers and Norman Gerdeman drove in two runs with a single.

"Bud" Scaletta relieved Loibel in the fourth with one run over, the bases loaded—and none out. After the Elks chased over three more runs, Scaletta yielded only one hit and blanked the opposition the rest of the way.

"Banny" Saum Wins Tenth

Fritz Palmer's high - stepping American Legion team registered another victory at the expense of the Texcel tossers at East Side.

Albert "Bunny" Saum made it ten wins against a single loss and marked up his ninth triumph in a row. Bill Spangler homered with one aboard in the fourth and also banged out a single. John Kelley of the Legion and Stewart of Texcel also got two hits each.

The Loyal Order of Moose pulled up a half game in the rear of the third place Elks by taking the measure of the Outdoor Club at Campobello, 3 to 2.

Frank Fogtman won his own game in the fourth inning when he singled home Manager Lon Jackson after the latter had walked and moved to second when Angellatta was safe on an error. Fogtman and Mindicks of the Moose and Day of the Outdoor Club each hit safely twice. Frank Williams of the winners smacked a three-bagger. Scores:

Pirates Wallop Ball, Grab Pair From Brooklyn

Bucs Gather 25 Hits And Win 12-4 And 9-3

BROOKLYN, July 15 (AP) — The cellar dwelling Pittsburgh Pirates came out of their lethargy with a vengeance today, hammering out 25 hits including eight for extra bases against seven Brooklyn pitchers to defeat the Dodgers in both ends of a double header 12-4 and 9-3.

The Pirates, who had dropped seven games to Brooklyn in nine previous starts, wasted little time in jumping on first game starter Harry Taylor. Aided by Wally Westlake's base clearing double, they scored four times in the first inning and were never headed.

The Bucs sewed up the first game in the seventh when Westlake hit a grand slam home run off Hugh Casey to give him seven runs batted in.

The Pirates continued their heavy hitting in the nightcap, bombarding starter Joe Hatten for nine hits and nine runs in less than four innings. A two-run homer by Jimmy Bloodworth and a pair of doubles by Hank Greenberg, who sat out the first game, highlighted the attack. Box:

KOSLO BLANKS CUBS

NEW YORK, July 15 (AP)—Lefty Dave Koslo shut out the Chicago Cubs with five hits tonight for his 10th victory of the season as the New York Giants won 4-0. Walker Cooper hit his 20th home run and Willard Marshall his 21st for the Giants.

Koslo, in winning his second shutout, fanned five Cubs whom he has now beaten four straight times. Doyle Lade, who pitched the first six innings, was tagged with his seventh defeat.

The Giants broke a scoreless deadlock in the fourth on a hit batsman, an infied out and the first of Lenny Merullo's two errors. Marshall's and Cooper's homers came in succession in the sixth. The other tally crossed the plate in the same inning when Catcher Bob Scheffing threw the ball into left field in an attempt to pick Sid Gordon off third. Score:

BLACKWELL WINS NO. 16

PHILADELPHIA, July 15 (AP) — Ewell Blackwell chalked up his 14th straight victory tonight as the Cincinnati Reds came from behind to defeat the Philadelphia Phillies 5 to 4 with Eddie Miller driving in the deciding run in the eighth inning before a crowd of 19,298.

Registering his 16th triumph of the season as against two setbacks, Blackwell yielded six of the Phils ten hits and all of their runs in the first three innings. Thereafter he was in trouble only in the eighth when sensational catches by Eddie Miller and Ray Lamanno helped him out of a hole.

The Phils got to the lanky Reds' hurler for two runs on three hits in the first inning and scored two more the same way in the third. But they could do nothing more as Blackwell ran his strikeouts string to nine. Score:

The Amvets took the series opener on May 3 by the score of 3-1, Danny Drew gaining a decision over Johnny Workman. On June 19 the locals made it two straight by winning to the tune of 9-1, Lefty Bill Dadd gaining the verdict over Buttermore.

Last Saturday's game was postponed until today.

Spencer Overton Annexes Maryland Open Tournament

Winner's Score 137; Boggs 8th With 143

CATONSVILLE, Md., July 15 (AP)—Spencer Overton, 49-year-old Catonsville amateur shot rounds of 72 and 65 over Rolling Road — his home course — today to win the Maryland Open golf championship, with a 36-hole total of 137.

Ralph Beach, professional at the Suburban Club, Baltimore, and Leo Walper, pro at Washington's Congressional Club, shared runner-up honors with totals of 139. Beach carded a 69 in the morning and followed up with a 70 in the afternoon round. Walper had a 71 and a 68.

One hundred and eleven golfers from throughout this area took part in the tourney over the par-70 layout.

Overton, 11 times Rolling Road Club champion, finished in the second foresome and his 137 was the mark to shoot at from then on in.

Bobby Brownell, Manor Club, Washington, seemed to have the best chance, after shoting a 67 in the morning, the medal for that round.

Brownell had defeated Overton 3 and 2 to win the Maryland amateur last month, but by the end of nine holes of the afternoon round, it was apparent he had little chance of beating him out this time. He carded a 37 and finished with a 36 to end up in fourth place with a 140.

Two veteran professionals, Carroll MacMaster of Woodholme, and Al Houghton of Prince Georges, a fourtime winner of the open, were second in the morning with 68's, but both faltered in the afternoon, Houghton slipping to 73 and MacMaster to a 79.

Carroll Boggs, Cumberland Country Club professional, tied for eighth place with a score of 72-71—143.

Dispatches to the Globe and Traveler from Chicago said that Charlie Grimm of the Cubs is slated to be the next Cleveland manager.

Whether Boudreau would be named manager if he was obtained by the Red Sox is not known. Joe Cronin has indicated he is about ready to give up the managership and move into the front office.

ANOTHER TITLE CRACK FOR ROCKY

May Engage In Pair Of Non-Title Bouts

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, July 15 (AP) — Joe Louis and his board of strategy surveyed the mediocre heavyweight stock pile today and announced that the champion would not defend his title in 1947.

Cancellation of a tentatively scheduled Sept. 19 Yankee Stadium bout for the Brown Bomber was a direct result of a three-way conference of Louis, his manager Marshall Miles of Buffalo and Sol Strauss, acting for the ailing Promoter Mike Jacobs.

Louis, however, will not be permitted to rust on the inactive list as two non-title 10-round scraps inside Madison Square Garden will keep him busy during the fall and winter.

The winner of the July 25 Ezzard Charles-Elmer (Violet) Ray bout is the likely opponent of Louis in a Nov. 14 match and Olle Tandberg, the Swedish heavyweight who upset Joe Baksi, may be the foe in mid-March of 1948.

Suppose Joe Is Stopped?

It is possible, under New York State Athletic Commission rules, for Louis to appear in 10 round scraps without risking his crown because all title fights in this state must be over the 15-round route. However, a moot question would be raised if somebody belted him on the whiskers and put him down for ten.

The champion summed up the current heavyweight picture, bluntly and accurately when he commented in Chicago after the Tandberg's victory over Baksi, "I don't see how the public would pay more than 15 cents to see a championship fight in which the contenders pop out of nowhere like Tandberg."

Baksi had been in line for the September shot although he played hard to get and refused an "opportunity" to meet Joe in June. The ex-beer hall bouncer from Kulpmont, Pa., was too busy touring Europe to meet Louis at that time. After he was decisioned by the unknown Swede, nobody cared.

Louis, who has eliminated one contender after another in his 10-year reign since he stopped Jimmy Braddock in 1937, has not been able to work up much excitement about the current crop of big boys. Neither has the public.

Charles, really a light heavyweight, was dumped on his silk panties by Hilton (Fitzie) Fitzpatrick in a Cincinnati bout last night, Ezzy got up and went on to win but did not show enough to give Louis any sleepless nights.

Chard Surprises Elmer

The Violent Ray ran into a tough customer in Howard Chard of Toronto and Scranton, Pa., before he finally won by a knockout in the seventh at Syracuse last night. Chard, a recent graduate from the preliminary ranks in upstate rings, extended Elmer more than might be expected for a main go Garden scrapper.

Labor Board Gives Pirates Clean Bill

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 15 (AP)—After a year of legal crossfire, the Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board today dismissed charges of unfair labor practices against owners of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

At the same time, however, the board rejected a management contention and ruled that Robert Murphy's American Baseball Guild was a bona fide labor organization and that the Pittsburgh Athletic Co., owner of the Pirates, was an employer within the meaning of the state labor relations law.

The joint action rang down the curtain—for the time being, at least—on attempts to unionize baseball players which less than a year ago nearly precipitated two separate strikes among the Buccos.

Jackie Paterson To Fight Marino

Flyweight Title Go In Scotland Tonight

GLASGOW, July 15 (AP)—Hawaiian Dado Marino, who dazzled the Scots with his Aloha wardrobe when he arrived, will take off his gaudy shirt tomorrow night and attempt to startle Jackie Paterson out of his world flyweight title with his dukes.

Their 15-round championship scrap in Hampden Park football stadium started out to attract a Scottish record gate of about 5,000 but two postponements—from June 14 and July 9—have left the fans skeptical, their money in hand.

If Paterson makes the weight—112 pounds—in the weigh-in tomorrow afternoon, spectators may decide that Jackie is serious and deluge the tills.

For Paterson, 27-year-old Scot who once sold newspapers in America where he lived as a kid, is the big question mark. The two delays were caused by his breaking out with boils. With those cleared up, he still had the little man's headache—getting down to 112 pounds.

Between defenses of his world flyweight crown — the last was against Joe Curran in July 1946—Paterson fights in the bantamweight bracket, in which he holds two British titles.

Orval Overall, Former Chicago Pitcher, Dies

FRESNO, Calif., July 15 (AP)—Orval Overall, 66, one of the great major league pitchers for the Chicago Cubs from 1906 to 1910 under the managership of Frank Chance, died last night after being stricken with a heart attack.

Overall's masterful pitching arm went bad after the 1910 series and his baseball days ended following a comeback attempt in 1913.

At the time of his death he was vice president and manager of the Fresno branch of the Security First National Bank of Los Angeles.

YANKEES BAG PAIR

Cleveland, July 15 (AP)—The New York Yankees shoved over a run in the ninth inning of the second game of a twi-night doubleheader tonight to shade the Cleveland Indians and Bob Feller, 2 to 1, and increase their winning streak to 16 straight. The Yanks rapped out 10 hits to win the opener, 9 to 4, before 62,355 fans.

The 16 straight victories tie the Yankees' high set by the 1926 New York club. Chicago holds the American League record of 19 in 1906 and the all-time mark is 26 hung up by the New York Giants in 1916. Box:

CHAMP, CHALLENGER MAKE PREDICTIONS

CHICAGO, July 15 (AP) — Here are the pre-battle statements for tomorrow's middleweight championship bout:

CHAMPION TONY ZALE: The way I feel, I'll whip Graziano within six rounds. I'm stronger than in our last fight, when I knocked him out in six. Remember, I was fighting after only two months recuperation from pneumonia that time, and I fought the last four rounds with a broken right hand.

CHALLENGER ROCKY GRAZIANO: Tony is crazy. I'll knock him out in any round he falls. And it won't last more than one or two. It can't go more than a few rounds — and I'll be the champ when it's over.

TALE OF THE TAPE FOR CHICAGO BOUT

Fight Is Expected To End In Knockout

By SID FEDER

CHICAGO, July 15 (AP) — The fight fan's dream fight—the second go-round of the middleweight championship brawling between Tony Zale and Rocky Graziano — comes off in Chicago Stadium tomorrow night, and it is practically a sure-pop cinch that the birdies will sing for one of them along the way.

This only has to be a weak carbon copy of the explosion they set off in Yankee Stadium last September to be twice as hot as the weather around here, which is going to be very warm, indeed, in the stadium around 10 p. m. (Central Daylight Time) tomorrow. It's an indoor arena without cooling system, to begin with, and there'll be a near-sell-out of some 20,000 sardined customers, and a ring lit up by heat-throwing special photo floodlights to aid the photographers.

First Bout Ended In 6th

The last time, Champion Tony came back from the verge of dreamland—he was so far gone, in fact, that ringsiders were betting 2 to 1 he couldn't even answer the bell for the sixth— to cave the roof in on Rocky in that same sixth round and save his title in as game a job as any ear-scrambler has turned in for quite a spell.

It was a pier-six punch-party all the way between the Indiana steel millhand, who specializes in thumping body punches not a bit conducive to aiding the appetite, and the rock-a-bye belter from New York's lower East Side streets, who wears an ether can for a right hand. And both of them are figuring on making tomorrow's row-de-dow a rubber stamp job—only more so.

260 Writers Cover Bout

The result is, the Bash Boulevardiers are gathering from near and far for this one—from Washington and New York and California and New Orleans and various stops along Jacobs Beach and Cauliflower Alley—to give it all the earmarks of a heavyweight title super-colossal. Some 260 sports writers are here to cover it. And the customers already have contributed enough cash —at $30 per ringside pew—to assure a new all-time high gate for an indoor fight.

This old mark is the $201,485 that Jack Delaney and Jim Maloney lured into Madison Square Garden just 20 years ago. There already is more than $400,000 in the till for tomorrow's taffy pull, with a $425,000 house expected. This, with the $30,000 broadcast money may make it the fanciest jackpot for two little men—smaller than lightheavies—in history. That high was the $452,648 gold ruch to see Benny Leonard and Lew Tendler in Yankee Stadium back in '23.

Both Predict Knockouts

No one will be more surprised than Thumping Tony and Rock-A-Bye Rocky themselves if tomorrow's get-together goes the full 15-round derby route. Not a single sparring drill during their training grinds was for more than six rounds. Tony, ordinarily as quiet as a Swiss watch, steps right up in meeting to remark he'll repeat in about the same distance as last time—six rounds. Rocky insists this qualifies Tony for a reerved seat in a padded cell and that he'll put the lights out for the champ in a round, maybe two.

As a result, the bookmakers make it only even money on a knockout either way. They've had Tony the favorite to win at 5 to 7, but predict it will be just about "evens" when the shooting starts.

This corner an original Zale vote a year ago, once more goes for Tony in his sixth title defense, this time in about six rounds again, in spite of the fact that Rocky has youth (he's 25 to Tony's 33) and has that right hand equalizer.

Zale appears in better condition, probably from the fact that he's had six fights since their last roundup, while Graziano has had only two, for a total of just six rounds.

Romney Rockets Edge Queen City In 8-7 Tilt Here

Woodson Fans Leydig, Halts Locals In 9th

Queen City's Brewers went down to defeat at the hands of the Romney (W. Va.) Rockets in a Bi-State Baseball League twilight game yesterday at Stitcher Field by the score of 8-7.

Junior Woodson saved the game for the Hampshire countians in the role of relief pitcher when he rescued Patterson in the last of the ninth by striking out Leydig with second and third base occupied.

Stevenson singled and went to third when Lambert hit over third base. Then Bobby Doak drove in Stevenson and advanced Lambert to third with a timely double. At this crucial moment with the tying and winning runs on the bags,

Greene Rejected Football Offers To Become Trainer Of Race Horses

Will Come To Fairgo; Saddled Toonerville

MARVIN M. GREENE

Marvin M. Greene, one of the youngest trainers of thoroughbred race horses coming to Fairgo for the Cumberland Fair Association's 10-day meeting, August 19 to 30, was a noted football player who turned down several college offers to train the bangtails.

But that was to be expected as his mother and father own and train race horses and have saddled sprinters and routers at several meetings at the local half mile oval.

Marvin is a brother of Stanley Greene, Jr., who also has been connected with racing and has sent many of his horses postward in the past at Fairgo.

The younger Greene is 22 years old and was born at Ashburn, Va., November 24, 1924, but it wasn't until the spring of last year after he got out of the army that he started training horses.

The first winner he ever saddled was Toonerville and local racing fans will remember the many triumphs scored by this horse which is now racing at Charles Town, W. Va. Marvin says Toonerville is the best horse he ever trained and he considers Mrs. John Hertz's Count Fleet the best horse he ever saw race.

Zale and Graziano

There were two elements in the first Zale-Graziano contest, the thriller of the year, that make their second collision in Chicago harder to guess.

As pulse tingling as this first mauling melodrama was, both parties had a major weakness that could bring about defeat. Zale's weakness was his inability to keep his chin away from Graziano's right hand. Rocky made no attempt to disguise his main idea, which was to tear Tony's head from his body with a flurry of rights.

Good boxers are not supposed to leave their chins wide open to right-hand leads. Zale's amazing stamina and gameness carried him through in New York. It might not carry him through again, since he was already listening to the choral melody of singing birds when he brought Rocky to earth.

Graziano's weakness was his inability to finish off a fighter he had almost torn apart — an opponent dazed and battered—reeling on the rim of destruction. To hammer a rival into that state of near disintegration and then let said rival knock one out, indicates a serious flaw, even though the solar plexus is a vulnerable spot when attacked.

More than a few who picked Zale to win in their first show have switched to Graziano, although Zale won by a knockout. This seems to be an odd switch in view of what happened. Their reason for the switch is that Graziano, with a knockout apparently in easy reach, took too much for granted, became careless, and underestimated Zale's stout heart. They figure the Rocky One can out-punch Zale by too wide a margin, and that in tonight's fight, the challenging entry, while not the smartest ringman of all time, won't get careless again.

They also figure that another year added to Zale's life count won't be of any big help.

These reasons are sound enough. Certainly Zale isn't likely to take that much punishment again—and still win. An artist can reach into his hat and bring out a rabbit, but few can bring out a giraffe.

Stringing Along With Zale

Conceding the fact that Graziano's belting right hand might stop Zale at any given moment, we can't turn away from a fellow who showed the fighting heart Tony put on display last summer.

Any defending champion who can come as close to being pulverized as Tony was in their first social engagement, and still have enough left to win by a knockout, has to be given the call.

On that occasion Mr. Zale grabbed off the remembered words of Mr. Henley—to-wit:

"In the fell clutch of punch and sock,
I did not wince or cry aloud
Under the bludgeoning of Rock
My head was bloody—but unbowed."

Zale, as a boxer, was good enough, four or five years ago, to give Billy Conn a close fight, after Conn had traveled 13 rounds with Joe Louis. That should make him good enough to box a number of rings around Graziano, if the years haven't taken too much toll.

I can't quite see Graziano landing those wild rights on such past middleweights as Bob Fitzsimmons, Kid McCoy, Stanley Ketchel, Harry Greb or Mickey Walker. Also, it might be remembered that, Rocky hasn't had too many pleasant moments against opponents who could match him, pound for pound.

If Graziano continues to land those rights on Tony's chin, then Zale isn't the boxer we thought he was, or time has wrecked his reflexes, a vital part of any boxer's ring worth.

"As you get older," Jack Dempsey told me once, "you can see punches coming as quickly as you ever did. But you can't move fast enough to duck or block."

In this meeting tonight, for the middleweight title, it would be no major upset to see Graziano win by a knockout. If he wins, he will be middleweight champion of the world. It will then be interesting to see what the New York Boxing Commission will do about it.

Whatever happens, the middleweight champion won't have to bother about future business, with Cerdan and La Motta hanging around the offing. This is, by all odds, the pick of the divisions today, with four able workmen enrolled. Apart from Zale and Graziano, Cerdan and La Motta could be listed as top attractions in the ring today. It is no sure thing that either Zale or Graziano could beat Cerdan or La Motta.

Boxing has so little to offer these days, aside from Joe Louis and Ray Robinson, who stand alone in their divisions, that the middleweights can't help but steal the spotlight with such able competitors. They carry all of the main action left in the way of class.

A Cub in Size ... but a BEAR for Work!

and Now—
INTERNATIONAL HARVESTER PRESENTS
THE Farmall Cub!

- For all operations on farms of 40 crop acres or less—and truck gardens.
- For special operations on truck farms.
- For large farms that need an extra tractor.

That's the Farmall Cub, the first tractor in history that's built right and priced right for a great new group of tractor owners.

The Cub is the newest member of the famous FARMALL FAMILY. It brings the advantages of the FARMALL® SYSTEM OF FARMING to the small, family farm.

It's a Cub in size, but "a BEAR for work." You get big-Farmall quality and design, plus scaled-down, small-tractor economy. And there is a full line of matched, quick-change, easy-to-control implements.

The smooth-running 4-cylinder engine develops approximately 9¼ h.p. on the belt. It uses considerably less than a gallon of gasoline an hour. There's a comfortable, roomy seat ... ample crop clearance under the chassis ... and "Culti-Vision" to give a clear, unobstructed view of your work.

Fit the Cub into your farming operations. We'll have one on hand soon, so you can climb in the seat and drive it. You'll find it handles as easily as your car.

*Registered trade-mark.
ONLY International Harvester builds FARMALL Tractors.

Graziano-Zale Fight To Be On NBC Tonight

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, July 15—Another Tony Zale-Rocky Graziano fight is on the broadcast cards Wednesday night. This time the announced middleweight battle takes place in Chicago and the network for distribution of the vocalization thereof is NBC.

Time on the air is 10 p. m., the whole thing being set up at the behest of a sponsor. Sam Taub, who has specialized in local station fight broadcasting, will tell about the blows and other things.

The previous Zale-Graziano meeting was last September in New York under different auspices.

Lights Out, eerie type of radio drama which is been on about every network in existance, since it was first started by NBC a decade or so ago, is getting another assignment. Henry Morgan's sponsor has picked the program to fill in during the vacation period. The first program at 10:30 will have Boris Karloff, expert in scare roles, for the guest lead. He also will appear in others in the series, which primarily will use revivals of outstanding scripts.

Shadows of the Mind of MBS at 9 says its drama will be "Mind Over Murder," dealing with the question of the influence of hypnotism on behavior.

Paul Whiteman's assembly now at 8:30 on ABC will come from Hollywood and take the form " a salute to Louisiana's National Guard 39th. Division. One of the tunes will be "Madri Gras."

Wrapped Brick Tossed Through Auto Window

A wrapped brick in two stolen diapers was tossed through a door window of an automobile here early yesterday morning but nothing was taken from the machine by the would-be thieves, according to police.

A flashlight and pair of binoculars in the glove compartment of the car, owned by John Carl Weisenmiller, 640 North Centre Street, were not disturbed. The diapers were stolen from the rear of 638 North Centre Street, police said.

Carl T. Stangle, Route 1, Ridgeley, notified authorities that a silver and gold plated trumpet, valued at $300, was stolen from his car parked on Salem Street, at the rear door of the State Armory, between 12:30 and 1 a. m. yesterday.

Salute For Mr. Waring

Thirty years ago, Fred Waring took his Banjazztra, a name he has probably lived to regret, to Altoona, Pa., to play his first out-of-town date. The band was composed of Waring, his brother Tom, Poley McClintock and the late Fred Buck, all of Tyrone, Pa. Since that time, the organization has greatly expanded, the out-of-town dates are countless, but the spirit of the original enterprise remains largely unchanged.

John Crosby

I have no great patience with the practice of throwing posies at show people solely because of their longevity, and I don't propose to do it here. However, Waring has considerably more than gray hair to show for his 30 years in the music field. Waring is an original and there aren't very many of them. Over the years he has gone his own way — leading popular taste, not following it or pandering to it. He is one of the most imitated of band leaders, but his outfit has too much on the ball to bother about imitating any one else.

The original band was a rather odd bunch. The boys could not only play instruments, they were adept at novelty numbers, musical pranks of all sorts and could, if pressed, deliver a stirring rendition of a hymn. In that respect, the orchestra hasn't changed. Waring persistently hires men who can do more than play in the band. His musicians can double in the glee club, do comedy bits and, if necessary, do animal noises. He has never needed guest stars. The outfit is full of talented musicians, many of whom have been with Waring for years. Fifteen members of the outfit have been with him for 20 or more years.

Perhaps Waring's most important contribution to popular music is the glee club. It's been imitated on a dozen other programs, but no other aggregation approaches the versatility, smoothness and sheer perfection of Waring's. It has had an immense influence on choral singing throughout the country. Today Waring's choral arrangements are used by 1,500 music educators in daily classroom work. Many of the special musical programs in schools and colleges have been directed by Waring's assistants. This summer, 400 music educators from forty states, Canada, and China, are attending the Waring Musical Workshop at Shawnee, Pa., to try to discover how Waring does it. Well, one of his techniques—I can pass this along from personal observation—is plain hard work. I once watched a Waring assistant work with the glee club to polish up three chords. It took half an hour and the young man was still tearing his hair out in chunks, which was his method of conveying dissatisfaction.

All this is meant to serve as an introduction to Waring's two summer programs. His morning program (NBC 11 a. m. E. D. T. Mondays through Fridays) continues unchanged. Last spring this program was singled out at the Ohio State University's Institute for Education by Radio as the outstanding daytime program on the air. In addition, Mr. Waring, who is one of the few persons in radio who works harder in the summer than in the winter, has taken over the half hour spot usually occupied by Fibber McGee and Molly (NBC 9:30 p. m. E. D. T. Tuesdays.)

There is little difference between the morning and evening programs. A Waring production is a finished bit of musical showmanship from beginning to end. You will hear the current juke box favorites, though not played in a juke box way, perhaps a folk tune, a college band number, some monkeyshines on an electric guitar, or possibly, an old favorite revived for the occasion. The orchestra, the glee club, the soloists work on this variety of material, individually, and collectively, in a manner that is calculated to produce the most pleasing tone colors. There is variety, pace and excellent orchestration. But above all, the boys seem to be enjoying themselves. I guess that's the secret.

Railroad Man Seeks $10,000 For Injuries

A $10,000 damage suit was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by a B. and O. Railroad fireman as a result of injuries he received in a car crash May 14 near Cresaptown.

The declaration in the suit charges that James Corbin was operating a car in a reckless and negligent manner and crashed into the parked vehicle of James E. Cook. In his suit Cook claims that he suffered a fractured right leg at the knee and severe lacerations of the head and face. He also claims that his machine was badly damaged.

Loss of wages, medical expenses and the bodily injuries are listed as Cook's main claims for damages. Edward J. Ryan and William L. Wilson, Jr., are attorneys for Cook.

FBI statistics show approximately five times as many men as women are arested annually for violation of laws.

Economic Conditions Here Termed Favorable

Economic conditions of this locality are currently favorable and where tendencies are downward they appear to be largely seasonal on the basis of three business barometers studied by the Bureau of Business and Economic Research of the University of Maryland in conducting a survey of Allegany County at the request of the Chamber of Commerce.

Advertising lineage in Cumberland newspapers indicates the briskness of trade and continues to hold a position high above the normal tendency, according to the report, issued by Dr. John H. Cover, director.

The report also states that should seasonal movements occur as usual bank debits should increase in July. It adds that construction has increased noticably in the first part of this year, rising abruptly in May, despite the continued increase in building costs.

Graziano-Zale Fight To Be On NBC Tonight

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, July 15—Another Tony Zale-Rocky Graziano fight is on the broadcast cards Wednesday night. This time the announced middleweight battle takes place in Chicago and the network for distribution of the vocalization thereof is NBC.

Time on the air is 10 p. m., the whole thing being set up at the behest of a sponsor. Sam Taub, who has specilaized in local station fight broadcasting, will tell about the blows and other things.

The previous Zale-Graziano meeting was last September in New York under different auspices.

Lights Out, eerie type of radio drama which is been on about every network in existance, since it was first started by NBC a decade or so ago, is getting another assignment. Henry Morgan's sponsor has picked the program to fill in during the vacation period. The first program at 10:30 will have Boris Karloff, expert in scare roles, for the guest lead. He also will appear in others in the series, which primarily will use revivals of outstanding scripts.

Shadows of the Mind of MBS at 9 says its drama will be "Mind Over Murder," dealing with the question of the influence of hypnotism on behavior.

Paul Whiteman's assembly now at 8:30 on ABC will come from Hollywood and take the form of a salute to Louisiana's National Guard 39th. Division. One of the tunes will be "Madri Gras."

Boys' Club Feted

The Junior Boys Club, sponsored by the Eckhart Square Circle Association, recently completed their annual early summer planting of young trees. The seedlings planted in Eckhart by the boys consisted of vines which supply food for woldlife, 500 red pine trees, 500 Scotch pine, 75 blight resisting chestnuts, 100 hazelnuts and various other types of trees.

In recognition of the extensive work they have done on the tree and shrub planting project, the boys were entertained Saturday evening with a weiner roast at the club house in Eckhart. Carl F. Robertson, of the Eckhart Square Circle Association, had charge of the program, which included a demonstration on the safe handling of firearms by Eugene Delaney, also a Square Circle member.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, July 15—Hot, but very hot, is the deal now being negotiated with Mary Pickford and Universal-International to buy "One Touch of Venus", the Broadway hit which starred Mary Martin a few years ago.

Mary Pickford

And here is the interesting angle if the deal goes through, and it seems very likely that it will. The picture will be released as an independent venture, with Hedy Lamarr and Dick Haymes in the starring roles. John Beck and Lester Cowan, the latter is Miss Pickford's business partner, will make it for William Goetz.

Hedy, of course, would play the Mary Martin role and Dick, who recently joined Universal-International, the John Boles role. The part calls for a fine singing voice and Dick has that.

If Margaret O'Brien weren't such a good little actress and the juvenile idol of millions, I' d say she could certainly ham it up in "Big City".

For the price of a theater ticket, you'll hear Missy O'Brien give with a ducky Yiddish dialect, a dash of an Italian accent and then go heavy on an Irish brogue. All of which is guaranteed to have the customers in the Aisles gurgling "how cute!"

You see, in this one, Margaret plays a waif adopted, in turn, by an Irish cop, a Protestant minister and a rabbi. I hope you don't think I'm being facetious about the darling of MGM. I'm one of her most ardent admirers.

I have always believed that Jimmy Stewart would have the lead in "Harvey" when it is made on the screen, and the gossip now is that it's cinched. But William Goetz, who should know, says no one is definite for the part.

"Jimmy," said Bill, " Would be good, but he's just one of many. Besides, we're not going to make the picture next next summer, which gives us plenty of time to make our choice."

I still believe that Jimmy has the role in his vest pocket. He makes no secret that he wants to play Elwood Dowd.

Milton Sperling is very frank in saying that he has indefinitely postponed "The Children", the story of the displaced children in Germany. He says his is a small independent company and it's too expensive to make a picture in Europe now. The whole junket, he feels, would be impractical.

I had also heard that Billy Wilder and Charlie Brackett were postponing their picture, "Operation Candy Bar", bu this they deny. They of course will only take location shots in Germany and do not intend to import any actors.

Chatter in Hollywood: A woman who says she is the mother of one of our well known actresses, has paid me several visits and called many times. She says she has written a book and that the woman the actress is introducing as her mother has no parental claim.

The actress denies the story. In my business I hear so many strange things. Some people have hallucinations. others tell the truth. However, I feel this woman will stop at nothing to get her case before the public.

Unless you have a memory like an elephant, it won't mean anything to you that a beautiful woman named Leni Lynn is the toast of the current opera season at Covent Gardens in London.

But maybe you will recall Leni as the little Italian school girl from Jersey City who was sent to Hollywood about 10 years ago by the schools kids of her home town who pitched in their dimes, nickels and pennies to start her on a Hollywood career.

Her voice was beautiful, but somehow she never got started. When MGM didn't pick up her option, she was broken hearted and decided to leave Hollywood. What do you bet, she won't get another bid now she's the belle of the London opera?

This I love!

Gene Autry's horse Champion and his leading filly in "The Strawberry Roan" have pffffft and this might be funny except that Columbia is losing a lot of costly shootin' time.

It's very important to the story that the two nags behave like spring is in bloom and like they are each other's oats—I suppose you would put it, delicately.

Everything was peachy while they were on location, but now the company is back at the studio, Champ and the lady whose name is Sweetheart have developed a downright aversion to each other.

Well, this isn't the first romance Hollywood has broken up.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Ruth Warrick and Merrill Pye are still that away, and I'm one that thinks they'll marry one of these days.

There's not only David Rose in June Haver's life, but another David, to whom she telephones long distance.

Marie Allison who looks an awful lot like Lila Leeds, who looks like Lana Turner, with Steve Crane at Sportsman's Lodge. He sure sticks to one type.

Kahtryn Grayson and Johnny ohnston have already bought wedding rings. They'll have a double ring ceremony when they take the big step August 2.

Mark Stevens at the Dells last night with Patti Behrs ,the French actress—at least, the young lady was with a man who looked very much like him.

Tony Martin, supposedly soooooo in love with Betty Avery Drown, was at the Chanteclair two nights in a row with Cyd Charisse.

This is what I call a nice birthday present. Barbara Stanwyck, whose birthday is the 16th, is receiving a purse filled with money from Bob Taylor to buy what she wants.

Don "Red" Berry reported forgetting it all with Carole Matthews, Paramount starlet, at Musso-Frank's. She was wearing a polo coat—not a white mink.

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, July 15—Hot, but very hot, is the deal now being negotiated with Mary Pickford and Universal-International to buy "One Touch of Venus", the Broadway hit which starred Mary Martin a few years ago.

Mary Pickford

And here is the interesting angle if the deal goes through, and it seems very likely that it will. The picture will be released as an independent venture, with Hedy Lamarr and Dick Haymes in the starring roles. John Beck and Lester Cowan, the latter is Miss Pickford's business partner, will make it for William Goetz.

Hedy, of course, would play the Mary Martin role and Dick, who recently joined Universal-International, the John Boles role. The part calls for a fine singing voice and Dick has that.

If Margaret O'Brien weren't such a good little actress and the juvenile idol of millions, I' d say she could certainly ham it up in "Big City".

For the price of a theater ticket, you'll hear Missy O'Brien give with a ducky Yiddish dialect, a dash of an Italian accent and then go heavy on an Irish brogue. All of which is guaranteed to have the customers in the Aisles gurgling "how cute!"

You see, in this one, Margaret plays a waif adopted, in turn, by an Irish cop, a Protestant minister and a rabbi. I hope you don't think I'm being facetious about the darling of MGM. I'm one of her most ardent admirers.

I have always believed that Jimmy Stewart would have the lead in "Harvey" when it is made on the screen, and the gossip now is that it's cinched. But William Goetz, who should know, says no one is definite for the part.

"Jimmy," said Bill, " Would be good, but he's just one of many. Besides, we're not going to make the picture next next summer, which gives us plenty of time to make our choice."

I still believe that Jimmy has the role in his vest pocket. He makes no secret that he wants to play Elwood Dowd.

Milton Sperling is very frank in saying that he has indefinitely postponed "The Children", the story of the displaced children in Germany. He says his is a small independent company and it's too expensive to make a picture in Europe now. The whole junket, he feels, would be impractical.

I had also heard that Billy Wilder and Charlie Brackett were postponing their picture, "Operation Candy Bar", bu this they deny. They of course will only take location shots in Germany and do not intend to import any actors.

Chatter in Hollywood: A woman who says she is the mother of one of our well known actresses, has paid me several visits and called many times. She says she has written a book and that the woman the actress is introducing as her mother has no parental claim.

The actress denies the story. In my business I hear so many strange things. Some people have hallucinations. others tell the truth. However, I feel this woman will stop at nothing to get her case before the public.

Unless you have a memory like an elephant, it won't mean anything to you that a beautiful woman named Leni Lynn is the toast of the current opera season at Covent Gardens in London.

But maybe you will recall Leni as the little Italian school girl from Jersey City who was sent to Hollywood about 10 years ago by the schools kids of her home town who pitched in their dimes, nickels and pennies to start her on a Hollywood career.

Her voice was beautiful, but somehow she never got started. When MGM didn't pick up her option, she was broken hearted and decided to leave Hollywood. What do you bet, she won't get another bid now she's the belle of the London opera?

This I love!

Gene Autry's horse Champion and his leading filly in "The Strawberry Roan" have pffffft and this might be funny except that Columbia is losing a lot of costly shootin' time.

It's very important to the story that the two nags behave like spring is in bloom and like they are each other's oats—I suppose you would put it, delicately.

Everything was peachy while they were on location, but now the company is back at the studio, Champ and the lady whose name is Sweetheart have developed a downright aversion to each other.

Well, this isn't the first romance Hollywood has broken up.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Ruth Warrick and Merrill Pye are still that away, and I'm one that thinks they'll marry one of these days.

There's not only David Rose in June Haver's life, but another David, to whom she telephones long distance.

Marie Allison who looks an awful lot like Lila Leeds, who looks like Lana Turner, with Steve Crane at Sportsman's Lodge. He sure sticks to one type.

Kahtryn Grayson and Johnny ohnston have already bought wedding rings. They'll have a double ring ceremony when they take the big step August 2.

Mark Stevens at the Dells last night with Patti Behrs ,the French actress—at least, the young lady was with a man who looked very much like him.

Don "Red" Berry reported forgetting it all with Carole Matthews, Paramount starlet, at Musso-Frank's. She was wearing a polo coat—not a white mink.

Soviet Cotton

LONDON — (AP) — Selective cotton planting has begun in the Soviet Republics of Central Asia, says a Tass report. The total area planted to cotton this year will equal 3,667,500 acres, 414,000 acres more than last year.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this means to thank our friends and neighbors for the kindness extended to us during the illness and following the death of our beloved son and brother, Ralph Swetzer. We wish especially to thank the Rev. Regis Larkin, the choir of St. Michael's Church, Frostburg, those who sent floral tributes, and those who loaned cars for the funeral.

Father, Brothers, and Sisters.

IN MEMORIAM

In remembrance of our loving husband and father, Thos. Broadstock, who passed away July 15, 1944.

What is home without a father?
All things this world may send,
But when we lost our loving father,
We lost our dearest friend.
He worked so hard to keep us—
Never did complain;
Where could you ever find
Such a father again?
So treat him with kindness—
Give him a smile,
Tell him we all love him;
Make his life worthwhile.
For we had a wonderful father,
Who was one of the best,
When God took him home
For Eternal Rest.

Sadly missed by his Wife and Family.

In loving remembrance of our beloved mother and wife, Susie O'Neal, who departed this life one year ago today, July 16, 1946.

The door was opened and she passed through;
Some day we must pass through that same door, too;
And then we will meet her face to face,
And she'll clasp us again in her fond embrace.
Though our hearts are lonely, heavy and sad,
The hope of that meeting doth make us glad,
And we'll cherish in memory her life and love
Till we meet in the temple grand above.

Loving Husband and Family.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this means to thank our friends and neighbors for the kindness extended to us during the illness and following the death of our beloved son and brother, Ralph Sweitzer. We wish especially to thank the Rev. Regis Larkin, the choir of St. Michael's Church, Frostburg, those who sent floral tributes, and those who loaned cars for the funeral.

Father, Brothers, and Sisters.

IN MEMORIAM

In remembrance of our loving husband and father, Thos. Broadstock, who passed away July 18, 1944.

What is home without a father?
All things this world may send,
But when we lost our loving father,
We lost our dearest friend.
He worked so hard to keep us—
Never did complain;
Where could you ever find
Such a father again?
So treat him with kindness—
Give him a smile,
Tell him we all love him;
Make his life worthwhile.
For we had a wonderful father,
Who was one of the best,
When God took him home
For Eternal Rest.

Sadly missed by his Wife and Family.

In loving remembrance of our beloved mother and wife, Susie O'Neal, who departed this life one year ago today, July 16, 1946.

The door was opened and she passed through;
Some day we must pass through that same door, too;
And then we will meet her face to face,
And she'll clasp us again in her fond embrace.
Though our hearts are lonely, heavy and sad,
The hope of that meeting doth make us glad,
And we'll cherish in memory her life and love
Till we meet in the temple grand above.

Loving Husband and Family.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Mary Katherine Dawson, Plaintiff, vs. Irvin Thomas Dawson, Defendant.

No. 20041 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce a vinculo matrimonii, divorcing the plaintiff from the defendant. The bill states that the parties were married at Hagerstown, Maryland, on December 6th, 1941; that no children were born of said marriage; that defendant deserted and abandoned the plaintiff without just cause or reason, and that said desertion has continued uninterrupted for over eighteen months and is final and deliberate and beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation; that the plaintiff is a resident of Allegany County, Maryland, whereas the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland.

It is thereupon this 24th. day of June, 1947, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, in Equity, ordered that the plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County once a week for four successive weeks, before the 26th. day of July, 1947, giving notice to the absent defendant of the object and substance of this bill, and warning him to be and appear in this court in person or by solicitor on or before the 19th day of July, 1947, and show cause why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

Market Suffers Second Average Dip In 14 Consecutive Stock Sessions

NEW YORK, July 15. (AP)—The climbing stock market today suffered its second average dip in 14 straight sessions although the retreat was far from unanimous and assorted favorities continued to post new highs for the year or longer.

Dealings slowed at intervals and transfers for the full proceedings tapered to 1,180,000 shares from Monday's 1,660,000 which were a peak since May 19. It was the tenth successive day in which the million-mark was exceeded.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was off .1 of a point at 67.6, first slip since last Wednesday. It was another broad market, 1,034 issues registering. Of these, 465 fell and 346 rose.

Ahead were General Motors, Virginia-Carolina Chemical and Public Service of N. J.

Down a point or so were U. S. Steel at 75, Bethlehem 90, Youngstown Sheet 68¼.

In the Curb modest improvement was shown for Atlas Plywood and Unexcelled Chemicals. Turnover here was 280,000 shares versus 420,000 yesterday.

The First World Bank bonds advanced to substantial premiums in initial dealings in the bond market.

In unusually heavy trading the long-term 3s closed at 102⅝ after reaching 103⅛ early, and the short-terms 2⅛s at 101 11-32 after moving to 102. The two issues, totaling $250,000,000, were publicly offered at par and almost immediately oversubscribed.

U. S. Governments held steady in the over-the-counter market, the victory loan 2½s of '67-'72 remaining at 102 23-32 bid.

Helgoland, once Germany's sentinel in the North sea, which the British recently blew up, came into German hands in 1890 when Great Britain traded it for the big island of Zanzibar, off the west coast of Africa. The action brought sharp criticism in Germany, and a witticism that the Germans had received "a single trouser button for a whole suit of clothes."

A total of 90 meters will be installed on Main Street from the Moose Home to the Examiner office. Some will also be installed on Washington Street and on Winchester Avenue.

The meters are furnished by the Mico Meter Company of Covington, Ky., and are installed at no cost to the town. The total cost is approximately $5400.

The revenue from the meters will be divided 25% to the town and 75% to the meter company until the cost of the meters and installation is paid. After that time all revenue from the meters will be taken by the town.

The meters are the type that will take any amount from one cent to ten cents. One cent will pay for 12 minutes and 10 cents will pay for two hours.

No. 20041 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce a vinculo matrimonii, divorcing the plaintiff from the defendant. The bill states that the parties were married at Hagerstown, Maryland, on December 6th, 1941; that no children were born of said marriage; that defendant deserted and abandoned the plaintiff without just cause or reason, and that said desertion has continued uninterrupted for over eighteen months and is final and deliberate and beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation; that the plaintiff is a resident of Allegany County, Maryland, whereas the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland.

It is thereupon this 24th. day of June, 1947, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, in Equity, ordered that the plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County once a week for four successive weeks, before the 26th. day of July, 1947, giving notice to the absent defendant of the object and substance of this bill, and warning him to be and appear in this court in person or by solicitor on or before the 19th day of July, 1947, and show cause why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

Market Suffers Second Average Dip In 14 Consecutive Stock Sessions

NEW YORK, July 15. (AP)—The climbing stock market today suffered its second average dip in 14 straight sessions although the retreat was far from unanimous and assorted favorities continued to post new highs for the year or longer.

Dealings slowed at intervals and transfers for the full proceedings tapered to 1,180,000 shares from Monday's 1,660,000 which were a peak since May 19. It was the tenth successive day in which the million-mark was exceeded.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was off .1 of a point at 67.6, first slip since last Wednesday. It was another broad market, 1,034 issues registering. Of these, 465 fell and 346 rose.

Ahead were General Motors, Virginia-Carolina Chemical and Public Service of N. J.

Down a point or so were U. S. Steel at 75, Bethlehem 90, Youngstown Sheet 68¼.

In the Curb modest improvement was shown for Atlas Plywood and Unexcelled Chemicals. Turnover here was 280,000 shares versus 420,000 yesterday.

The First World Bank bonds advanced to substantial premiums in initial dealings in the bond market.

In unusually heavy trading the long-term 3s closed at 102⅝ after reaching 103⅛ early, and the short-terms 2½s at 101 11-32 after moving to 102. The two issues, totaling $250,000,000, were publicly offered at par and almost immediately oversubscribed.

U. S. Governments held steady in the over-the-counter market, the victory loan 2½s of '67-'72 remaining at 102 23-32 bid.

Helgoland, once Germany's sentinel in the North sea, which the British recently blew up, came into German hands in 1890 when Great Britain traded it for the big island of Zanzibar, off the west coast of Africa. The action brought sharp criticism in Germany, and a witticism that the Germans had received "a single trouser button for a whole suit of clothes."

County Infirmary Work Will Start By September 1

Structure To Be Non-Combustible

Construction of Allegany County's new infirmary will start not later than the first of September with bids to be opened about the middle of August, Albert S. Paye, county engineer, said yesterday after a resolution for the sale of a $250,000 bond issue to finance the structure was adopted by the Board of County Commissioners.

Plans for the infirmary were prepared by Saxe, Williar and Robertson, Baltimore consulting engineers and architects, and Paye said the building will be of non-combustible construction.

The infirmary will be built of concrete block with the main entrance to be treated with limestone. The name "Allegany County Infirmary" will be cut into the limestone above the doorway. A driveway will encompass the building.

Accommodations for 115

Paye said the infirmary will have accommodations for 115 persons—90 adults and 16 juveniles.

According to the plans, an ambulance entrance will be provided for in the basement, which also will house a laundry, dishwashing facilities, boiler room, coal bunkers, storage space and a room for patients' belongings.

The main entrance will open to a lobby with a waiting room on one side and an office on the other. Juvenile wards and recreation rooms, one of each for boys and one for girls, occupy either end of the first floor. There also are rooms and wards for adults on the first floor and separate toilet facilities for each. A dining room, doctor's office, examination room, nurses' room, refrigerator room, kitchen, medicine storage space, linen storage, utility and storage rooms also occupy the first floor.

Large Sun Deck

A majority of rooms and wards will be located on the second floor and one feature will be a large sun deck floored with quarry tile. Separate toilet facilities for men and women, linen storage and utility space will be provided.

The main stairway will be located in the center of the building near an elevator, and there will be fire towers at either end.

The resolution providing for the sale of bonds allows an interest rate not to exceed three per cent. Paye was authorized to advertise for bids.

Frank A. Wolfhope, auditor to the River Commission appeared before the Board, and stated he will give assistance needed in auditing the figures and preparing whatever reports are desired.

In the meantime, the Board was informed that two state auditors have arrived here to conduct the complete audit as requested of the State Auditing Department by the Upper Potomac River Commission. They are Michael J. Potthast and William L. Canton, state auditor's representatives, and have established an office on the second floor of the Union Street County Building where they will check the records.

A 21-year-old Green Spring, W. Va., man was admitted to Allegany Hospital last night for treatment of injuries suffered, he said, when he was kicked in the face by a horse.

Attaches said the man, Raymond Duckworth, was treated for a slight laceration on the face and admitted for observation. They said his condition was good.

Isaac Judy, 35, 309 Pulaski Street, was admitted to Memorial Hospital early last night for treatment of a possible fracture of the nose.

The Buchanan Lumber Company worker told attaches he was hurt at work when a piece of wood flew from a machine and struck his nose. The wood was removed and the severe laceration treated in surgery last night.

Elizabeth Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Campbell, Midland, was treated at Miners Hospital, Frostburg, last night, for a lacerated scalp, suffered when she fell from the front porch at her residence.

Also treated in Allegany Hospital yesterday were Carolyn Hare, 9, 105 Wills Creek Avenue, for a slight laceration on the left leg; Michael Zollner, 9, Ridgeley, W. Va., after he stepped on a piece of glass and cut his foot, and Robert McFadden, 4, 217 Williams Street, after he accidentally drank a slight quantity of cleaning fluid.

John Hillegas, 57, Salisbury, Pa., a Kelly-Springfield Tire Company employe, was admitted to Memorial Hospital last night for X-rays and treatment of possible chest injuries. Hillegas, who complained of some pain in the chest, said he was hit in the ribs by a truck handle.

Michael Long, 3½, 518 Ridgewood Avenue, was treated in Memorial Hospital last night for bruises on the head. The lad was injured, attaches were told, when he fell from a banister and struck his head on a concrete floor. X-rays will be taken today.

Police Get Device To Record Fire Calls

Closer co-operation between the Cumberland Police and Fire Departments will be possible as a result of the installation of a fire call punch register in police headquarters yesterday.

The register, Fire Chief Reid C. Hoenicka said, is equipped with a bell in order to indicate the location of all fire calls in this city.

The device also registers the call visually by punching holes in a tape to indicate alarms turned in from alarm boxes.

The installation of the alarm device will make closer co-operation possible by giving the police department the approximate location of calls from box alarms so that a cruiser may be dispatched to the scene if necessary.

Similar devices were installed recently to make permanent records of all calls in the city's four fire departments.

State Police Seek Sleeping Quarters

Col. Beverly Ober, superintendent of the State Police, said last night that because a new State Police barracks cannot be built here until building costs decrease, an effort is being made to rent a house to be used for sleeping purposes by troopers assigned to Barracks C.

The administrative and communications center would be maintained at the present barracks, according to Col. Ober. He added, however, that high rents so far have prevented a suitable building from being rented and that troopers in the meantime must continue living in the overcrowded barracks.

Demurrer Filed In Bowling Green Corporation Suit

Constitutionality Of Law Being Tested

A demurrer was filed in Circuit Court yesterday in the equity suit filed by three residents of Bowling Green on May 24, challenging the validity and constitutionality of an act passed by the General Assembly setting up Bowling Green as a tax area and incorporating the community for special purposes.

The demurrer was filed for the Board of Managers of Bowling Green, by W. Earle Cobey and William R. Carscaden, their attorneys, while the original bill of complaint was filed for Howard Painter, W. L. Maddocks and Stephen Brown, residents and taxpayers of the community.

The suit is filed against Samuel S. Smith, Calvin R. Ayers, J. Frederick Walton, George T. Steigerwald, Clement C. May, Evans L. Feltner, Ernest E. McCullough, Harold E. Northrup and Ellsworth F. Brewer, individually and as the Board of Managers of Bowling Green.

The plantiffs contend that the law passed setting up the community as a special tax area with the tax collector of District No. 1 to collect special community taxes is not proper, is invalid and is unconstitutional.

In the demurrer the defendants contend the law is not inconsistent with the constitution, that the treasurer for the community can be bonded, and that the organization of the community as a tax area constitutes a public corporation.

The Court will set a date for a hearing in the case after which a ruling on the constitutionality of the law be handed down in the form of a Court opinion, attorneys said.

Young Soldier Gets Annulment In Circuit Court

Fraud Charged In Forced Marriage

A decree was signed in Circuit Court yesterday by Chief Judge William A. Huster, granting an anulment to John E. Stickley, 19, in a bill of complaint filed for him by his mother and next friend, Elliott Stickley, against Jane Elizabeth Parrish Stickley, 186 Wineow Street.

Testimony showed that Stickley, whose home is at 158 Polk Street, married Jane Elizabeth Parrish here January 27, 1947, after she had formerly charged him with being the father of an unborn child and had preferred charges against him contriving and conspiring to force the youth into a marriage contract.

Stickley has been in the Army since November 8, 1945, and it was shown that he lived with his wife less than a week after the marriage.

In view of the circumstances and evidence as to the woman's conduct the Court dissolved the marriage.

A decree was signed for another soldier, Delbert M. Clark, of Barton, now stationed at Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio, Judge Huster granted him a divorce from Carol E. Clark who now lives in New Orleans, La.

The young man informed the Court he married the girl at Pyote, Tex., May 14, 1944, and they separated July, 1944 and have not lived together since. While stationed in Germany, he explained, he made arrangements and asked his wife to come there and live with him, but she refused. He charged she had become interested in Jehovah's Witnesses, did not like the Army, and refused to live with him, even after he returned to this country.

Four other divorce actions were docketed yesterday as follows: Katherine Rock, vs. Edward Charles Rock; Mary Snyder, vs. Francis E. Snyder; Evelyn Waneta Sturtz, vs. Robert D. Sturtz, Jr., and Anna Mae Deetz, vs. John C. Deetz, Jr.

Zoning Board Will Hear Appeal Tonight

The Board of Zoning Appeals will meet tonight at 7:30 in City Hall to hear an appeal for the granting of an occupancy permit to T. L. Richards and James Alfred Avirett, trustees for the Charles Langer estate, for use of premises at 501 North Centre Street and the vacant lot at the rear for an office, store and cleaning plant.

The application was denied July 2 by City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer because the site, located at the corner of Necessity and Valley Streets, is in a Residential C zoning district.

Virgil M. Benson has been granted a permit to construct a building to be used for a tavern on Lots 35, 36 and 37, Lexington Avenue, at an estimated cost of $1,800. The one-story 60 by 32 structure will have a concrete block foundation and walls, and a roof of asphalt shingles. Work will be done by the owner.

A permit was granted to Joseph T. Sirna, 1218 Virginia Avenue, to build a six-room brick house on Lot 71, South Street, at an estimated cost of $6,000. The one and a half-story structure will have a concrete block foundation and a composition roof. Work will be done by the owner.

Amnesia Victim Is Well Known In Wilmington

Fourth Time She's Sought Assistance

It was indicated last night that authorities in Wilmington, Del., may not be interested in returning Miss Elizabeth Gurney, amnesia victim, who sought police assistance here Monday, to that city. Authorities there said "she seems to be making a habit of going to distant places and then waiting for someone to send for her."

In telephone conversations with the Wilmington News-Journal the Cumberland News was told last night that she has been returned to Wilmington on previous occasions from Florida, New York and Boston, Mass., under "much the same circumstances."

Described as "an intelligent woman with a colorful history," the Wilmington newspaper said, "she was born in India, a daughter of a Baptist Missionary who returned his family to this country when she was a young girl and settled in Minnesota, about 1890. Sometime in the 1900's she came to Wilmington, and studied art with a colony of artists under the direction of Howard Pyle.

"Later she took a job on a Wilmington newspaper as a proof reader and sometime after that worked as a reporter and woman feature writer.

"She was converted to the Catholic faith," the story continued, "and entered a convent at Emmittsburg, Md. After taking only preliminary vows, and staying in the convent about a year she left there and gave up the idea of that career. She worked in stores as a clerk and did some social work and work for the Red Cross.

"More recently," they reported, "she has been living on funds from an Old Age Pension."

Her address in Wilmington was given as 405 Washington Street, where she has a room with Mrs. Ella Higgins. Her room rent is paid for by the Old Age Pension Fund.

The Police in Wilmington, the Red Cross, and others have gone to her assistance on other occasions when she turned up in some distant place, but this time, authorities in Wilmington indicate they are not interested.

Miss Gurney walked into City Police headquarters here Monday morning at 7:30 o'clock and told Officer Charles D. Manges she did not know who she was or where she was from. She asked for help.

Officer Manges took her to the County Jail, where she rested, bathed and ate. She was described by local authorities as being well and neatly dressed, seemingly intelligent, quiet but in a sort of daze. About supper time, she told Deputy Sheriff William Chappel her name and said she was from Wilmington.

Yesterday, she remained quiet and appeared in good spirits authorities at the County Jail said. Deputy Sheriff Edgar M. Lewis said last night authorities in Wilmington had been contacted but nothing had been heard from them, so far as the sheriff's office was concerned, and the woman is still in the County Jail.

Youth To Be Questioned In Theft Of Watch

A youth booked as Francis Leo Jones, 21, Central Y.M.C.A., was held in City Jail last night for questioning in connection with the theft of a watch, according to Acting Assistant Chief of Police B. Frank Gaffney. The watch, taken from a South Cumberland home, was recovered yesterday in a local pawn shop. Officers L. D. Downey and E. M. Powell made the arrest.

Louis Donius, this city, was booked for investigation following his arrest early yesterday morning by Lt. James E. Van and Officer P. M. Crabtree.

Ethel Sponaugle, 743 Maryland Avenue, was docketed on a charge of disorderly conduct and a hearing was scheduled today. She was arrested on a warrant obtained by Mrs. Charles Tingler. Sgt. R. R. Johnston made the arrest.

James R. Izzett, Route 2, was booked for State Police. State Trooper Robert Henline made the arrest.

Local 26 To Resume Contract Talks Today

Negotiations on changes in the contract between Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America, CIO, and the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company will be resumed this morning at 9 o'clock, A. E. Johnson, president, reported last night.

Paul Weiker, District field representative, will assist in the negotiations, he added.

During the first round of discussion on some 23 suggested changes in the contract, 15 issues were set aside for further discussion, Johnson added.

The negotiating committee will present a report on progress at a meeting of the local Sunday at 2:30 p. m.

DROWNED—Two Cumberland men, Thomas D. Stump, (left) 31, veteran of World War II, and Charles Cornelius, (right) 73, retired, both of 919 Maryland Avenue were drowned early yesterday, when a small boat in which they were attempting to cross the South Branch of the Potomac River capsized at Kuykendall Crossing, near Romney. A third man, Allen J. Speir, 717 Greene Street, who was in the boat was able to save himself. Stump's aged mother, Mrs. Thomas C. Stump, was standing on the shore a few feet away, when the men went down.

Two Local Men Drown In River When Boat Upsets

One Of Victims Was War Veteran

The South Branch of the Potomac River claimed the lives of two more local men yesterday, making a total of four to drown in the swollen stream within three days.

The victims yesterday were Thomas D. Stump, 31-year-old veteran of World War II, and Charles Cornelius, 73, retired old-age-pensioner, both of 919 Maryland Avenue.

The two men had attended a carnival here Monday night and were en route to the farm home of Stump's father across the river at Kuykendall Crossing, near Romney. They were accompanied by Allen J. Speir, 717 Greene Street, and Stump's mother, Mrs. Rose Stump. Both Stump and Speir worked Monday at the Celanese plant here.

Mrs. Stump said yesterday Cornelius had roomed at her home for the past ten years, and that the three men were taking her to the Stump farm, from where she planned to go on to Moorefield early yesterday morning.

The party arrived at the Kuykendall home at the Crossing at about 3 a. m. and obtained the key to a small boat owned by David Kuykendall. Stump took his mother across the stream first, she stated, and then returned for the two men. As the boat neared the bank where Mrs. Stump was standing, it suddenly capsized, she said, and all three men went overboard. It was dark and she could not see clearly what happened, but believed one of the men was rocking the boat.

Speir, who survived, told authorities the boat capsized and thinking Stump could swim and Cornelius could not, started to aid the older man when Stump grabbed him about the neck and struggled. All three went under, Speir said. Coming up, Speir swam for shore leaving the other men.

According to A. R. Russell, Hampshire county coroner, who investigated, neither of the two drowned men could swim. He said they drowned in water averaging about four feet deep, only four or five feet from shore.

Attracted by Mrs. Stump's screams, David and Garrett Kuykendall and a man identified as James Alkire ran to the scene. They recovered Stump's body within 20 minutes, but efforts to revive him by artificial respiration failed.

They found the body of Cornelius about an hour and 20 minutes after the accident.

Cpl. E. R. Roush of the Moorefield Detachment of West Virginia State Police, arrived at the scene less than an half hour after the tragedy occurred and investigated. He said there would be no further investigation of the accident and that a verdict of accidental drowning had been given. Reports indicated, he said that one or more of the men had been drinking.

Both bodies were removed to the Thrush Funeral Home in Romney, W. Va., and it was indicated there last night that the body of Cornelius will be taken to Brunswick where he lived until 10 years ago when he came to Cumberland. The body of Stump will be taken to Hafer's Funeral Home here today.

Stump is a war veteran, having served overseas as a staff sergeant with General Mark Clark's Fifth Army in Italy. He had been employed in the Spinning Department at Celanese before entering service in 1942, and returned there when discharged from the Army.

Stump is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Stump, two brothers, Woodrow Stump, Wiley Ford, W. Va., and James Stump, of Akron, O.; two sisters, Mrs. Beulah Mellon, Ridgeley, W. Va., and Mrs. Mary Racey, Romney; and a daughter, Janet Stump, Wiley Ford.

38,272 Maryland Retailers Now Collect Taxes

1,457 Licensed In Allegany County

A total of 38,272 Maryland retailers have been issued licenses for collecting Retail Sales Tax, according to James J. Lacy, state comptroller, and this number is nearly 12,000 short of the estimated 50,000 made sometime ago by various state officials.

Allegany county leads all counties except Baltimore with 1457 licenses issued. Baltimore county has 2628, while Baltimore city accounts for 20,249, or more than half the entire state. The total for all the counties is 17,593. Washington county has 1,342, Frederick county 1,121, and Garrett county has 324. Others vary from 214 in Calvert upward.

Under a new ruling, issued by Edward F. Engelbert, attorney for the Maryland Retail Sales Tax Division, ice cream bars, popsickles, and prepared sundaes are not taxable for consumption off the premises. However, if they are consumed on the premises, they are taxable. All beverages, such as milk shakes and soft drinks, if taken off the premises are taxable.

"The impression seems to have gotton out," Engelbert said, "that beer and liquors taken off the premises are not taxable. That is incorrect. Such beverages are taxable either on or off the premises."

Representatives are now traveling about the state in an effort to learn of any difficulties and misunderstandings about the tax, it was stated. They report that in most cases the law is functioning with little confusion on the part of either merchant or taxpayer.

Some merchants have failed to obtain their license and reports of these cases indicate that in most instances, the reason for their failure is ignorance of the law. The law provides penalties for non-compliance with its provisions and any refusal on the part of an individual to take out a license and collect the tax will bring about prompt action by the Comptroller, officials explain.

Five and dime stores report their sales slip plan is working out satisfactorily and customers generally approve the plan, which enables them to make five ten-cent purchases for their penny tax.

Creegan Ends Service As Tax Collector

Patrick J. Creegan, 521 Patterson Avenue, terminated his active service yesterday as a deputy collector for the Bureau of Internal Revenue here as a result of reduced federal appropriations, according to Richard J. Stakem, division chief.

Creegan, who joined the Internal Revenue service here in April, 1943, as a zone deputy collector, is one of 187 members of the Maryland collection force whose positions were eliminated yesterday. Approximately 4,500 Internal Revenue posts throughout the nation were abolished at the same time.

Stakem said the local force now consists of three deputy collectors, including himself, and a small clerical staff.

Returns From Vacation Trip

Club Licensee Is Found Guilty On Liquor Charge

Sentences Will Be Imposed This Morning

A guilty verdict was handed down yesterday afternoon by Magistrate Frank A. Perdew in Trial Magistrates Court against A. Joseph Chorpenning who, with Ralph E. Patch, was accused of giving an alcoholic beverage to a minor girl.

Patch, commandant of Francis K. Finan Detachment, Marine Corps League, entered a plea of guilty to the charge and admitted he gave Florence Lee, 100 Roberts Street, a drink of gin in the Marine Club, South Mechanic Street, on Friday night.

The club's liquor license was obtained under Chorpenning's name and Magistrate Perdew said that under the liquor law the licensee is responsible.

The Magistrate said he will announce his decisions as to sentences in the case at 9:30 o'clock this morning.

Authorities pointed out that Chorpenning, because his name is on the liquor license, is automatically charged with the offense without being directly involved in the illegal act.

Hearing in the case was held yesterday morning with Chorpenning, represented by Attorney John T. Fey, pleading not guilty.

The girl, who said Patch gave her a drink of gin in the club, added that she remembered nothing after drinking it until after she arrived home without her shoes.

Patch, 25, testified he met the girl in a South Mechanic Street restaurant late Friday afternoon and asked her to go to a movie with him. She consented and, after seeing part of the feature picture, they returned to the restaurant, he reported.

Later, Patch declared, the girl accompanied him to Firemen's Hall, Ridgeley, in a taxi and then to Potomac Inn in West Virginia, where they stayed before taking another cab back to Cumberland, stopping at the local club which had been closed during the evening.

Patch told Magistrate Perdew the girl, who friends reportedly said was 22 years old, asked for a "drink of sloe gin and a water chaser" The club did not have the drink on hand so she took a one ounce glass of straight gin, he said. Then, Patch, remarked, he got a cab and took the girl to Roberts Street and left her out near her home.

Patch said he returned to the club and did not see the Lee girl the remainder of the evening. Chorpenning, absent from the club on Friday night, was termed an innocent victim of circumstances.

Assistant States Attorney Paul M. Fletcher prosecuted.

United States Senator Millard E. Tydings informed Mayor Thomas S. Vehicle Overturns Near Romney, W. Va.

Three persons were injured, one seriously, when the truck in which they were riding on Route 28, near Romney, W. Va., early last evening, left the highway, crashed against and knocked over a tree and then overturned, pinning two of the occupants beneath the vehicle.

Most seriously injured was Eugene Payne, 21, Shanks, W. Va., who was admitted to Memorial Hospital suffering from injuries to the left side of the body.

Attaches said his condition was good and added he suffered from possible cracked ribs and possible fractures of the hip and upper left leg. X-rays will be taken today to determine the extent of his injuries.

Also injured was Milton Luther Davidson, Jr., 24, Augusta, W. Va., identified by Trooper L. E. Proudfoot as the driver of the truck.

Local Girl Injured

Trooper Proudfoot said Davidson's foot was caught under the truck and added the man was treated by a Romney physician after he complained of pains in the back of the head.

The other occupant of the vehicle, Kathleen Wolford, 20, Route 2, Winifred Road, who lives at the Harry Wilson home there, was treated for a laceration of the left hand and a slight right foot injury. Trooper Proudfoot said she was thrown free when the vehicle overturned.

The trooper said the accident occurred at 6:50 p. m. (EST) on a straight stretch of road about one-fifth of a mile north of Romney when the truck, operated and owned by Davidson, left the right side of the road and plunged into a ditch.

Truck Overturns

The vehicle then crossed the intersection with Shawn Division Road, swung to the left of the highway and rolled down a bank, knocking over a tree in its path before turning over on its left side.

He said the empty truck traveled about 114 feet from the time it left the side of the road before coming to a stop.

Charges against the driver are still pending, the trooper said.

James Wright, 49, 110 South Street, an employe in the B. and O. roundhouse, was treated in Memorial Hospital last night for a bruised right hand, suffered when he dropped a bolt on it while at work.

Gibson Makes First Quarter Report

City operating expenses in the first quarter of the current fiscal year, which ended June 30, amounted to $153,395.80, and receipts from the city bingo tax totaled $677.95 in that period, City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson reported yesterday. The present fiscal year began April 1.

In his report on the city's receipts and disbursements for the first quarter, Gibson said that receipts amounted to $373,799.66, with the largest single item being collections of $183,043.94 in 1947-48 taxes.

Receipts from water rents, the next largest item, totaled $94,586.96, $6,803.55, police fines totaled $373$6,803.55; police fines totaled $3,340, and receipts from permits amounted to $1,038.60. The total realized from licenses was $20,818.71.

The cost of operating the city, $153,395.80, was the largest item listed under disbursements, which also included $39,100.81 for water operating expenses. Disbursements for the first quarter amounted to $332,-361.08.

Cash balance on hand as of June 30 totaled $326,992.49. That amount included $101,600.44 in the general fund; $152,009.87 in the water fund; $70,831.87 in the general improvement bond fund; $34.72 in the paving bond fund; $631.49 in the flood account; and $1,884.10 in the 1931 sewer bond fund.

With the July 24 deadline just eight days away, Gibson pointed out that more than half of the city taxes remain to be collected.

Collections as of yesterday totaled $300,283, while the final total is expected to be $710,400.

Tax payments are about on a par with former years, Gibson said. On July 15 last year $368,735.02 had been collected but the 1946 deadline was July 16.

The city auditor, predicting a rush to pay taxes during the last seven days before the deadline, recalled that during the two-day period last year near the deadline, almost $200,000 was collected.

Gerald Barbe, 303 Avirett Avenue, will be given a hearing in Ridgeley, W. Va., July 25 on a charge of "malicious assault" in connection with the injury suffered Sunday night by Roland Biller, 40, Route 3, Valley Road, Ridgeley authorities reported last night.

Barbe was released Monday night after he posted $1,000 bond before Justice of the Peace C. A. Jewell on the charge placed by Ridgeley authorities pending the outcome of Biller's injuries.

Magistrate Jewell said the attending physician informed him that Biller is suffering from a fractured skull.

Attaches of Memorial Hospital, to which Biller was admitted Sunday following the accident, reported the man's condition as improved last night, adding that he was "resting much better".

Police Chief Jesse Elkins, who preferred the charge, said Biller was injured when he fell and struck his head after being struck by a man he identified as Barbe, in front of a Railroad Street tavern in Ridgeley.

A. W. Logsdon, Cumberland, was committed to the Mineral County Jail for 20 days after a hearing Monday night before Magistrate Jewell on a drunk and disorderly charge preferred by Chief Elkins.

County Infirmary Work Will Start By September 1

Structure To Be Non-Combustible

Construction of Allegany County's new infirmary will start not later than the first of September with bids to be opened about the middle of August, Albert S. Paye, county engineer, said yesterday after a resolution for the sale of a $250,000 bond issue to finance the structure was adopted by the Board of County Commissioners.

Plans for the infirmary were prepared by Saxe, Williar and Robertson, Baltimore consulting engineers and architects, and Paye said the building will be of non-combustible construction.

The infirmary will be built of concrete block with the main entrance to be treated with limestone. The name "Allegany County Infirmary" will be cut into the limestone above the doorway. A driveway will encompass the building.

Accommodations for 115

Paye said the infirmary will have accommodations for 115 persons—90 adults and 16 juveniles.

According to the plans, an ambulance entrance will be provided for in the basement, which also will house a laundry, dishwashing facilities, boiler room, coal bunkers, storage space and a room for patients' belongings.

The main entrance will open to a lobby with a waiting room on one side and an office on the other. Juvenile wards and recreation rooms, one of each for boys and one for girls, occupy either end of the first floor. There also are rooms and wards for adults on the first floor and separate toilet facilities for each. A dining room, doctor's office, examination room, nurses' room, refrigerator room, kitchen, medicine storage space, linen storage, utility and storage rooms also occupy the first floor.

Large Sun Deck

A majority of rooms and wards will be located on the second floor and one feature will be a large sun deck floored with quarry tile. Separate toilet facilities for men and women, linen storage and utility space will be provided.

The main stairway will be located in the center of the building near an elevator, and there will be fire towers at either end.

The resolution providing for the sale of bonds allows an interest rate not to exceed three per cent. Paye was authorized to advertise for bids.

Frank A. Wolfhope, auditor to the River Commission appeared before the Board, and stated he will give assistance needed in auditing the figures and preparing whatever reports are desired.

In the meantime, the Board was informed that two state auditors have arrived here to conduct the complete audit as requested of the State Auditing Department by the Upper Potomac River Commission. They are Michael J. Potthast and William L. Canton, state auditor's representatives, and have established an office on the second floor of the Union Street County Building where they will check the records.

Police Get Device To Record Fire Calls

Closer co-operation between the Cumberland Police and Fire Departments will be possible as a result of the installation of a fire call punch register in police headquarters yesterday.

The register, Fire Chief Reid C. Hoenicka said, is equipped with a bell in order to indicate the location of all fire calls in this city.

The device also registers the call visually by punching holes in a tape to indicate alarms turned in from alarm boxes.

The installation of the alarm device will make closer co-operation possible by giving the police department the approximate location of calls from box alarms so that a cruiser may be dispatched to the scene if necessary.

Similar devices were installed recently to make permanent records of all calls in the city's four fire departments.

State Police Seek Sleeping Quarters

Col. Beverly Ober, superintendent of the State Police, said last night that because a new State Police barracks cannot be built here until building costs decrease, an effort is being made to rent a house to be used for sleeping purposes by troopers assigned to Barracks C.

The administrative and communications center would be maintained at the present barracks, according to Col. Ober. He added, however, that high rents so far have prevented a suitable building from being rented and that troopers in the meantime must continue living in the overcrowded barracks.

Demurrer Filed In Bowling Green Corporation Suit

Constitutionality Of Law Being Tested

A demurrer was filed in Circuit Court yesterday in the equity suit filed by three residents of Bowling Green on May 24, challenging the validity and constitutionality of an act passed by the General Assembly setting up Bowling Green as a tax area and incorporating the community for special purposes.

The demurrer was filed for the Board of Managers of Bowling Green, by W. Earle Cobey and William R. Carscaden, their attorneys, while the original bill of complaint was filed for Howard Painter, W. L. Maddocks and Stephen Brown, residents and taxpayers of the community.

The suit is filed against Samuel S. Smith, Calvin R. Ayers, J. Frederick Walton, George T. Steigerwald, Clement C. May, Evans L. Feltner, Ernest E. McCullough, Harold E. Northrup and Ellsworth F. Brewer, individually and as the Board of Managers of Bowling Green.

The plantiffs contend that the law passed setting up the community as a special tax area with the tax collector of District No. 1 to collect special community taxes is not proper, is invalid and is unconstitutional.

In the demurrer the defendants contend the law is not inconsistent with the constitution, that the treasurer for the community can be bonded, and that the organization of the community as a tax area constitutes a public corporation.

The Court will set a date for a hearing in the case after which a ruling on the constitutionality of the law be handed down in the form of a Court opinion, attorneys said.

Young Soldier Gets Annulment In Circuit Court

Fraud Charged In Forced Marriage

A decree was signed in Circuit Court yesterday by Chief Judge William A. Huster, granting an anulment to John E. Stickley, 19, in a bill of complaint filed for him by his mother and next friend, Elliott Stickley, against Jane Elizabeth Parrish Stickley, 186 Wineow Street.

Testimony showed that Stickley, whose home is at 158 Polk Street, married Jane Elizabeth Parrish here January 27, 1947, after she had formerly charged him with being the father of an unborn child and had preferred charges against him contriving and conspiring to force the youth into a marriage contract.

Stickley has been in the Army since November 8, 1945, and it was shown that he lived with his wife less than a week after the marriage.

In view of the circumstances and evidence as to the woman's conduct the Court dissolved the marriage.

A decree was signed for another soldier, Delbert M. Clark, of Barton, now stationed at Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio, Judge Huster granted him a divorce from Carol E. Clark who now lives in New Orleans, La.

The young man informed the Court he married the girl at Pyote, Tex., May 14, 1944, and they separated July, 1944 and have not lived together since. While stationed in Germany, he explained, he made arrangements and asked his wife to come there and live with him, but she refused. He charged she had become interested in Jehovah's Witnesses, did not like the Army, and refused to live with him, even after he returned to this country.

Four other divorce actions were docketed yesterday as follows: Katherine Rock, vs. Edward Charles Rock; Mary Snyder, vs. Francis E. Snyder; Evelyn Waneta Sturtz, vs. Robert D. Sturtz, Jr., and Anna Mae Deetz, vs. John C. Deetz, Jr.

Richards and James Alfred Avirett, trustees for the Charles Langer estate, for use of premises at 501 North Centre Street and the vacant lot at the rear for an office, store and cleaning plant.

The application was denied July 2 by City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer because the site, located at the corner of Necessity and Valley Streets, is in a Residential C zoning district.

Virgil M. Benson has been granted a permit to construct a building to be used for a tavern on Lots 35, 36 and 37, Lexington Avenue, at an estimated cost of $1,800. The one-story 60 by 32 structure will have a concrete block foundation and walls, and a roof of asphalt shingles. Work will be done by the owner.

Amnesia Victim Is Well Known In Wilmington

Fourth Time She's Sought Assistance

It was indicated last night that authorities in Wilmington, Del., may not be interested in returning Miss Elizabeth Gurney, amnesia victim, who sought police assistance here Monday, to that city. Authorities there said "she seems to be making a habit of going to distant places and then waiting for someone to send for her."

In telephone conversations with the Wilmington News-Journal the Cumberland News was told last night that she has been returned to Wilmington on previous occasions from Florida, New York and Boston, Mass., under "much the same circumstances."

Described as "an intelligent woman with a colorful history," the Wilmington newspaper said, "she was born in India, a daughter of a Baptist Missionary who returned his family to this country when she was a young girl and settled in Minnesota, about 1890. Sometime in the 1900's she came to Wilmington, and studied art with a colony of artists under the direction of Howard Pyle.

"Later she took a job on a Wilmington newspaper as a proof reader and sometime after that worked as a reporter and woman feature writer.

"She was converted to the Catholic faith," the story continued, "and entered a convent at Emmittsburg, Md. After taking only preliminary vows, and staying in the convent about a year she left there and gave up the idea of that career. She worked in stores as a clerk and did some social work and work for the Red Cross.

"More recently," they reported, "she has been living on funds from an Old Age Pension."

Her address in Wilmington was given as 405 Washington Street, where she has a room with Mrs. Ella Higgins. Her room rent is paid for by the Old Age Pension Fund.

The Police in Wilmington, the Red Cross, and others have gone to her assistance on other occasions when she turned up in some distant place, but this time, authorities in Wilmington indicate they are not interested.

Miss Gurney walked into City Police headquarters here Monday morning at 7:30 o'clock and told Officer Charles D. Manges she did not know who she was or where she was from. She asked for help.

Officer Manges took her to the County Jail, where she rested, bathed and ate. She was described by local authorities as being well and neatly dressed, seemingly intelligent, quiet but in a sort of daze. About supper time, she told Deputy Sheriff William Chappel her name and said she was from Wilmington.

Yesterday, she remained quiet and appeared in good spirits authorities at the County Jail said. Deputy Sheriff Edgar M. Lewis said last night authorities in Wilmington had been contacted but nothing had been heard from them, so far as the sheriff's office was concerned, and the woman is still in the County Jail.

DROWNED—Two Cumberland men, Thomas D. Stump, (left) 31, veteran of World War II, and Charles Cornelius, (right) 73, retired, both of 919 Maryland Avenue were drowned early yesterday, when a small boat in which they were attempting to cross the South Branch of the Potomac River capsized at Kuykendall Crossing, near Romney. A third man, Allen J. Speir, 717 Greene Street, who was in the boat was able to save himself. Stump's aged mother, Mrs. Thomas C. Stump, was standing on the shore a few feet away, when the men went down.

Two Local Men Drown In River When Boat Upsets

One Of Victims Was War Veteran

The South Branch of the Potomac River claimed the lives of two more local men yesterday, making a total of four to drown in the swollen stream within three days.

The victims yesterday were Thomas D. Stump, 31-year-old veteran of World War II, and Charles Cornelius, 73, retired old-age-pensioner, both of 919 Maryland Avenue.

The two men had attended a carnival here Monday night and were en route to the farm home of Stump's father across the river at Kuykendall Crossing, near Romney. They were accompanied by Allen J. Speir, 717 Greene Street, and Stump's mother, Mrs. Rose Stump. Both Stump and Speir worked Monday at the Celanese plant here.

Mrs. Stump said yesterday Cornelius had roomed at her home for the past ten years, and that the three men were taking her to the Stump farm, from where she planned to go on to Moorefield early yesterday morning.

The party arrived at the Kuykendall home at the Crossing at about 3 a. m. and obtained the key to a small boat owned by David Kuykendall. Stump took his mother across the stream first, she stated, and then returned for the two men. As the boat neared the bank where Mrs. Stump was standing, it suddenly capsized, she said, and all three men went overboard. It was dark and she could not see clearly what happened, but believed one of the men was rocking the boat.

Speir, who survived, told authorities the boat capsized and thinking Stump could swim and Cornelius could not, started to aid the older man when Stump grabbed him about the neck and struggled. All three went under, Speir said. Coming up, Speir swam for shore leaving the other men.

According to A. R. Russell, Hampshire county coroner, who investigated, neither of the two drowned men could swim. He said they drowned in water averaging about four feet deep, only four or five feet from shore.

Attracted by Mrs. Stump's screams, David and Garrett Kuykendall and a man identified as James Alkire ran to the scene. They recovered Stump's body within 20 minutes, but efforts to revive him by artificial respiration failed.

They found the body of Cornelius about an hour and 20 minutes after the accident.

Cpl. E. R. Roush of the Moorefield Detachment of West Virginia State Police, arrived at the scene less than an half hour after the tragedy occurred and investigated. He said there would be no further investigation of the accident and that a verdict of accidental drowning had been given. Reports indicated, he said that one or more of the men had been drinking.

Both bodies were removed to the Thrush Funeral Home in Romney, W. Va., and it was indicated there last night that the body of Cornelius will be taken to Brunswick where he lived until 10 years ago when he came to Cumberland. The body of Stump will be taken to Hafer's Funeral Home here today.

Stump is a war veteran, having served overseas as a staff sergeant with General Mark Clark's Fifth Army in Italy. He had been employed in the Spinning Department at Celanese before entering service in 1942, and returned there when discharged from the Army.

Stump is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Stump, two brothers, Woodrow Stump, Wiley Ford, W. Va., and James Stump, of Akron, O.; two sisters, Mrs. Beulah Mellon, Ridgeley, W. Va., and Mrs. Mary Racey, Romney; and a daughter, Janet Stump, Wiley Ford.

38,272 Maryland Retailers Now Collect Taxes

1,457 Licensed In Allegany County

A total of 38,272 Maryland retailers have been issued licenses for collecting Retail Sales Tax, according to James J. Lacy, state comptroller, and this number is nearly 12,000 short of the estimated 50,000 made sometime ago by various state officials.

Allegany county leads all counties except Baltimore with 1457 licenses issued. Baltimore county has 2628, while Baltimore city accounts for 20,249, or more than half the entire state. The total for all the counties is 17,593. Washington county has 1,342, Frederick county 1,121, and Garrett county has 324. Others vary from 214 in Calvert upward.

Under a new ruling, issued by Edward F. Engelbert, attorney for the Maryland Retail Sales Tax Division, ice cream bars, popsickles, and prepared sundaes are not taxable for consumption off the premises. However, if they are consumed on the premises, they are taxable. All beverages, such as milk shakes and soft drinks, if taken off the premises are taxable.

"The impression seems to have gotton out," Engelbert said, "that beer and liquors taken off the premises are not taxable. That is incorrect. Such beverages are taxable either on or off the premises."

Representatives are now traveling about the state in an effort to learn of any difficulties and misunderstandings about the tax, it was stated. They report that in most cases the law is functioning with little confusion on the part of either merchant or taxpayer.

Some merchants have failed to obtain their license and reports of these cases indicate that in most instances, the reason for their failure is ignorance of the law. The law provides penalties for non-compliance with its provisions and any refusal on the part of an individual to take out a license and collect the tax will bring about prompt action by the Comptroller, officials explain.

Five and dime stores report their sales slip plan is working out satisfactorily and customers generally approve the plan, which enables them to make five ten-cent purchases for their penny tax.

Creegan Ends Service As Tax Collector

Patrick J. Creegan, 521 Patterson Avenue, terminated his active service yesterday as a deputy collector for the Bureau of Internal Revenue here as a result of reduced federal appropriations, according to Richard J. Stakem, division chief.

Creegan, who joined the Internal Revenue service here in April, 1943, as a zone deputy collector, is one of 187 members of the Maryland collection force whose positions were eliminated yesterday. Approximately 4,500 Internal Revenue posts throughout the nation were abolished at the same time.

Stakem said the local force now consists of three deputy collectors, including himself, and a small clerical staff.

Club Licensee Is Found Guilty On Liquor Charge

Sentences Will Be Imposed This Morning

A guilty verdict was handed down yesterday afternoon by Magistrate Frank A. Perdew in Trial Magistrates Court against A. Joseph Chorpenning who, with Ralph E. Patch, was accused of giving an alcoholic beverage to a minor girl.

Patch, commandant of Francis K. Finan Detachment, Marine Corps League, entered a plea of guilty to the charge and admitted he gave Florence Lee, 100 Roberts Street, a drink of gin in the Marine Club, South Mechanic Street, on Friday night.

The club's liquor license was obtained under Chorpenning's name and Magistrate Perdew said that under the liquor law the licensee is responsible.

The Magistrate said he will announce his decisions as to sentences in the case at 9:30 o'clock this morning.

Authorities pointed out that Chorpenning, because his name is on the liquor license, is automatically charged with the offense without being directly involved in the illegal act.

Hearing in the case was held yesterday morning with Chorpenning, represented by Attorney John T. Fey, pleading not guilty.

The girl, who said Patch gave her a drink of gin in the club, added that she remembered nothing after drinking it until after she arrived home without her shoes.

Patch, 25, testified he met the girl in a South Mechanic Street restaurant late Friday afternoon and asked her to go to a movie with him. She consented and, after seeing part of the feature picture, they returned to the restaurant, he reported.

Later, Patch declared, the girl accompanied him to Firemen's Hall, Ridgeley, in a taxi and then to Potomac Inn in West Virginia, where they stayed before taking another cab back to Cumberland, stopping at the local club which had been closed during the evening.

Patch told Magistrate Perdew the girl, who friends reportedly said was 22 years old, asked for a "drink of sloe gin and a water chaser" The club did not have the drink on hand so she took a one ounce glass of straight gin, he said. Then, Patch, remarked, he got a cab and took the girl to Roberts Street and left her out near her home.

Patch said he returned to the club and did not see the Lee girl the remainder of the evening. Chorpenning, absent from the club on Friday night, was termed an innocent victim of circumstances.

Assistant States Attorney Paul M. Fletcher prosecuted.

He said the empty truck traveled about 114 feet from the time it left the side of the road before coming to a stop.

Charges against the driver are still pending, the trooper said.

In his report on the city's receipts and disbursements for the first quarter, Gibson said that receipts amounted to $373,799.66, with the largest single item being collections of $183,043.94 in 1947-48 taxes.

Receipts from water rents, the next largest item, totaled $94,586.96, $6,803.55, police fines totaled $373$6,803.55; police fines totaled $3,340, and receipts from permits amounted to $1,038.60. The total realized from licenses was $20,818.71.

The cost of operating the city, $153,395.80, was the largest item listed under disbursements, which also included $39,100.81 for water operating expenses. Disbursements for the first quarter amounted to $332,-361.08.

Cash balance on hand as of June 30 totaled $326,992.49. That amount included $101,600.44 in the general fund; $152,009.87 in the water fund; $70,831.87 in the general improvement bond fund; $34.72 in the paving bond fund; $631.49 in the flood account; and $1,884.10 in the 1931 sewer bond fund.

Tax payments are about on a par with former years, Gibson said. On July 15 last year $368,735.02 had been collected but the 1946 deadline was July 16.

The city auditor, predicting a rush to pay taxes during the last seven days before the deadline, recalled that during the two-day period last year near the deadline, almost $200,000 was collected.

Barbe was released Monday night after he posted $1,000 bond before Justice of the Peace C. A. Jewell on the charge placed by Ridgeley authorities pending the outcome of Biller's injuries.

Magistrate Jewell said the attending physician informed him that Biller is suffering from a fractured skull.

Attaches of Memorial Hospital, to which Biller was admitted Sunday following the accident, reported the man's condition as improved last night, adding that he was "resting much better".

Police Chief Jesse Elkins, who preferred the charge, said Biller was injured when he fell and struck his head after being struck by a man he identified as Barbe, in front of a Railroad Street tavern in Ridgeley.
